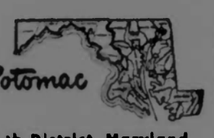
Along The Potomac



Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

My recent trip to Europe, for the purpose of obtaining current information on the Hungarian Refugee program to be used in consideration of legislation on this subject, proved enlightening. Specifically, I investigated our security measures and sought information on the exact nature of the persons who have been and are fleeing from Hungary. I was able to get some ideas for the use of the House Immigration Committee on the proportion of these people who are actually refugees fleeing in fear of danger to their lives or their personal freedom.

On our trip we visited Vienna and Berlin. I talked with our diplomatic representatives and security people, the representatives of the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration, our immigration authorities, the Red Cross, and Austrian citizens with no official positions.

In Berlin, I was impressed with the thoroughness of the examination given by the Germans. Of course, their problem, in many respects, is easier than our since they are Germans dealing with Germans.

In spite of the difficulties faced by our examiners in screening the Hungarian refugees, they are doing an excellent job. It does not appear that many real Communists are getting through. It is also important to note that many of the early arrivals who were obviously Communists or Communist sympathizers return to Hungary. Many of those who remain in the refugee camps are spotted by other refugees. Our security officials in Hungary believe that this is after all the best way of detecting the Communist.

From all the information we could gather from every source, it must be concluded that a large number of persons who have fled into Austria are not legitimate refugees. A large proportion of them are opportunists taking advantage of this situation to fulfill a long-held ambition to get to the United States. I believe a recent disturbance in England among the Hungarian refugees illustrates this attitude. Some 3,000 complained that they were misled in coming to Britain from Austria. They contended they came to England with the understanding that it would be a transit point for them to the United States. It seems to me that if these persons were legitimate refugees fleeing in fear of their lives they would welcome any decent place of refuge.

We also found that a large number of people coming over are illiterate and in extremely poor health. By poor health I do not mean merely the result of the ravages of the revolution and the hardship of their flight. Many of these people are obviously persons who have been in bad health for many years, and some have been inmates of mental institutions. Quite a few of the people coming across the border recently possess Hungarian passports. Nearly all of these who have such passports are very old people, or people unfit for work because of poor health.

Many of the refugees are reporting that they expect another outbreak sometime in the spring. There is good reason to suspect hostile outbreaks in other areas. It would appear well to consider how we could handle another situation should it arise in the future.

I believe that the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration is the proper agency to handle this problem on a permanent basis. This is the international organization in which 28 nations are cooperating in the movement of the people from overpopulated and underdeveloped areas into countries which need and can absorb more people. New life should be breathed in ICEM. Every effort should be made to increase the member nations to make more use of it and to make larger financial contributions to it.

I have introduced two bills to provide for improved legal services in the armed services. One bill amends the U. S. Code to provide that the Judge Advocate General and the Surgeon General are entitled to rank, pay and allowances of a lieutenant general while in service with the armed services. The other bill makes provisions for a legal corps similar to the medical corps in the various services with similar rank and pay.

My plea is: let's clean up the Potomac River now and provide the means of keeping it clean. It distressed me beyond measure to lead members of the interstate conference on water and pollution ... [illegible]

Louis L. Goldstein, president of the Maryland Senate, seemed to be thinking in terms of a Potomac River Valley TVA, which is, I assure you, a far cry from effective measures to control pollution. Little was accomplished by the wrangle over private vs. public power development except, perhaps, to demonstrate how unfamiliar some people are with the gravity of the pollution problem in the Potomac.

Of one thing I am certain, a majority of the people in my Congressional district are not interested in developing a Potomac River Valley TVA—but they are vitally interested in a clean river. Most of my people see in a TVA-type project only a useless and unnecessary inundation of thousands of acres of valley land the destruction of the C. and O. canal. For my own part, I am unequivocally opposed to a Potomac Valley TVA.

Funds for the construction of Veterans' hospitals are under House Appropriations Committee study. Last week I appeared before the Veterans Affairs committee urging its support of additional funds for construction of the new Veterans' hospital for this area.

Thurmont will have a new post office when a site is selected by the Post Office Department. Officials have not completed their review of the inspector's report on the two assignable land options at Thurmont.

Part of the cost of the Hagerstown sewage treatment plant will be borne by the Federal Government. Under the Water Pollution Act passed last year, Hagerstown will receive a federal grant of $115,752, or approximately 30 percent of the cost of the plant.

Little Youghiogheny Watershed Project has received Senate Agriculture Committee approval and I expect the House Agriculture committee to approve the project shortly. Federal funds are available for the watershed program.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my dear nephew, Leroy W. Uphold, who passed away one year ago, March 3, 1956.

March brings sad memories of a dear one gone to rest,
You will always be remembered by the ones who loved you best.
The shock was sudden, the sadness almost broke our hearts;
You have gone where those who loved you
Soon are coming one by one.
I don't understand why you were taken;
I did not see you die
I only know you passed away
And could not say good-bye
My heart still aches with sadness
My eyes still shed many a tear
God only knows how I miss you
At the end of one long year.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property, situate in Election District No. 8 of Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and the State of Maryland, to the plaintiffs in this proceeding.

Four parcels of land described as follows:

1. Two parcels of land, the first containing 3 acres and 55½ square rods, more or less, and the second 4 acres and 87 square rods, more or less, conveyed to James E. Prather by deed from Simon L. Whitmore, et al, dated May 20, 1904, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 47, folio 92, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, all the mineral thereunder being reserved.

2. Parcel of land containing 3.9 acres, more or less, conveyed unto the said James E. Prather by deed from Sylvanus J. Nutter, et ux, dated September 20, 1906, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 54, folio 123, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, all coal and mining rights being reserved.

Said parcels of land are the same which were devised unto Bertha K. Prather by the last will and testament of the said James E. Prather, dated June 8, 1920, and recorded in Wills Liber F, folio 155, one of the records in the Office of the Register of Wills for Garrett County, Maryland.

The bill states, among other things, that the said Bertha K. Prather departed this life, intestate, October 9, 1953, and that title was vested in the said Howard Biggs and Sicily Biggs, his wife, Vyea Blamble, widow, John Edward Biggs and Elwanda Biggs, his wife, George Albion Biggs and Vera Biggs, his wife, and Mira Lee Brannon and William J. Brannon, her husband, the said Howard Biggs, Vyea Blamble, John Edward Biggs, George Albion Biggs and Mira Lee Brannon being her next of kin and heirs at law at the time of said tax sale, and still so remain; that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than one year and a day from the date of sale has expired.

Occupation .....

Approximately 1,500 measures have been introduced in the Senate since the 85th Congress convened last month, so I feel it is time to submit for your consideration a report on some of the bills and resolutions which have been offered with my sponsorship.

Since I have discussed some of the items with you on previous occasions, I will confine most of these comments to legislation from the past few weeks.

Chaplain's Day

Chaplain's Day. The Senate Judiciary Committee is now considering a resolution which I introduced to authorize the President to designate the first Sunday of February of each year as a special day of observance to honor the four chaplains who gave their lives when the U. S. S. Dorchester was sunk.

The four chaplains, who were members of different religious faiths, went down with the Dorchester when it was sunk off the coast of Greenland on February 3, 1943.

In addition to offering our nation a special opportunity to pay tribute to those four heroes in particular, my legislation also provides for the day to be dedicated to all the other chaplains "who gave their lives that others might live."

Bills For Historic County, Ship Charles County Commemoration.

A bill which I introduced for myself and Senator Butler to authorize the Postmaster General to issue a special stamp commemorating the 300th anniversary of the chartering of Charles County has been referred to the Senate Committee on Post Office and Civil Service.

"Constellation" Preservation. The historic ship "Constellation" would be restored and preserved as a part of the Fort McHenry National Shrine under provisions of a bill which I co-sponsored with Senator Butler.

The measure is now before the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

Capital Affairs

Aid for Retired Teachers. School teachers of the District of Columbia will receive greater retirement benefits if legislation which I recently co-sponsored is passed. The Senate District of Columbia Committee, of which I am a member, is studying the proposal.

D. C. Unemployment Compensation. The Senate District Committee has also received another of my bills concerning Washington affairs, this one to extend to 26 weeks the period during which all persons who are entitled to unemployment compensation may collect such payment.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 81. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., MARCH 7, 1957. PER COPY, 8c NUMBER 1.

Right to Work Law . .

Demand is growing for "Right to Work" laws, and this issue will soon be before the legislators of Maryland. Seventeen states already have laws which allow a man to join or not join a union as he voluntarily decides—a basic right unless freedom is a myth in our country.

The Indiana legislature has just passed a right to work bill, and many unionists stormed the capitol at Indianapolis, demanding the Governor veto the bill. Why? The law does not ban unions or collective bargaining. It does not ban the right to form or join a union, it does not ban strikes or picketing, it does not ban the check-off, it does not outlaw union grievance procedures, it does not interfere with present contracts, and it does not take away the worker's right to full protection of labor laws.

In states where there are no "right to work" laws a man cannot work over 30 days in principal industries without joining a union or being fired. In other words, in a "free" country he is forced to join and pay dues or starve—he has no choice. It seems incredible that in a "free" country a labor union can force men to join or not work, but can refuse to make a public accounting of the millions it collects by compulsory dues.

This right to work law that will be debated by Maryland legislators, does outlaw compulsory unionism, protects by law the right of anyone to get and keep a job without joining a union, and upholds the principle of the open shop which restores to union members control of their unions. Most unions are now controlled by the labor leaders, many of whom are radicals.

Under the "yellow dog" contracts of years ago the employer refused to hire union members or keep men on the pay roll if they joined a union. A Federal labor law prohibited this practice. Now that the shoe is on the other foot labor leaders see nothing wrong in compulsion. Yellow dog becomes "yellow hog" contracts.

We are not necessarily anti-union. But we want people to be free to make their own choice as to whether or not they want to join. That is the American way.

Jury To Convene

The March Term of the Garrett County Grand Jury will convene next Monday morning, March 11, at 10 o'clock, in the court room.

Following the usual charge to the jurors by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley, the grand jurors will retire and begin their deliberations and investigations in alleged infractions of the laws of Maryland. The jurors are always assisted in their investigations by State's Attorney S. R. Pagenhardt.

The criminal cases will be heard beginning Tuesday, March 26, at 9 o'clock. The opening day was originally set for March 25, but since this is Maryland day, it was delayed one day.

Red Cross Receives 1st Campaign Gift

The Red Cross received its first campaign gift of the current drive early this week, Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, chairman, reported that a check for $15 had been presented by the Potomac Edison company to Mrs. Russell Klotz, chairman of the Accident district.

Around two hundred persons began their solicitation this week in an effort to obtain $4,282. Of that amount, if raised, $1,825 will remain in the county to support the blood recruitment program and to provide other services to men in the armed forces, etc.

Votes Down Extra Judge for Allegany

The Senate Committee on Judicial Proceedings by a six to three vote yesterday gave an unfavorable report to a bill providing for a second judge for Allegany county.

The measure, however, will go to the floor of the Senate today with the unfavorable report.

Among those voting against a second judge were Senators Downey of Washington county and Friend of Garrett.

The bill calls for appointment of another judge upon retirement of Chief Judge George Henderson in March, 1958. A bill in a previous legislature that added a resident judge to Garrett had the effect of removing one judge from Allegany. The present law limits the number of judges in the Fourth circuit to three, one each in Washington, Allegany and Garrett.

Union Lenten Series To Begin On Wednesday

During the first Wednesday in Lent, individual communion services were held in each church, with all pastors speaking on "God Speaks to the Church."

Fifty-two persons attended the dinner and all 17 schools in the circuit were represented.

Enrollment fees of $5 were returned to the schools that participated in the recent PVC junior high basketball tournament and the net proceeds placed in a fund for use in future tournaments. A committee which included Ed Quattro, of Southern High, was named to formulate plans for future junior high tournaments and the distribution of awards. The all-conference basketball team was named which included Eugene Smith, Charles Buemi, West Virginia School for the Deaf; Jim Vetter, Mourelield; Jerry Hannas, Romney; and John Teter, Ridgeley. Named To Commission

The County Commissioners, at their regular meetings this week, recommended the appointment of Herbert Shaffer as the Garrett County member to the Upper Potomac River commission. He will succeed Lawrence M. Fraley, who remains a patient in the Evans Nursing Home. Shaffer was selected from a group of three which included Russell Smith and Lewis R. Jones.

The position is a non-paying one, but members receive expenses for mileage and attending meetings.

The Commissioners also awarded the contract for painting the dome of the courthouse to Bernard Nally.

The Commissioners, sitting as a board of license commissioners, granted a license to sell beer to the Loyal Order of Moose, No. 786, as a corporation instead of in an individual's name.

Legislative Routine

Bills Passed

House Bill 119, by Garrett Delegation, to abolish and reconstitute the Garrett County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License commissioners and provide for their appointment by the Governor, passed in the House.

House Bill 522, by Garrett Delegation, to pay Garrett county orphans' court judges $600 a year instead of $8 per diem, passed in the House.

Bills Enacted

Bills Enacted

The State Senate Tuesday enacted two bills that affect Garrett county's board of commissioners.

House Bill 160 also sponsored by the county delegation, would authorize the County Commissioners to set the expenses of the sheriff.

Three Bills Introduced

Three bills were introduced this week by the county delegation. House Bill 656 has to do with restrictions on the transportation of Christmas trees, giving the forestry department the right to stop persons trucking Christmas trees. The aim is to cut down on thievery, Harry Edwards, delegate, pointed out.

House bill 686 would change the squirrel season, making it ten days earlier than at present. House bill 687 would provide an open season on 'coons.

Den Mothers, Cub Master Are Honored At Dinner Meeting

Two den mothers and the cubmaster of the Oakland cubs received awards at the annual dinner meeting of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park groups and their parents held last Thursday in the Methodist Fellowship hall.

Mrs. Robert Ault and Mrs. Robert Orr received the highest award that the Potomac Scout Council has to offer den mothers. The two women have been den mothers for three years, have attended training courses and the pow-wow for leaders, have held three weekly meetings per month over that period of time and have had active den chiefs during that time also.

George Stuck was awarded his cubmaster's key for his lengthy service to the Oakland pack, which was presented by Lester McDowell, of Keyser, a district scout commissioner. Awards to the den mothers were presented by Wilbur Sifton, field scout executive. Stuck and George Perrine, Mt. Lake Park cubmaster, also received round-up awards.

Cub scouts from Oakland and Mt. Lake Park packs also received awards for advancement which were presented by George Hanel, chairman of the Deep Creek advancement committee.

Receiving these awards were: Mt. Lake Park, Jerry Cannon, Eddie Rathbun, wolf badges, Jay Bill Rice and David Sisler, bear badge; Keith Cannon, Neil Henline, Lion badge; for Oakland, John Speicher, Carroll Thomas and Larry Glotfelty, wolf badge. Fred Helbig and Tom Miller, bear badge.

History of the pack to the fifth anniversary was related by Frank McDaniel, assistant cubmaster. The meeting was concluded with a story told by Mr. McDowell.

A change in services in the Garrett County Episcopal Diocesan missions was announced by Rev. Henry Howard.

Services have been cancelled at Our Fathers House at Altamont until May 15. Services at Deer Park include a family service and church school at 10 a. m., with evening prayer at 7:30 p. m. Swanton services remain the same, he said.

4-H Club Presents Program On Sunday

In celebration of National 4-H club week, the Monte Vista girls' 4-H club held a public meeting for their parents last Sunday afternoon in St. Paul's Fellowship hall in Oakland.

Members of the club presented an hour's program to the fifty or more parents who attended, in which their 4-H goals for the previous year and for the present year were outlined. All six goals set in 1956 were completed, which included 100 percent participation in rally day, each girl giving at least one demonstration, holding one club meeting per month, repairing clothes for needy families, having a window display during 4-H club week, and 100 percent project completions.

Cynthia Nace, president of the club, presided during the program. Sharon Sanders, Jane Hanst, Margaret Nally, Lucinda White, Mary Jane Germain and Meg Englander each told about some phase of 4-H work. Roberta Burgwald, Sandra DeBerry and Susie Porter gave resumes of project work; Jill Jones gave a demonstration on how to thread a sewing machine.

Judy Taylor and Barbara Zepp presented a dance; Sally Hoffman and Sally Buchanan sang a duet, accompanied at the piano by Meredith Elliott. A dramatization was given by Monica Robinson, Jill Jones and Lynn Malone. As part of the "share the fun," a "leg" dance was presented by Joyce McClung, Carolyn Spoerlein, Susie Porter, Monica Robinson, Jane Hanst, Sandra Martin and Nancy White.

Goals for next year were announced as 100 percent project completion, each girl giving a demonstration, a public meeting, 75 percent attendance at all meetings, a club exhibit at the county fair, hold a club demonstration day, every member getting a polio shot who has her parents' consent; at least 10 members attending camp and holding a family cook-out. Sandra Orr, Margaret White and Lulu Lane helped with presenting these goals.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting. Miss Johana Magaha, assistant home demonstration agent, presided at the punch bowl.

Crellin Girl Is Shot Accidentally

Martha Lewis, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lewis, of Crellin, was accidentally shot beneath the right eye last evening, according to the State's Attorney, S. R. Pagenhardt, who investigated.

The gun was fired by the girl's brother, Foster Lewis, aged 12, who said he had no idea the gun was loaded.

According to the State's Attorney, Robert Lewis, aged 15, loaded a gun and laid it on the table while he went for a bucket of coal. The 12-year-old boy came into the room, picked up the pistol, aimed it at his sister and pulled the trigger. The .22 calibre bullet entered the fleshy part of the face below the eye and came out.

She was hospitalized in Garrett County Memorial hospital but Pagenhardt said she was not seriously injured. The State's Attorney said no one was being held, since the shooting was termed accidental.

Name Is Changed

Governor McKeldin on Wednesday withdrew the name of Albert Shaffer as an appointee to the Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors and substituted that of Harvey Gortner, Grantsville business man.

The action was taken at the request of Senator Friend, following objections of the Democratic State Central committee to the appointment of Shaffer. The official switch of names was made in a letter to the Senate which confirms the appointment.

Garrett officials contended Shaffer was not on a list of four names they submitted to McKeldin for choosing a Democratic member of the board. Gortner was contacted by Friend to see if he would accept the job now held by William Treacy of Oakland, who also was on the list.

Friend said he would not confirm reappointment of Treacy "because he has not done anything to break the impasse over voting machines in our county."

COMPLETES ALL GOALS—Carolyn Spoerlein and Linn Malone, two of the Monte Vista 4-H club members, point out on the chart that all goals of the club were completed for 1956. In celebration of national 4-H club week the Monte Vista club held a public meeting Sunday afternoon in the Methodist Fellowship hall in Oakland, for parents of the twenty-five members. In the picture are (left) Cynthis Nace, president this year; Miss Spoerlein, Linn Malone, new member and Nancy White, president last year when all goals were completed.

Four-H Clubs Will Present "Fashion From a Basket"

Fashion favorites right from a sewing basket will appear in the Simplicity Pattern presentation, "Fashion from a Basket for the 4-H Club Modern Miss," to be shown at the Accident Elementary school auditorium tomorrow evening, March 8, at 8 o'clock. The twenty-one costumes that will be fashioned by local 4-H club girls, are designed to take a teen through every phase of her life, from school and sports events to parties and dates.

The spring ensembles feature the bulky knit look in a hooded coat over a skirt and blouse. The cape matches the skirt for a more versatile wardrobe. A bright blue wool suit in teen sizes with the new Dutch boy look, a slim coat with a dress to match the coat lining, as well as a dress and cape outfit, complete the ensemble picture.

A group of fashions designed especially for beginners shows a variety of dresses and separates as suggestions for first clothing projects. Included is a new drawstring blouse featuring a scarf at the neck that ties either in front or in back, and a full skirted dress with a wardrobe of cape collars.

Casuals are represented in classic styles such as princess line jumper with a white sissy blouse, and a sheath jumper with a jacket that doubles as a blouse and matching cape.

There will be a variety of date and dance dresses, especially made for prom night is a soft pink taffeta evening frock with a silver embroidered net overskirt.

Commentator for the show will be Miss Johanna Magaha, assistant home demonstration agent. Piano accompanist for the show will be Mrs. Felix Robinson. A short program depicting 4-H club work will be presented by County 4-H girls before the fashion show. Cynthia Nace, president of the Monte Vista club, will preside. The public is invited to witness the event.

Farm Group Will Sponsor Talent Find

Tentative plans for a "talent-find" show and talk fest were discussed at a board of directors' meeting of the Associated Women of the Garrett County Farm Bureau, held February 27 at Northern High school.

Amateur talent of all kinds between the ages of 12 and 28 years is desired. Further details may be obtained from Mrs. Willie Warnick, Grantsville.

Mrs. Orval Glotfelty, who presided at the meeting, gave a report on the state board session she attended in Baltimore. Mrs. James Glotfelty, of Bittinger, and Mrs. Pearl Shultz, who were delegates to the state convention in January, also gave reports.

A county-wide meeting of the association is to be held in the Accident Fire hall on March 12 at 8 o'clock. All units are expected to be represented by at least three members.

67 Farm Families Get FFBL Booklets

Farming for Better Living project books for 1957 were delivered last week to those 67 farm families who have already enrolled in the Farming for Better Living program in Garrett County, L. Bush Swisher, Farming for Better Living project director, announced.

"If you wish to receive one of these books," Swisher said, "and are engaged in farming, see your county agent, John H. Carter, or write me in care of the Monongahela Power company, at Morgantown."

The new Farming for Better Living book outlines a short course in farming and gives those practices recommended by the Extension Service and the Agricultural Experiment Station at West Virginia university. The book also provides a record for the farm family to list its own activities in farming and home making. A book for each family enrolled will be completed and returned to the Farming for Better Living Council next October, Swisher said, so that judges may select a county winner in each county.

While the enrollment period will not end until the end of March, Swisher urges all interested families to enroll at once.

Turkey Group Elects

At a dinner meeting of the Garrett County Turkey Growers at the William-James hotel on Monday night Robert O. Glotfelty was elected president for the ensuing year. He succeeds Harland Bowman. Others elected were Blaine Glotfelty, vice-president; Roy R. Glotfelty, treasurer; Lowell Loomis, secretary; Donald Fratz, assistant secretary. Webster Brenneman and James Opel were named new directors for a three-year term.

The annual membership dinner was set for Thursday, April 4, at the Hoyes Methodist church.

Holdover directors are Harland Bowman, Roy O. Glotfelty, Elwood Glotfelty and Blaine Glotfelty. Guests at the dinner included Robert Bane, Elbert Barron, officials of the Sterling Processing plant, and John H. Carter, county agent.

Juveniles Paroled

Five juveniles were placed under parole yesterday after sentences were given out by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley.

The three juveniles connected with a recent breaking and entering at the Oakland Elementary Annex, were all given suspended sentences. Two were sentenced to the Maryland Training School for Boys for three years, and one was sentenced to the House of Correction for three years, but all were paroled for the same length of time under supervision of the Parole officer.

In another case concerning the theft of a pocketbook, two juveniles were tried. One pleaded guilty. The other was found not guilty. The guilty one was sentenced to two years in the Maryland House of Correction, but sentence was suspended and he was placed under parole for two years.

Two Held for Theft

Two juveniles are being detained in the county jail under a charge of larceny from the stores of A. D. Naylor and Company and Carroll Miller's Sport Shop. The robberies are said to have occurred last Friday.

Sheriff Paul W. Fisher said one of the youths admitted taking two hunting knives, two pistols and two holsters from the Sport Shop, and two 30-30 rifles from the A. D. Naylor and Company store. The two rifles and one pistol have been recovered, Fisher said.

Oakland Council Approves Daylight Saving Time

A motion that Oakland adopt daylight saving time beginning Sunday, April 28, was unanimously adopted by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland at a regular meeting Monday evening in the City Hall. The motion was made by Dr. E. I. Baumgartner and seconded by Carroll E. Miller.

Just how many other towns of the county would follow suit was not known at this time. The county offices will be prohibited from adopting daylight saving time, since this question appeared on the general election ballot last November and was defeated by a vote of 3,312 to 3,150.

The five precincts of Oakland favored daylight time 927 to 564. Grantsville's two precincts favored daylight time 376 to 163. Accident favored it slightly. Communities voting against daylight time included Friendsville, Swanton, Bloomington, Sang Run, Deer Park, Bittinger, Kitzmiller, Vindex, Creilin, Avilton and Mt. Lake Park, and the majorities were enough to overcome the results in Oakland and Grantsville.

In a more recent municipal election in Friendsville, the citizens of that town reversed their November opinion and voted to adopt daylight time this year.

Other Council Business

Receipts were listed at $4,682.72 for February with $672.20 from water, $160.27 from taxes and $3,850.25 from miscellaneous. Among the miscellaneous receipts were $528.97 from state race tracks and $556.93 from parking meters. Disbursements totaled $5,322.19, including $400 for council salaries and $775 for police protection. The city shows a balance in the bank of $9,250.74.

The Oakland Country club gave written notice that it desired to exercise its option to renew the lease on the Oakland Country club for a five-year term.

Sunday movie tax amounted to $82.80. Several letters were received expressing the "excellent" service which Carlton Hinebaugh has rendered as garbage collector during the past year, with some fifty names attached.

A permit was granted to Victor W. Pritts to construct a brick dwelling on the corner of 8th and High streets, at an approximate cost of $12,000.

The council authorized the purchase of 50 new parking meters to replace 50 used ones, at a cost of $58.50 each less $12.50 allowance on each used machine, or a total cost of $2,300 for the 50 machines. Delivery was expected within 30 days.

Dr. H. R. Gibson was before the council seeking information about installation of fluoridation in the town's water system. A resolution favoring such installation was approved by council last March. At that time the water superintendent intimated that present machinery was not adequate to distribute the small amount needed. The council instructed the clerk to write to the State Health department requesting an engineer to appear at the next meeting on April 8.

Accident Elects Mayor-Councilmen

Ernest Glass, unopposed, was re-elected mayor of the town of Accident at the annual election held there on Tuesday. Mr. Glass received 51 votes out of a total of 68 votes cast.

Walter W. F. Richter was re-elected as a member of the council and Ben Callis was elected as the second councilman. Hold-over members of council are Sherman Frazee and Wilmer Margroff.

Defeated councilmen were Carl Whorton, Claude Friend, Ervin George and John Jo Brenneman. The latter was an incumbent.

Mrs. Ralph Ault, unopposed, was re-elected as clerk-treasurer.

To Address Rotary

Rudolph A. Dreiman, director of the Maryland Aviation commission, will be the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary club at the William James hotel on Friday evening, at 6:15.

Mr. Dreiman will discuss the possibility of obtaining an air strip in the county.

The program is in charge of Alva G. Gortner, head of the program committee for this month.

School Loan Bill To Be Introduced

The President of the Maryland Senate wants to put the state in the school loan business.

Senator Goldstein, Calvert county Democrat, has said he will sponsor a bill which would permit the 23 counties and Baltimore City to borrow 350 million dollars during the next 10 years for school construction, to keep abreast of expected increase in enrollment.

Under present interest rates Goldstein said it was virtually impossible for local subdivisions to borrow school construction money at reasonable interest rates.

"By using the state's credit wherein bonds will be issued for a period of 15 years, we feel that it will be possible for the counties and Baltimore City to borrow the money at a lower rate of interest, get the needed school construction at once and get a greater value for the taxpayer's dollar," he said. The money would be made available in two five-year periods. Garrett be enabled to borrow $3,330,909 if the bill was enacted.

County Farmers Use Conservation Plan As Guide for Cropping

It looks like farmers who don't have land use capability maps of their farms are missing a good bet. More than 700 farmers in the Garrett County Soil Conservation District got these maps as basic guides to their cropping system when they signed up as Soil Conservation District cooperators.

"These maps will tell you a lot about your farm and its capabilities," says County Agent Carter. "Even men who have farmed their land for years will tell you they learned a lot more about their farm after they got these land use capability maps."

Land use capability maps are prepared by Soil Conservation technicians, upon request of farmers who apply to their Soil Conservation District supervisors for technical assistance.

The S. C. S. technicians visit the farm, gathering information about the land. They study this information, and then prepare two maps of the farm, based on aerial surveys.

One map shows the farm as it is, telling the farmer such things as soil texture, drainage, slope and extent of erosion. And perhaps most important, it shows the land use capability. This enables the farmer to work out a cropping system that will use each area to its best advantage, it points out what areas are suited for intensive cropping, light cultivation, pasture or woodland. This way, the farmer has the best possible guide for efficient crop production for both immediate and long range uses.

The second map shows a conservation plan which the cooperator can follow if he chooses to apply conservation practices.

"With greater emphasis than ever on efficient production, and with the possibility of placing land in the Soil Bank, it's more important than ever for farmers to have a good guide for a cropping system best suited to their land," says Mr. Carter.

Farmers can obtain more information on land use capability maps from the county agent, supervisors of the local Soil Conservation District, or the S. C. S. office.

Series Of Soil Bank Meetings Set

The County ASC committee, in cooperation with John H. Carter, county agent, is holding a series of meetings for the purpose of giving farmers and other interested persons an opportunity to become more familiar with the Soil Bank program as it pertains to this county.

Farmers will have an opportunity to ask questions and discuss individual problems.

Meetings are to be held at the Grantsville school Monday, March 11, 7:30 p. m.; Accident school on Tuesday, March 12, 7:30 p. m.; and at the fire hall in Oakland Wednesday, March 13, 7:30 p. m.

ENGLANDER'S PHARMACY Monthly News

Clinton W. Englander,
"Your Pharmacist"

The compounding of prescriptions requires pharmacists to continuously strive for absolute perfection. No detail is considered unimportant.

Every prescription must be carefully read to make certain we know what your physician has specified. Every ingredient is checked, re-checked, and then finally checked once more to make certain we have selected the right one. An error is unthinkable.

When your prescription contains more than one ingredient we must use our pharmaceutical knowledge to so combine them that the completed prescription will best accomplish the desired effect.

The prescription label must contain the exact information your physician directs so that you can properly take the medicine.

We must permanently record every prescription so that the information in it is available for future reference.

After we have completed your prescription, just before you get it, we once more check everything about it. We know that in it is our reputation. When you entrust your prescription to us you place your very life in our hands.

Letter to the Editor

Be a Go-Getter—Fight Litter

To the Editor:

Come on, let's everybody get into the act. It may seem to some people that the State Roads Commission employees want everyone to help them do their work. This is unfair! If we all just stop and think how much more trouble it is for a truck to stop, the driver get out and pick up a chewing gum paper, an empty cigarette package, etc., (which may seem small at the time of tossing) in comparison to how quickly a window can be rolled down and a small piece of litter thrown from our vehicles—we certainly can see that by placing a small litter bag in our cars and other vehicles we not only will be saving the State time and money, we will be doing our part toward "Keeping Maryland Beautiful."

What the State Roads Commission is striving to do is to cooperate with our Governor by trying to make the populace of Maryland litter conscious.

In driving along the highways, we cannot deny that we certainly like to see a clean roadside. Now with the spring and summer season on the way, the banks and shoulders will be getting greener and the snow won't be there to hide the messy litter that has been thrown out of vehicles.

So let's get behind this litterbag campaign and give it all you can. The Board of Education is going along with us and when we can get the children who are being transported to school educated to this campaign, by using litterbags that are being placed by the school bus drivers in their buses, a big step will be done towards it, as our children will help put this across to the parents. It might be added that our Welfare department and Health department are also cooperating to make this campaign a success by placing litterbags in their cars.

G. Bates Chares, District Engineer, has been putting a lot of effort and time into this campaign to make the three Western counties as near litter free as possible. Which of these three counties will be first to have the cleanest litter free highways? What do you say we make it Garrett. But we'll need help. Your help, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen and family of Garrett County. Thanks!

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

In measuring the efficiency of an economic system for a nation's people there are two basic questions we should ask: (1) Does it produce adequate goods and services? and (2) Does it equitably distribute its goods and services? Because of the spread of economic education during recent years many people today are aware of the fact that our American private ownership, free enterprise system produces 42 per cent of the wealth of the world although we have only seven per cent of the world's population, only six per cent of the land area, and only a proportionate share of the world's natural resources.

While many Americans are aware of these facts, a far greater number are not; and comparatively few can properly answer our second basic question—does our system equitably distribute its production of wealth? The answer, of course, is: Yes, it does.

In the 25 years ending with 1955, the national income in America was $3 trillion, 780 billion. Who got all this money? The wage earners and salaried people got 65 per cent. The self-employed, professional people and small business operators got the next biggest share, 9½ per cent. Corporations received 7½ percent (before taxes.) The farmers and dairymen who supplied food markets and processing plants with raw foodstuffs received 6½ per cent. Stockholders got 4 per cent. People owning rental property got 4 per cent, and bondholders received 3½ per cent.

In the last year for which we have official figures, there were 50 million families in the U. S., and these families received an income of $272 billion—before taxes. Forty per cent, or nearly 21 million families, had incomes of from $2,000 to $6,000. Fifteen million or 30 per cent received $6,000 or more. These two groups contain 70 per cent of the population.

Of the remaining 30 per cent of the families, approximately 14 per cent received from $2,000 to $3,000; 11 per cent from 1,000 to $2,000; and about 5 per cent under $1,000. Many farm families, retired persons and pensioners, whose cash income does not truly reflect their living standard, are in these lower income categories. The big fact is: 85 per cent of all incomes went to 93 per cent of our families. In other words, the great bulk of income goes to the majority of families, in the middle income range.

If all the net income in the $25,000-and-over category were to be evenly distributed, each of us would get only 15 cents a day. And without these upper categories, our own present income would soon start to crumble, for it is from these brackets that come a big portion of adventure capital or investment money to build new manufacturing plants and start new businesses, creating new jobs and making good times. These are important facts. Do your children understand them?

One Man Looks At God

(By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor, St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland, Maryland.)

The next event in the life of Christ that I will treat in the current series will be the encounter that he had with the Centurion, in Matthew 8:5-13. The centurion, as you perhaps recall, came to Christ and asked him to heal his servant. When Christ said that he would go to the house of the centurion, he said that this was unnecessary. In humility he said, "Lord, I am not worthy to have you come under my roof; but only say the word, and my servant will be healed." Christ's answer to this statement is, " . . . not even in Israel have I found such faith. I tell you, many will come from east and west and sit at table with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven, while the sons of the kingdom will be thrown into outer darkness; there men will weep and gnash their teeth.

As in so many cases of Christ's encounters with people, the key to the person's faith has been their attitude of humility. In this case, the humility of the Centurion shows right from the beginning. He admits that he is unworthy for Christ to come under his roof. This is true of all of us, but for one in a position of authority like the Centurion, this was a highly unusual admission. The more natural reaction would have been to have taken social advantage of the presence of Christ in his home, and make a big thing of it. People in positions of authority often like to have important people come to their homes, because it makes them look more important. But not the Centurion. In the face of the holiness of the Son of God, his attitude was properly one of humility. From this we all can learn a great deal, for pride is a more common commodity in our time than humility.

Then Christ's statement that he has not found faith such as this in Israel, and that many from east and west will take the places reserved for those who should have believed is a potent prophecy. Most of the Jews then, and now, do not and did not believe in this carpenter of Nazareth as the Son of God. He was not just what they wanted. What they wanted was a warrior king like David had been, who would once more restore their superiority in a military way. And repentence, not a popular subject among men of pride, he preached. Christ did not do this. He preached forgiveness, nothing easy to come by, he lived and died a sacrifice, refusing to strike back, something which seemed like outrageous stupidity to the proud Jews, and something that has remained as a stumbling block to many so-called "great minds" to this day.

The Jews, who did not, and will not humble themselves then and now, will not receive salvation. For salvation implies reliance on the Son of the living God, not as easy as perhaps it sounds, for as I have said many times, humility is the key to unlocking the door, and humility is not a popular attitude of the mind.

Likewise, many of the present day "sons of the kingdom," who on paper appear to be members of the church, but are far from actual membership in the Body of Christ, because of their attitudes, like unto the Pharisee who listed his accomplishments to God in his prayer of pride (Luke 18:9-14.)

And so this encounter of Christ with a Roman commander of soldiers has its meaning for our time. We who call ourselves Christian had better examine our motives, our total lives, and where we find ourselves tempted to take our salvation as a thing we have earned or deserved, we had better "change our tune," and realize that it is the plain and simple yet magnificent and earth shaking gift of God.

I SEE BY THE DAILIES

Appeal Is Docketed

An appeal case was docketed in the Circuit Court for Garrett county on Monday which involves a decision of Trial Magistrate W. O. Bitzer against Mrs. D. Edward Offutt.

A judgment was entered against Mrs. Offutt in Trial Magistrate's court the latter part of last year by Mrs. Clayton Kitzmiller for work alleged to have been done for Mrs. Offutt by Mrs. Kitzmiller and for which Mrs. Kitzmiller said she never received any pay.

At a hearing, before Mr. Bitzer he found this bill to be a legitimate one and ordered Mrs. Offutt to pay, but Mrs. Offutt prayed an appeal. The appeal was ordered filed Monday by Mr. Bitzer.

She declares in her appeal that the amount in question was legally and properly chargeable to the plaintiff and that the defendant was not chargeable. She listed expenses accrued while the defendant was away from home and while the plaintiff occupied the home of the defendant on Second street. She listed coal purchased $62.07; firing and operating of furnace, $155; telephone bill of $42.79; misuse of electric sweeper, $22.03; needless use of lights, $15.75; use of gas stove, $9.99, and for food ordered by defendant for use of the plaintiff, amounting to $199.58, of which $94.81 has been paid.

Groundwork Laid for Evangelism Mission

Groundwork for a Lutheran Evangelism mission scheduled to be conducted in Oakland during the latter part of August, was laid Monday night at a meeting of the Evangelism committee of St. Mark's Lutheran church.

The observance will culminate with five evenings of preaching services with a guest pastor, and perhaps followed by a regional rally, to be held in Southern High school gymnasium. Other Lutheran churches of the area, Accident, Friendsville, Jennings, Bittinger, Red House, Aurora and Davis will also have mission service and activities.

One of the responsibilities of the local committee will be to conduct a religious census of Oakland, Mt. Lake Park, and surrounding community, which will be done sometime in May.

This will provide information calculated to be valuable to the church, and will also serve the other churches of the community, since it is the aim to share the knowledge gained with other denominations when those preferences are indicated on the cards that are to be filled out for each family.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Fury and Confusion

In their ignorant fury against Mr. John Foster Dulles and by reason of their reluctance to support the President, even on a question that should be high above politics, there is a certain type of Democrat apparently willing wholly to ignore logic and truth rather than vote with them on anything. A striking example of this is given in the Democratic opposition, in and out of the Senate, to the Eisenhower-Dulles resolution concerning the Middle East problems that appear to threaten the peace of the world.

This resolution, as has been repeatedly stated—and without contradiction—does not confer upon the President any powers that he does not already possess. It merely serves notice to the world that should he deem it essential to use these powers, the Congress would be with him. In other words, in a crisis on foreign policy, the United States will always be found united. Aside from the fact that the President's resolution seemed indisputably sound, this was the reason it so promptly gained press and popular support all over the country. So clear was it that the people generously approved the resolution and wanted it adopted by Congress that the House committee favorably reported it, and the House quickly passed it by an overwhelming vote. Also, it was indorsed by Democratic Speaker Sam Rayburn, by ex-President Harry Truman and a good many others.

There was, however, a very different story when the resolution hit the Senate. There it fell into the hands of the truculent and intolerant Democratic Senators, Humphrey, of Minnesota, and Morse, of Oregon, who apparently are equally convinced that everything about Mr. Eisenhower is evil and that anything he proposes must necessarily be opposed and torn to pieces if it can be done. Certainly, that seems the view of Mr. Adlai Stevenson, recently defeated for the presidency by Mr. Eisenhower so overwhelmingly as almost to establish a record. It also appears the view of Chairman Paul Butler of the Democratic National committee, of Mr. Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., of the Americans for Democratic Action, and others of the left-wing New Dealers, of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and of most of the New Deal labor politicians who see in the Democratic party their real political future, when organized labor will come into its own and run the country without opposition—save only such as occurs in its own ranks.

The first thing that occurred was a violent name-calling debate in the Senate committee during which Senator Long (D., La.) asked Secretary Dulles if the late Mr. Roosevelt had a right to station troops in Iceland during World War II. Mr. Dulles simply replied that he did not know. On this basis Senator Long told the Senate "this was a falsehood and everyone in the committee room knew it was not true." Senator Long offered nothing whatever to support his statements. Then Senator Morse, of Oregon, probably the most violent and virulent of all the senators, proceeded to call Mr. Dulles's testimony an "outrageous lie." Later the Washington Evening Star characterized this sort of talk as a "barroom debate" and expressed the view that Mr. Dulles's reputation for integrity and veracity was sufficiently established not to be damaged by attacks from such antagonists. It also voiced the conviction that the level of the debate would not be raised by the new amendment to the Eisenhower-Dulles resolution. This amendment, offered by Senator Humphrey, seeks to "clarify" the amendment offered by Senator Fulbright. "No one, we think," said the Star, "will ever know what this amendment really means."

There still seems every reason to believe that the President's resolution will eventually pass in a shape satisfactory to him. But apparently now it will not be without a period of delay and denunciation well calculated to please the Soviet and to bolster and nourish the propaganda of our enemies everywhere. It seems typical of those who profess and aspire to lead the Democratic party these days. But it seems unlikely to succeed—even with the aid of the self-admitted economist, Senator Douglas, of Illinois.

Is Your Name HAMILTON

Do you know that:

Hamilton is an old and honored English and Scottish surname. It is said that it was established by William de Hambleton the third son of Robert, Earl of Leicester. William was born in Hambleton, Buckinghamshire, England, but went to Scotland about the year 1215 where he settled and adopted the family name of Hamilton after the place of his birth. The original meaning of Hambleton was "a fortified estate of a freeholder."

There is also a tradition that William de Hambleton was accused of having been friendly with the murderer of a friend of his king. Being compelled by the monarch's resentment to leave England, and being closely pursued into a forest, he and his attendant changed clothes with a couple of woodsmen whom they accidently met. To better sustain their assumed character, they seized a saw and began to cut down a tree. While engaged in this act, their pursuers appeared; and immediately William cried out "through," thus drawing the attention of his attendant so that their identities would not be revealed. It was from this circumstance, according to the legend, that the Hamiltons obtained their crest—an oak tree penetrated crosswise by a frame saw—and their motto "through."

Alexander Hamilton (1757-1804) earned distinction as an American statesman, financier and general. He was killed by Aaron Burr in a duel.

William Thomas Hamilton (1820-1888) was U. S. congressman and senator from Maryland and also governor of the state.

James Hamilton (1786-1857) was governor of South Carolina. John Marshall Hamilton (1817-1905) was governor of Illinois.

George Livingston Hamilton (1874-1940) was professor of Romance languages at Cornell University for twenty-four years.

Charles Walter Hamilton is vice-president, Gulf Oil corporation, with headquarters in New York City.

Richard Simons Hamilton is president, American Colortype company, Clifton, New Jersey.

Southern Music Department Subject for Todays Article

Southern High school's music department is the subject of this week's school article and the story is told by Jacqueline Calhoun. The department is made up of two divisions, choral and instrumental. The head of the department is Mrs. Ruth C. Brown. She has an A.B. degree and also the hours equivalent to a Master's degree. Mrs. Brown teaches several junior high music classes and is director of the Senior chorus.

The other music teachers are Mr. Raymond Borrell, Miss Barbara Colahrese, and Mrs. Bessie Price.

Mr. Borrell is band instructor at Southern. The Beginning, Junior and Senior bands are under his direction. He is also in charge of the school orchestra, The Diplomats.

Miss Colabrese teaches junior high music classes and is director of the Junior chorus. She received her Bachelor of Music degree at West Virginia University.

Mrs. Price is another junior high music teacher. She also teaches tenth grade core.

Choral music is a required subject for all junior high students. Workbooks for class work are purchased by students in each of the three years. A large variety of song books are available for class work. The music department also has two victrolas and a fine library of records.

Students in the seventh grade begin with an orientation course. They are taught the background necessary for them to take part intelligently in music activities. Music of American and European countries which have contributed to music in America is taught plus an emphasis on the folk music which is a part of our American heritage. Also included is a brief introduction to musical instruments.

The eighth grade is a continuation of the seventh. Students begin their study of famous composers and the history of music. They also go deeper into the origin of musical instruments and in music theory. Students in the eighth and ninth grades have made a few electrical boards. These are a wooden strncture with batteries attached to it. Students can test their knowledge by matching composers' pictures and their names, or by putting music symbols and their meanings together.

Ninth grade music students are required to have a general knowledge of musical tools and to be able to sing with rensonable breath control. Enunciation, phrasing, and part singing are taught. Students are further introduced to great personalities of music and their compositions. Activities of the Junior chorus include participating in school assemblies and giving programs at P.-T.A. meetings. Recently in the club periods when the chorus meets, they have been practicing for the All-County Choral Festival on April 4.

Southern's Senior chorus has begun work on its annual operetta. "H.M.S. Pinafore" has been chosen for this year. Although the main characters have not been selected as yet, the chorus has been working on the background choral numbers. This operetta is to he given the first of May.

Band is an elective subject in all grades. There are 224 students in the three Southern bands this year. Most students own their own instruments; but the school does buy the larger instruments such as basses, baritones, drums, and a few of the odd reed instruments like the bassoon, bass clarinet, oboe, and barilone saxophone. There are also a number of small instruments owned by the school. All band uniforms are school property.

All interested students start in the Beginning band and work up to the Junior band. Those people qualified move into the Senior baud in the tenth grade.

Any student starting out in band receives instruction on basic rhythm, pitch, fingerings, and names of symbols. The Beginning and Junior bands are the learning and preparation periods for the Senior band.

In the Senior band a student can look forward to many events. There are two concerts a year at Southern, and an All-County Festival Concert with Northern High school in the spring.

Southern's Senior band represents the school in town parades and in parades of surrounding communities. It plays for most football games and several home basketball games a year.

The event each year to which all Senior band members look forward is the trip to Washington, D. C., where they march in the Safety Patrol Parade.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

Under Our Nose

When Mrs. Clark Schlossnagle confessed last week that she had never seen maple syrup in the making, she was openly ashamed for passing by one of the most interesting things our county has to offer.

Then she was told the story of a woman who was serving on the Board of Governors of her state university. A woman who was known state-wide for her brilliant mind. On an important occasion she was seated next to James Conant, then president of Harvard, and he inquired with much curiosity about the coal mines of the region.

The woman confessed later, that she was chagrined at her own ignorance, for although she had lived near mines all her life, she has never been inside one. The learned man's expression was one of startled amazement.

Yesterday, something akin to that happened to me. I went to Loch Lynn to the warehouses and offices of the H. P. Stores on a community "give me" mission and I came home a richer person. I never dreamed that we had anything so large in our community. I knew of course that there were many stores but the interior of that large building reminded me of a tour I once had through Montgomery Ward's.

One lane they called route 40 and I could see that a vehicle on wheels would he an aid in getting around.

In one area was the quilt piece department and they get orders from all over the United States, having taken over the entire leftovers of a large clothing manufacturer who once sold these scraps through national magazine advertising.

I'm not sure the H. P. Stores would want droves of sight seers, but it was an education to look behind the scenes of a department store chain that had its beginning in a small store in the Hinebaugh building on Green street.

And by the way, I've never been in a coal mine. Have you?

I've never seen a chicken taken for a ride, but I plan to—the Lord willing—at the new processing plant.

—o—

How About That?

No place in the world has there been such a marked change in the status of women as in certain sections of North Africa.

According to a report in Economics, December, 1956, travellers who returned to certain parts of North Africa in the mid-1940's discovered there had been a social revolution there during the war. Previously when local Arabs trekked between their villages their wives had walked twenty yards behind them: now their wives walk twenty yards in front. Research showed that the change had occurred when allied troops were advancing across the country. The reason for the change was that at the time, there were a lot of land mines about.

In this case the modern woman could be called the forward sex, but can't you imagine they seethed every step of the way?

"J. M."

One of my favorite persons celebrated his birthday last week, which is an usual occurrence for all of us, and he wasn't sure just how old he was, which is also an usual thing for many of us. But when he said, "I'm not sure whether I'll be 95 or 96" we knew that was an unusual statement.

He was walking out of the church at the time, carrying a little green canvas bag—the most usual thing that has happened at St. Mark's in over a half century. For sixty years Mr. Falkenstein (we call him "J. M." to his back) has been gathering the Sunday collection and handing it over to the one who does the counting.

But the unusual thing about Mr. Falkenstein is that he has never stopped being of service to his church, regardless of his age. He could have said at 75, "let someone else do it, I'm getting too old," and then procedded to dry up for a quarter of his life.

To me, he is a perfect example of a living sermon. In his pew every Sunday, devoted and joyous, there's only one reason I would want to see him give up his Sunday job, and that is that collections would get so large he'd need an assistant.

Beat Van Doren At His Own Game

Laural A. Whipkey, of Huntington, W. Va., holds the rare honor of having bested Charles Van Doren at his own game.

True, it wasn't on the "21" television show where Van Doren has run his winnings to $143,000, but Mr. Whipkey beat the Columbia University professor just the same.

Actually, it was on a quiz show staged as entertainment for the base personnel at Sebring, Fla., during World War II. Whipkey, Van Doren, another serviceman and three girls competed for 30 minutes in a question-and-answer game. Mr. Whipkey won all the prizes. They included such items as shaving cream, a tooth brush and after-shave lotion.

Mr. Whipkey, now a sales representative for Brown and Bigelow, advertising specialties firm in Huntington, and Mr. Van Doren were buddies as aviation cadets. One time they took a trip to Miami Beach on a three-day pass. They hitched a ride there on a small mail plane. Both leaned against a window to look at the ground below. They must have leaned too heavily because the section of the plane containing the window fell out. They were saved from falling by grabbing the door post.

Their return trip was equally hectic. They missed a ride to the train depot by two minutes. When they got there the train had pulled out. Rushing to a bus depot they found that the bus had left seconds before. They had to walk and hitchhike 300 miles to get back to base—too tired to care what the sergeant said.

Whipkey is a son of Mrs. Georgia Whipkey and the late Stanton D. Whipkey, and formerly lived in the Whipkey home, corner of 7th and Oak streets, in Oakland. He was a former Oakland High student. His aunt is Mrs. H. G. Gortner, south of town. A recent article in the Huntington Herald-Dispatch with a wartime picture of Whipkey and Van Doren told the story. Whipkey was also mentioned in a Time magazine article on Van Doren two or three weeks ago.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Two Speeches — One Indictment

On Washington's birthday, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in a speech at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, warned that the Communist Party of the United States has not changed in character or purpose. He asserted that its new look and program "are designed to enable the American Communists to regroup and develop a militant party to accomplish their historic mission of destroying American freedom . . . They will resort to every time-proven Communist trick to deceive the American public by advocating a peaceful transition to Socialism . . . by appealing to the masses with trumped-up charges of injustice . . . by seeking to build a broad coalition of Socialist forces . . . by recapturing the naive . . . by mobilizing the 'psuedo-liberals'."

Three days later, February 25th, Senator Knowland of California, a member of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations, charged that Soviet Russian rulers were bent on "total suppression" of human liberties. Answering latter-day Soviet charges of American-inspired "subversion" behind the iron curtain, the distinguished minority leader in the Senate outlined the following 10-point indictment of Russia, predicated upon acts of aggression in the last 20 years: "The Soviet Union has denied legitimate aspirations of the people of Eastern Europe for national independence . . . It has denied to these people basic human freedom recognized in the UN charter . . . It has imposed puppet governments and used its armed forces to keep them in power . . . It has plundered the economies of these countries . . . It converted the Baltic republics into Soviet provinces in violation of friendship and non-aggression treaties . . . It has built up large satellite armed forces staffed by Soviet officers . . . It has cut off captive peoples from the free world of monopolizing all channels of communication . . . It has filled newspapers and school books of Eastern Europe with 'hate America' slogans . . . It has persecuted churches and intimidated and harassed those who worship God . . . And it has erected physical barriers against escape, including barbed wire, mine fields, and lookout towers."

This indictment of the communist conspiracy by two able spokesmen in the cause of liberty and freedom come at a time when tension in the world could not be more delicate. Mr. Hoover's words are well-chosen: "Communism is doomed ultimately to fall, because it is anti-God and denies the dignity of man . . . The fall of world-wide communism will come only when the world, both the free and the enslaved, resolves that this heartless dictatorship shall end"

Proclamation

World Day of Prayer—March 8, 1957

WHEREAS, World Day of Prayer will be observed this year in many places throughout the world where humble peoples, living against a background of universal tension and uncertainty, will bow their heads and lift up their hearts to Almighty God in prayer, and

WHEREAS, The Church Women of the Mt. Top will join on this occasion with church women in communities throughout the nation and the world to form an articulate and inspiring chain of human prayer, and

WHEREAS, the troubled peoples in less fortunate nations than ours, and indeed even in our own beloved country, need Divine Guidance as never before, especially as this is stimulated through prayful communion.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Russell L. Smith, Mayor of the Town of Oakland, do hereby proclaim Friday, March 8, 1957, as in the Town of Oakland, and I urge our citizens to observe this day by attending on March 8, 1957, wherever possible, World Day of Prayer services, or pausing for a minute of prayer at high noon to ask God to give us, in all our humility, the wisdom and courage to meet and successfully solve the profound problems of our times.

SEAL

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Town of Oakland, Md., to be affixed, this 7th day of March, 1957.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: Matthew 18
Devotional Reading: Luke 7:36-47

Seventy X Seven

Lesson for March 10, 1957

IS IT a mark of high breeding never to forget an injury? One of the most famous Americans was known also as a duelist. When he left home as a boy, his mother wrote him a letter which contained some Christian advice; but she mixed with it an idea she could not have found in her New Testament: he must never overlook an insult or a slight. It is rather strange how many Christians (Christians otherwise, that is) have had the same notion. Long after dueling was outlawed in most states, it was still going on in the "Bible Belt." It has gone out there too by now; which may be an indication that people understand the Gospel better than they once did.

The Need for Forgiveness

In a southern town there lives a man who was in a penitentiary in another state, for 19 years, for a crime he did not commit. He was a stranger and he had a gun; so when the local hoodlums all came up with alibis, this man was a convenient mark, and to the penitentiary he went. And there he stayed even after the real criminal confessed. Authorities kept him there, because if the facts became known, and the man released, some important reputations and careers would be ruined. Finally, through the efforts of a sister and a friend he was released, 19 years not guilty, but punished all the same, even years after his innocence was established. Would you be in a forgiving mood after that? Not many people have tremendous, long-lasting injustices done to them of that sort; yet the story illustrates one point about forgiveness: it is not always a matter of forgiving persons directly. One may suffer severely, unjustly, without its being possible to identify the persons who are responsible for things we suffer (such as unfair laws, or curtailed civil rights in some ways); but although we cannot forgive the responsible persons—who may be many—face to face, it is just as important to harbor bitterness in the heart against fate in general as it is to feel bitterly about someone we know.

God Has More to Put Up With

When Peter asked his question about forgiveness, he was thinking, it seems, of a kind of rule. Forgive a man once, twice . . . to seven times; but the eighth time is one too much? Jesus' reply,—that if a brother repents 70 times seven times, we are to forgive him just as many times—is not a matter of strict arithmetic. It is not intended as a rule. It is Jesus' way of saying: Forgiveness must be without limit. The reason Jesus suggests, in his parable, goes to the heart of things: God has far more to forgive than we have. Even an apostle, Jesus suggests, has sinned against God more than any man has ever sinned against him. What we have to put up with from others every day, are trifles compared with what God has to put up with from us. If the reader thinks this is an exaggeration, let him consider one point: the way we Christians misrepresent God. His reputation in this world is maintained or blackened by those who profess to be his people. We claim to be his children, and yet we often act as if we had been sired by the devil. Few if any human beings have been so persistently slandered as God is by his professed friends.

Forgiving From the Heart

Forgiveness has been called a fiction, and in a way it is. It is not the same as ignoring or condoning, but it treats the offender exactly as if no offense had been committed. That may be fiction; but there is no true forgiveness without forgetting. God's forgiveness is complete: he casts forgiven sins "behind his back"—he "remembers them no more." Human forgiveness like all things human is never complete, for in spite of our best efforts the thing will keep coming back to mind. Nevertheless, true Christian forgiveness makes every effort to forget. Forgiving without forgetting leaves things much as they were. Only in complete forgiveness can there be a complete new start. Erasing the whole thing from mind, living as if it never had happened: this may be a fiction; but it is a fiction of love.

NOTICE OF MUNICIPAL ELECTION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the legally qualified voters of the Town of Oakland, Maryland, that an election will be held on for the purpose of balloting for:

Mon., the 11th Day of March, 1957

Three Persons to be members of the Town Council of said Town for a term of Two Years.

One Person to be Treasurer of Oakland, Maryland, for a term of One Year.

The polls of said election will be open at the hour of nine o'clock a. m., and will remain open until the hour of six o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber in the Municipal Building on Third Street.

By Order of the Mayor and Town Council:

MRS. JAMES H. NORDECK, Clerk

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

Federal aid to school construction continues to be a highly controversial issue. My misgivings over adequate safeguards against federal control of our educational system prompted my appearance before the House Education and Labor Committee on the school construction bill. I suggested that the only certain means of assuring a minimum of federal interference was to have the Congress spell out in detail in the measure itself the things the Federal Government cannot do. The law itself should make clear the educational areas in which the state would remain supreme. It also should specify the exact amount of federal funds for each state and not leave the granting of money to administrative discretion.

House Judiciary Committee study of a civil rights measure is completed and the bill is much the same as that passed by the House last year. Some modifications and changes were made by the Committee, which make the hill slightly more palatable to the South. In addition, a provision establishing a civil rights division in the Justice Department was adopted. The revised measure also calls for an additional Attorney General to head the new section in the Department.

Construction funds for the area's new Veterans' Hospital were urged by me in testimony before the House Appropriations Committee last week. Money for planning and preliminary work is in the budget, hut it seems to me important that money for actual construction be included this year in order to speed the building of the new hospital at a site near Rockville.

Transfer of Bailey Bridge at Corriganville in Allegany County from the Federal Government to the County is provided for in a hill introduced by me last week. The bridge was built in 1948 by the Government to replace one destroyed in a flood and was loaned to the County at that time. Transfer of ownership to the County would result in savings and settle questions of jurisdiction.

Wednesday, March 6—8:00 p. m., D. C. Bar Association, Carlton Hotel.

Thursday, March 7—After House adjournment, I expect to go to Cumberland.

Friday, March 8 and Saturday, March 9, Cumberland Office.

Saturday, March 9—6:00 p. m., Federation of Citizens' Associations, Mayflower Hotel.

Tuesday, March 12—6:00 p. m., Maryland Bankers' Association dinner, Statler Hotel.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

A Scared World

Within the past few weeks there has seemed — and still seems — a reasonably close prospect that our foreign policies concerning the problems with which we are confronted in the Middle East and elsewhere easily could bring us into the third—and most terrible of all—wars. Almost without warning, and certainly without desire, we could be plunged into a titanic struggle for existence which will leave those who survive living in an utterly wrecked world. This has so often been stated that it no longer seems as dreadful as at first when the facts were presented. Probably this is largely due to the fact that the warnings of ultimate disaster were so often made and so horrendously depicted that their failure to materialize may have made us impervious to the possibilities—even when they have become probabilities.

* * *

In brief, they go right up to the brink and then something somehow, someway, always occurs by which the ultimate calamity is averted and civilization in its feeble way somehow totters on. In some ways today, this notion, nebulous as it is, appears the most solid thing to which we cling. True, there are violent criticisms of our present policies. They seem to come from all directions and to be uttered with great force and fluency. Nevertheless, when one comes to analyze the attacks they seem to leave a number of important questions unanswered—even untouched. For example, think of those who stimulated the last world war—where they are now and how they came out of it—Hitler, Mussolini, Japan, Italy, Germany—all the aggressor nations, all the aggressor leaders. Where are they now? To whom do they matter now? It does seem that the answer to these questions is the surest insurance against war. Yet, here are the two greatest of all nations frantically building up vast armaments at almost inconceivable expense to prepare for a war that may never come.

* * *

Yet, what else is there to do? To go unprepared is absurd, to be less than fully prepared is to invite attack and, with our past experiences of what crazy men can do, no one wants to invoke unnecessary risk. So, considering all the circumstances, it does appear that this ridiculous situation of the two greatest nations of the world preparing in the most costly possible way for a gigantic conflict which may never happen must go on until some way is found for two such different ideologies to exist in a world such as ours, without violence, mass murder or slavery.

* * *

Considering all the facts, it does appear that in the past decade developments even among the most maniacal indicate that there is no real desire upon the part of any nation or any individual to wreck the world because of vast differences of opinions and ideals such as this world has always known—and always will know. On the contrary, if there are such things as reason, logic and "enlightened self-interest" on this earth today, they would be centered not upon "fighting it out," particularly when everybody knows there is no profit along that road, no possible way for anyone to win, nothing but complete disaster in the end. Thus, so far as we are concerned, the one way in which real hope lies in this vast, complicated, confused, bewildered country seems simple enough.

* * *

It is to select as President of us all a man whom an overwhelming majority of the people trust, a man who because he knows all about war is the leading advocate of peace, a man of wisdom, experience and proven courage, a man who has no conceivable object save to serve his country and do his best—and then while the emergency exists, to support that man. Last November it appeared that that was what the nation as a whole wanted and by a 9½ million majority had so indicated. Now, that does not seem so sure. In the Senate, hecklers are attacking the President. It appears proper to ask—would they rather follow his recent opponent, Mr. Adlai Stevenson or Senator Kefauver? Or his leading critics, such as Senator Humphrey, of Minnesota, or Senator Morse, of Oregon, or Senator Fulbright, of Arkansas; Mr. Walter Reuther or Senator Symington or Senator Talmadge or Senator Jenner or Chairman Paul Butler? To ask these questions is to answer them. No one would be more appalled than his critics to have either Mr. Eisenhower's or Mr. Dulles's responsibilities shifted to their shoulders at this particular moment. If there is a better man than Ike to lead us in this emergency, why have we not heard of him? If there isn't a better man what is the reason for heckling him? Politics?

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

One of the most popular sayings making the rounds in Washington these days goes something like this—"A whale has a far greater chance of being harpooned if he's spouting."

The allusion, of course, is to the frequency with which criticism is directed toward anyone who makes a public statement, but it occurs to me that the entire example changes when we give it fuller consideration.

In Sympathy With Whale

Without casting reflections on the opinions of the numerous individuals who have used the expression I would like to note that when a whale "spouts" it is merely exhaling.

If a whale did not "spout," it would probably drown after submersion.

I, for one, am in sympathy with the whale and I would much rather "spout" in the open occasionally, leaving myself vulnerable to the attacks of opponents, than doom myself to the fate which attends evasive silence.

Criticism Invited

That is why I send these weekly newsletters, and that is why I fully expect—and appreciate—the criticism which my publicly stated views sometimes inspire.

It goes without saying, of course, that I also like to hear expressions of support for my positions on various issues.

Many extremely interesting and informative comments have been forwarded to my office with the questionnaires we are currently distributing, and I will give a full report on the matter in approximately a month.

As I have stated previously, my analyses of the results will be made in such a way that the identities of those who have cooperated in the project will be fully protected.

Budget Cut Seen Possible

One thing that impressed me deeply as I studied the first batch of completed questionnaires was the concern which many Marylanders feel about the budget.

Realizing the economies that can result from enactment of certain Hoover Commission recommendations, I sincerely believe that we can cut proposed expenditures by more than $3 billion without adversely affecting our national defense or economy.

One of the first things we must do to achieve this goal is to eliminate programs in which the Government is in competition with private business. I intend to keep doing everything possible to see that this is accomplished.

From My Appointment Book

During the week my visitors included members of the 9th grade of Western Junior High School, Montgomery County, and three foreign ladies, one from Pakistan and two from Iceland, who were touring Washington with a Maryland friend. My evening engagements included a dinner at the White House, a testimonial banquet in honor of Judge Simon E. Sobeloff the victory party of the Republican State Central Committee of Anne Arundel County, and an affair sponsored by the Chizuk Amuno Brotherhood in Baltimore.

THE MIGHTY CHRYSLER
Most glamorous car in a generation

When the wind blows—this baby won't rock!

You can buck the strongest blasts of March in The Mighty Chrysler without road-sway or hard steering. Impartial wind tunnel tests proved that Chrysler's high rear fins cut down tail-wagging in the wind just as an airplane's vertical tail section prevents side-sway.

Wind or no wind, Chrysler's Torsion-Aire Ride makes the sharpest turns, the quickest stops, the roughest roads a breeze to take. No other line car has this exclusive combination of torsion bars, rubber-isolated ball-joints, and outrigger rear springs. It gives you the comfort and safety of a luxury car with the "feel" and roadability of a sports car.

Combine this new kind of suspension with an up-to-325 horsepower engine, a satiny new pushbutton-operated Torque-Flite transmission*, plus all the other 1957 improvements your Chrysler dealer will show you, and you'll agree—this is your car! *Optional at extra cost

VOLUME 81. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., MARCH 14, 1957. PER COPY, 8c NUMBER 2.

What's Beneath? . . .

We can't help being suspicious of much of Senator Friend's proposed legislation, because so much of it is "spite" legislation of the worst sort. That is why we are inclined to wonder just what is underneath his latest attempt in the form of a resolution introduced in the Senate on March 6, which calls for a legislative committee to investigate and study problems of managing and marketing the state's resources in forest lands and forest products.

In one of his "whereas" clauses he declares that "frequently, practical lumbermen, with life-long experience and a knowledge in problems of managing and harvesting trees, have questioned whether the State's policies are proper ones and whether following other procedures and policies, the Department of Forests and Parks might not be able to realize greater productivity and financial return from cutting and sale of trees and forestry products."

If what he is proposing is "clear cutting" of the state's forest land, we would be inclined to question his motives. In former years the Senator has fostered this type of cutting on his own lands and we can readily see what would happen to the water reserves of this county should the state begin a wanton cutting of its 110,000 acres just to increase its revenue for two or three years. I venture to say the recreational activities at Deep Creek would drop to near zero, our game would be reduced and there would be no water reserve for our wells and streams.

Mr. Friend bucked the forest conservancy act which went into effect in the early 1940's, and which apparently has worked satisfactorily under a local conservancy board. Studies made recently indicate that in the Swallow Falls area it would take 28 years to build up the growth to where it would yield 4,000 feet to the acre. By the same studies it was found it would take 16 years to do the same at Potomac State forest and 15 years at Savage River forest. Much of the state owned land today was either cut over or burned over when it first came into the state's possession and it has taken a lot of years to build it up. As we see it, this is a long range program.

The Senator's resolution, if passed, would call for a committee to hold meetings, confer with "timber experts" and formulate plans for hamstringing the forestry department. This could turn out to be a real "witch hunt" for if we know how the Senator works these timber" experts" that he would force on the committee would be hand picked and not particularly competent.

The department has asked for hearings on the resolution. We hope that the Senate committee will go deep enough into the motives behind this bill to find out just actually what is behind this attempt that looks to be on the surface another "spite" regulation.

County Schools Will Operate On Daylight Time

The County Board of Education, at a regular meeting Tuesday morning, voted unanimously to place all schools in the county on daylight time.

Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, said the decision was made primarily because of the need to transport 240 children to Allegany county from Bloomington and Finzel areas who for the most part must travel or meet the same buses transporting children to county schools.

He said the decision was also influenced by the fact that many requests had been received to place schools on daylight time and that most of the incorporated towns already had adopted daylight time.

To Keep Bittinger Open

The board voted to table the matter of closing the Bittinger school, at least for the present. Hawkins said the board felt that money should not be spent for remodeling the old building at Bittinger when adequate housing was available at either Grantsville, Accident or North Glade, and parents could be given a choice of which school. He said the board would keep the present building in a

Favor McHenry For Fair Site

The Steering committee for the Garrett County Fair will recommend to the Board of Directors that the Bowman boat storage barn at McHenry be the site for the agriculture fair this year, it was announced this week. The committee said this recommendation was being made after much research on the plan.

The committee said it had considered a centralized location, housing for exhibits and parking space available in leading it to a decision.

The committee has been in touch with the State Fair Board, and a member from this county will meet with that board April 11 in the hopes of securing premium money.

The tentative premium list has been set up by the committee with assistance from the Extension service and has been presented to the state fair board.

A meeting is set for Monday night at Accident Elementary school, at which time the Board of Directors will be named. Anyone wishing to help with gathering stock subscriptions may do so Monday night, it was stated.

At a meeting of the Steering committee of the Fair board on Thursday night at Accident a group of men were named for proceeding with the incorporation of the organization. The men included Baity Ridder, Red House; Ellery Garletts, Friendsville; Allen Paugh, Deer Park; James Helbig, Oakland, secretary; Daniel Klotz, Grantsville; John Brenneman, Accident.

The group is now ready for selling stock subscriptions and blanks were given to those at the meeting last Thursday. H. G. Gortner, chairman, said he hoped to have enough stock sold by Monday night for 500 shares. He explained that after 500 shares at $10 a share are sold the board of directors can be elected by the stockholders.

The steering committee has been working all winter in weekly sessions or oftener. The committee includes Mr. Gortner as chairman, Mr. Helbig, secretary; Asa Nethkin, vice-chairman; Emroy Bolden, William Wildesen, Mrs. George Hanst, Walter DeBerry, Richard Bishoff, Elwood Beckman, Baity Ridder, Harland Bowman, Lowell Loomis.

Nabbed For Illegal Whiskey Apparatus

Delbert Ira Wilt, 53, of near Jennings, was arrested Tuesday night on several charges, one growing out of the others.

State Troopers Glenn Folk, Robert Henline and Donald Tucker and Constable Carl Glotfelty were called to the Bear Hill section to investigate a shooting. This resulted in charges of assault being lodged against Wilt by Lula Hay and Robert Hay.

While conducting the investigation the officers found evidence of the presence of "stills," and an investigator for the State Alcoholic unit was called. This resulted in Wilt being charged with possession of apparatus designed for unlawful manufacture of alcoholic beverage, in two separate alleged offenses. The state man said that a still and coil were discovered behind the Wilt house, and at a house nearby owned by his father, Nelson Wilt, a coil was discovered plus a cap for a still of about 100 gallon capacity. Nine barrels of mash had been recently upset, the tax unit official stated.

The two residences are near the Lincoln road.

Apparently no one was injured in the shooting which the officers first went to investigate.

Spring in the Air

Spring is definitely in the air this week, but for how long is uncertain. Warm days and cold nights were favorable to the maple syrup season and there were several of those this week.

A quantity of snow also fell last Friday which made ski weather possible over the week-end but it was more for local people than for any visitors. The snow came too late to notify the Washington and Baltimore skiers. A light snow continued to fall Saturday. Sunday was cold and fairly clear. The weather moderated Monday with some rain falling at night. Tuesday was clear, warm and windy. Wednesday was warm and sunny and there were indications that Thursday would also be the same.

Two juveniles who had pleaded guilty to breaking into the A. D. Naylor and Company and Carroll E. Miller stores in recent days, and who were arrested last week, were sentenced to serve two years in the House of Correction when appearing before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley sitting as a juvenile judge.

Sheriff Paul Fisher said he was taking them to Jessups this morning.

Jurors Return Seven True Bills

The March term grand jury recessed Tuesday afternoon after having been in session for two full days. The jury examined 25 witnesses and returned seven indictments.

Four of the seven indictments concerned robberies while three concerned bastardies. Three of the robbery indictments were against Raymond Pack and Dewey Pack, who are now in custody of West Virginia officials. The other robbery indictment is against George Ellis Artice, Jr., who is under bond.

Due to limited space at the last minute the complete report of the grand jury will be held over until next week.

Final Approval Given On Little Yough Watershed

Congress Okays Project For Construction Of Retaining Structures

The House Committee on Agriculture in the Congress of the United States on Monday gave its final approval to the Little Youghiogheny Watershed project which had been brewing since November of 1955. This completes the legislative action on the project, since the Senate committee gave its approval several weeks ago.

The Department of Agriculture has been advised of final Congressional approval, according to Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde.

The work plan outlined in December, 1955 was to cost around $300,000 with the County Commissioners and the Town of Oakland agreeing to contribute $40,000 over a five-year period, the Federal government to furnish the balance. In a revised plan approved several weeks ago the Federal government agreed to furnish funds for all of the construction work.

However, the local group was given the responsibility of securing the easements for the properties involved where the construction of the six proposed impoundment dams are to be located. Some 18 to 20 properties are involved, but 50 or more persons are the owners and they must be contacted for easement rights.

There are three major parts to the plan. It is a combination of land treatment measures, stream channel improvement work and flood water retarding structures. The stream channel improvement work is work to be done on the Little Youghiogheny river between Oakland and where the river empties into the Big Youghiogheny river.

The construction of six dams is in the over-all plan, two of them on Wilson Run and one on Broad Ford, which empties into Wilson Run near the city limits at the northeast edge of town; with the three other dams to control the flow of the Little Youghiogheny river. These dams would be constructed at Loch Lynn, Mt. Lake Park and Deer Park.

William W. Nace, district soil conservationist, said he planned to ask H. D. Swartzentruber, representing the county commissioners; Lenwood Bittinger, representing the soil conservation district; and Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, city council member, to a meeting on Friday to go over the entire program. He said his department still had to draw the final designs for the proposed impoundments. All construction work necessary would be given out under contract.

Mail Route Shortened

Some twenty persons were living in the same area they lived in last week, but they now have different postoffice addresses.

This is because one of Oakland's mail routes, route No. 2, was shortened some eight miles as of March 8.

The twenty patrons are now receiving their mail at either Eglon or Aurora, W. Va., and one, who teaches school at Horse Shoe Run, had his mail changed to that address.

William Eggers, rural route carrier, said a part of route 2 had been in existence since 1904. The shake-up followed a series of inspections by a postoffice official. Eggers, who had a route of some 59 miles, now is required to travel fifty one miles. One or two patrons, not liking the new arrangement, said they are going to move their mail boxes so that they would be within the confines of route No. 2, so they could still get their mail at the same address.

Adopts Daylight Time

At a regular meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Accident a motion that Accident adopt daylight saving time beginning Sunday, April 28, was adopted, according to Helen M Ault, clerk.

This makes at least four towns that plan to be on daylight time this year. They are Oakland, Grantsville, Friendsville and Accident.

Adopt Daylight Time

At a meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Mt. Lake Park last Friday evening the body passed a motion to adopt daylight saving time for the summer months.

Airstrip Plan For County Considered

A possible plan for an airstrip for Garrett county received consideration at a meeting of the Oakland Rotary club last Friday evening.

The plan was outlined by Rudolph A. Drennan, director of the Maryland Aviation commission, who had spent all day Friday with local air enthusiasts in inspecting possible sites.

Increased air travel, increased interest in aviation and the economic importance of aviation to the community are factors which should be considered, Drennan reported to the Rotarians and their fifteen or more guests. He urged them to pursue the idea and suggested that since the county is promoting its recreational opportunities and already has an established resort around Deep Creek Lake both summer and winter, an airport or an adequate landing strip would be a natural economic adjunct to this program and development.

The speaker explained that Federal funds in the amount of about 50 percent of the total cost are available and state funds of about 25 percent may become available before the legislature adjourns. Some of the local costs could include the use of county machinery in leveling the area and in doing other required work, he said. He also reminded his audience that an airstrip in the area would make possible the organization of a Civil Air patrol unit where cadets and others could be trained, opening a new avenue of opportunity to young people and others in this air-minded age.

The speaker asked his listeners to consider the problem as air transportation and not just aviation. He explained how air travel had come into its own after World War II until today it was the largest employer in the United States and already the second largest in Maryland.

He pointed out that the biggest air business today was not the commercial air lines but corporate and business aircraft. He felt an airstrip was one of the best means for attracting all types of visitors, that it would become a part of local business and would be good for industry.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner led the ticket with 183 ballots. Carroll E. Miller, another incumbent, polled 147 votes, and Eugene Flinn, the newcomer, an instructor at Southern High school, polled 144. James Nally, incumbent, and candidate for re-election, was defeated by six votes, receiving 138.

Mrs. Berylding Stanton, unopposed for re-election as town treasurer, received 201 votes.

There were eight write-in votes for council. Dr. H. R. Gibson received two, W. O. Treacy 2, Lowell Loomis 1, S. F. Hamill 1, I. R. Rudy, Jr. 1, and George K. Littman 1.

Mayor Russell L. Smith has another year to serve, while holdover members of the council are Robert Maroney, Harry L. Stempic and Clayton Winters.

A number of persons attempted to vote who found out that they were not registered. Persons who have lived in the city limits for six months are entitled to register and they may do so during the regular office hours of the council in the City Hall.

Final rehearsals will be held next Sunday afternoon and next Wednesday night. Dr. H. R. Gibson, chairman of the committee for comedy, announced that his group had contacted the "Masked Marvel," and there were possibilities he would appear on the program. His act is listed as "dangerous, different and dastardly." The club will announce next week if they are successful in securing him.

Tickets are obtainable from any member of the club or may be purchased at the door. E. Ray Jones and committee will have refreshments available during intermission.

Named As Director

A. O. Riley, of Oakland, was elected as a director of the Potomac Valley Production Credit association at the annual stockholders meeting on March 7. Mr. Riley has been a director for a number of years. He will serve a term of three years.

The stockholders meeting was held at the Upper Potomac Shrine club at Burlington with around 180 stockholders from five counties in West Virginia and Allegany and Garrett counties in attendance. Dr. Percy Warren, dean of Madison college, Harrisonburg, Va., was principal speaker.

Garrett County Ruling Upheld By High Court

Way Is Left Open For John Brenneman To Collect Amount Due Him

The Maryland Court of Appeals on Tuesday upheld a Garrett County Circuit Court injunction preventing County Commissioner Aubrey C. Brenneman from acting as a commissioner during discussions on the balance due his son, John J. Brenneman, for drilling done at Bishop's quarry.

But a reversal of two paragraphs of Judge Henderson's decree left the way open for John J. Brenneman to collect the amount due him from this county.

An Associated Press dispatch from Annapolis said the appeals court ruled that Brenneman "directly or indirectly participated in the benefits of an agreement between the commissioners and a drilling firm."

Brenneman had argued for release from the injunction on grounds that he is not a partner in the drilling firm. He said he severed his relationship with the "A. C. Brenneman and Son" drilling business when he received the Republican nomination for County Commissioner.

But the appeals court said "the more money John made out of his work with the commissioners, the more likelihood there would be that Aubrey would be repaid what John owed him . . . even if a partnership did not exist . . . and although Aubrey may not have acted otherwise than in an unbiased manner."

The injunction against Brenneman was obtained by another commissioner, Ervin A. Roth, who said he brought suit after "becoming suspicious as to the interest of Brenneman in the drilling business supposed to be conducted by his son . . . alone."

In the same suit Roth obtained an injunction against the other commissioner, Harvey D. Swartzentruber, to prevent him from selling any merchandise to the county. Roth had claimed that Brenneman and Swartzentruber, without his knowledge, purchased $60.40 worth of material for the county from Swartzentruber's mercantile business. Swartzentruber did not appeal the lower court decree. He had previously admitted selling a briefcase at cost to Roads Engineer W. W. DeWitt, and at one time furnishing some tarpaulins to the county at cost in an emergency in order to keep a large quantity of cement dry and to save the county from a loss of several hundred dollars.

Aubrey Brenneman contended that Roth filed the lower court suit "to get even with him for objecting to the payments by the commissioners to Roth for delivering surplus food in the county."

But the high court said "the allegations of want of good faith and the motives of Roth as a taxpayer are immaterial."

John Brenneman claims there is an unpaid balance of $16,438 for his work in drilling rock at the quarry as preparation for obtaining limestone for road work. The high court said this claim could be determined by future proceedings and "nothing in this opinion or in the opinion of the chancellor is to be construed as in any way passing upon the merits of any such claim."

Forcing The Issue? - - -

Senator Friend seems to be trying to force the issue on Senate Bill 141, commonly known as "The Ripper Bill." It is known as a "ripper bill' because it is designed to rip somebody right of office, and is spite legislation of the worst sort.

The Senator has prepared another pink sheet, which probably will hit some 2,000 boxholders in the county today or tomorrow.

In it he declares that an effort was being made by his enemies to make it appear that he was activated by personal animosity but he declares he is solely concerned with obtaining more elficient and more economical operation of the County Roads department.

He lets people know that the bill passed the Senate in January, was delivered to the House of Delegates and referred to the county delegation, and declares it was still being held there by Delegates Edwards and Ashby who have so far refused to move it out of committee.

He says in his pink sheet that apparently it is the intention of these two delegates to kill this measure in order to "permit the same irresponsible waste and mismanagement to continue in our roads department for another two years."

Delegates Edwards and Ashby, in our judgment, are to commended for holding up such a bill and we hope they hold firm in their convictions.

The "ripper bill," if enacted, would require the appointment of a county roads engineer with a civil engineering degree, which would automatically eliminate W. W. DeWitt, who has done a remarkable job in taking care of the roads program in this county. Instead of six or seven thousand dollars, presently paid our roads engineer, the new bill, if enacted, would cost at least $10,000 for a civil engineer.

The senator is loose with words, as usual, in his pink sheet. He charges "mismanagement" in the roads department and has nothing to back up his statement. Two previous grand juries have made thorough investigations into the Roads department expenditures and have ended up congratulating them for a service well rendered.

But the opinion of fifty honorable men apparently has no effect on the Senator. His pink sheet harps again on the steel girders and the condition of our county roads.

Make no mistake about this bill. It is full of animosity, hatred, and propelled by one motive alone, and that is to get rid of W. W. DeWitt as county roads engineer. As such the bill has no right to pass.

Although this pink sheet holds Delegates Edwards and Ashby up to ridicule and is designed to force the issue, we hope it makes these two more firm in their conviction that the bill is bad and should be killed.

Garrett County

The high court opinion struck down two paragraphs of the lower court decree. One of them dealt with the Board of County Commissioners as a whole where the board was not a party to the suit.

The reversal of the other paragraph now gives Mr. Brenneman the right to sue the county if necessary, through court channels, in order to receive payment for his account.

The paragraph of Chief Judge George Henderson, which is reversed by the court of appeals, read in full: That the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, and such Board of County Commissioners sitting as the Garrett County Road Board, be and they are hereby temporarily enjoined from making any further payments on account of the drilling operations of 'John J. Brenneman' or 'A. C. Brenneman and Son' until the further order of this court, this temporary injunction will be dissolved upon proper proof herein that the proper legal amount due for such drilling operations has been determined by agreement between the parties concerned (in the negotiations for which Aubrey C. Brenneman may not sit as a County Commissioner) or through appropriate legal proceedings."

Proof Needed When Apply For Social Security

Farmers who plan to give up operation of their farms and apply for old-age insurance should bring necessary proofs to support their claims with them when they visit the Social Security administration district office, according to James E. Robertson, manager, of Cumberland.

Proof of age and earnings will speed up processing of the claims. When a farmer retires and applies for old-age insurance he will need extra copies of his 1955 and 1956 Federal income tax returns, proof of age, his social security tax receipts for 1955 and 1956 and his social security account number card.

Additional information is available from the administration district office in Cumberland.

Hawkins Discusses Teacher Shortage

That the teacher shortage in Maryland was becoming more critical was the statement this week of Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools. With a shortage of 300,000 throughout the country, Maryland alone will need 3,809 new teachers to staff every classroom next September. Maryland colleges will graduate only 1,120 students prepared to teach.

Of this number quite a few will go to other fields and he estimated Maryland would have to look for as many as 2,700 teachers from beyond the borders of the state.

He pointed out that the teacher pay scale was no longer a drawing card, with the present pay scale no longer sufficiently high to attract.

Mr. Hawkins felt the situation here would depend upon what happens to the teacher salary bill now before the legislature. He said failure to pass the bill would result in a large salary differential in the counties of Maryland.

Last year the county teacher turnover was one of the lowest in the state but even then he said there was difficulty in finding trained people in specialized fields, and a number of teachers were employed who did not meet standard certification.

The present bill before the legislature, if passed, would provide a $400 increase for teachers in 1957-58 and another $400 in 1958-59. He said such a bill would place the county in a position to compete favorably for its share of trained teachers. At present nearly 80 percent of the annual cost of education in the county is paid for by the state. Increased teacher salaries would also mean an increase in the appropriation the county would receive for such operating costs as textbooks, library books, instructional aids, insurance, maintenance and repair, fuel, light, office expenses, custodians' salaries, etc. The amount of money received for such necessities is based upon 20 percent of the teachers' salaries.

Mr. Hawkins said it had long been assumed a state responsibility in Maryland to provide a sound minimum program of education for all children, regardless of where they lived. He said children here deserve and need an education just as good as that received by children in the wealthiest counties, and that teachers were just as valuable to their schools here as in wealthy counties and deserve as much pay.

He pointed out the children here now enjoy better education, in better schools, by better teachers than at any other period, but that a large teacher turnover now would not be good.

From the standpoint of keeping good teachers in our classrooms, so that the right kind of education can be provided, and in order that the forward progress can continue, Mr. Hawkins urged the passage of the teacher salary bill now before the legislature.

Brownies Observing Girl Scout Week

Members of the Mountain Lake Park Brownie Scout Troop No. 2 are observing Girl Scout Week. They attended Bethel Methodist church on Sunday in a group, took part in the church program by singing four songs and presented a picture to the Sunday School.

The Brownies have a display in the Helbig Jewelry store in Oakland which will remain there the rest of the week.

Mrs. Stanley Snyder, leader, said the girls are now engaged in activities which include making Easter favors for the hospital, making scrapbooks, doll dresses, learning the eleven Brownie scout songs, acting out records, dancing and marching.

At a meeting Monday the girls each placed a lighted candle in honor of the 45th birthday of Girl Scouting in America.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

These Traipsin' Women!

In the spring when the weather turns to summer, Garrett county women get on the move as was evidenced at the clothing session at Accident this week. We can really bestir ourselves when style, fabrics and what's right for us is going to be discussed by someone from the center of the fashion world.

Knowing how I had rushed to get there, leaving all kinds of things undone I wondered how other women managed.

So I sought out women who were calm and collected and asked them what they got done before they left home.

There was Mrs. Russell Klotz, of Hoyes, who had chubby Dong, 1, on her shoulder and Annette, 2, by the hand. Her morning hadn't added up to much in the way of accomplishment, she felt. There was breakfast and lunches to pack. She got her husband off to work, one off to school, one to the neighbors. There were dishes to wash, beds to make, a call for Red Cross. As vice-president of county homemakers she is in charge of national demonstration week in the county and there were important changes in program which took her time and thought before getting to the fire hall by 10 a. m.

Mrs. Charles Warnick of the Swallow Falls club didn't exactly let grass grow under her feet either. She washed her hair, packed lunches, drove her husband to Swanton to work, got a child off to school, another to the neighbors and did the ironing. So her day could be counted as recreation since she'd go home and wash after dark.

I approached another young woman who turned out to be Mrs. Claude Winters, of Eglon (Dr. Blanche's daughter) "It's not what she did," said Mrs. Wayne Hamilton, "but what she didn't do for she's going to be buried in about three days."

It seems that a load of lime was being delivered to the Winters farm and she was directed to tell them where to unload it, but fashion went straight to her head and off she came to her neighboring state to find out where to take a tuck or make a slit in a muslin bodice. What's a load of lime when one has an opportunity to talk about the latest styles and watch a living fashion plate that was right out of Butterick which I'm here to tell you was out of this world—well maybe not clear out—maybe Paris.

Then I met up with Mrs. Bruce Folk, of Grantsville. I had never seen her before but she had that certain look about her. Did she get much work done before dolling up for Accident?

"Oh, about the usual amount," she replied. "Got two men off to work, with packed lunches. Took care of 200 chickens, five toy fox terriers, cleaned up the house, watered the plants. My assortment of violets, gloxina and cacti takes about 15 minutes."

"Going anywhere tonight?" she replied. "We're getting company."

Mrs. Harold Miller, of Grantsville, had a little fling at the business world before she grabbed her coat and bonnet for fashion at the fire hall.

"We have a store. I sorted the change and pay tickets and waited on customers while my husband took care of the books. In my spare minutes I'd run upstairs to our apartment and do the housework. Then the minister called that we're having two new hymns at church tonight, so I had to see if I would be able to play them."

The last one I got to interview before that little slick chick from New York started in again making us feel that it's so easy to get the know-how of smart styling, was Mrs. Bill Ritchey, of Deer Park.

"Mrs. Ritchie, did you get much done before leaving home this morning?"

"Well I guess I did! Bill got breakfast and I washed the dishes."

Mrs. Ritchey was still traipsin' when I saw her in the evening. After church she was looking in on the circle meetings as president of the Aid, but regardless of her business approach she was still carrying the imprint of the day.

"Look," she laughed. "I got out my long white gloves tonight and rippled them at the wrist so I'd be in the latest style."

But oh my! Isn't it just wonderful to be a woman and like clothes, especially when there's the smell of spring in the air?

Russia set off another nuclear test explosion on March 8.

$2,500 Suit Is Moved From Garrett County

A $2,500 damage suit brought by William Knieriem, of Frostburg, against Paul Wiland, of Grantsville, was docketed Monday in Allegany County Circuit court after its removal from this county.

Knieriem, through Attorney Edward J. Ryan, filed the suit February 13, in this county. Last Friday he filed the suggestion for removal and Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley signed the order of removal to Allegany county.

The plaintiff stated in his declaration that he was driving east on the National Highway near the Johnson Farm, now the property of M. W. Race, shortly before noon last November 29. He charged that the defendant, driving west on the same highway, attempted to pass a truck and struck Knieriem's car head-on.

Knieriem asserted that his car was a total loss and that he sustained a broken jaw, dislocated pharynx and other injuries and was unable to work from November 29 until January 2.

McKeldin turned down an offer of honorary membership in the Clown Club of America.

Thurmont Eliminates Northern, 59 To 51

Thurmont High school of Frederick County defeated Northern High school last Friday night in an overtime period contest. The final score was 59 to 51.

Thurmont was forced to play a three-minute overtime period since the regular game ended at 47-47.

Thurmont, coached by Carlos Englar and winner of 15 out of 18 games during the regular campaign, trailed Northern by four points 47 to 43, with two minutes remaining in the regulation game, then rallied and knotted the count at 47-all on a foul goal by Lynn with 23 seconds left to play.

Before the final whistle Weigle blew a foul shot for Thurmont and Darwin Robeson missed a pair of free throws for the Garrett countians.

In the overtime period Spalding and Glass slammed in shots from the field to make it 49-49. Then a long shot by Favorite and successive baskets by Lynn and Spalding made it 55 to 49.

Five Northern players left the game via personal fouls in the final and overtime periods. They were Robeson, Dick Spear, Ronnie Glass, Tom Schroyer and Edgar Mickey. Schroyer was top scorer for Northern with 15 points. W. Humberson had 9. Robeson 4. Spear 9. Glass 2. Mickey 5. McKenzie 2. Hetrick 5. Fike 2. Wright was non-scoring.

Thurmont outscored Northern 21 goals to 14 but Northern had the edge in fouls, scoring 23 of 41 attempts compared to 17 out of 39 for Thurmont.

Thurmont led 13 to 11 at the quarter but Northern was ahead 24 to 23 at the half. The score was tied at 38-all at the end of the third period.

It was Northern's first class "B" championship since Northern and Southern were both placed in that class. Several years ago Northern represented the county in the class "B" tournament, but at that time Southern was listed as a class "A" school. This year Northern won both regular season games against Southern.

Thurmont was defeated by Valley High of Lonaconing on Saturday night by the score of 62 to 48.

Suggests TV Opportunities

The versatile political antics which Senator Friend has performed during the past year would qualify him as the nation's best prospective television star. And by the very diversity of his antics, Mr. Friend would not be a star in merely one field of TV entertainment, but could display his talents in any number of program types.

For one, Mr. Friend could be a top-notch comedian. Only a few weeks ago he rose to address the Senate during debate on an important bill, and announced that he had nothing to say. (This statement, as a commentary on the total of Mr. Friend's political speeches could not be improved upon.) Then the Senator allowed as how he would sit down again, and he did so immediately, as befits a man of resolute character. Unfortunately, the Senator's golden wit was heard only by those attending the debate, and it lost much of its effect when recounted second-hand in the newspapers. Surely such humor should not be wasted on the Maryland Senate, where comedy is supposed to rate below lawmaking; it should be applied to television, where comic originality is welcomed, and where millions of viewers, instead of a handful, could be entertained.

Should Mr. Friend decide to pursue a TV career he could benefit Garrett county in two ways, the foremost being through public relations. As a star comedian he could do for Garrett what Herb Shriner does for Indiana. Shriner's homespun wit builds a pleasant image of folksiness and convinces people that Indiana is a quiet, friendly place. As a result, many people go to Indiana. Upon Mr. Friend's identifying himself with his own "home place", thousands upon thousands of people would visit this county, whose natural beauty and vacation advantages, once being seen, would induce those visitors to settle here or at least to return again and again. In view of this tremendous economic boost, the other blessing which Mr. Friend's television stardom would confer on the county would be minor indeed: somebody—anybody—would replace him as Senator.

If Mr. Friend did not relish a funnyman's role, he could star in a program of mystery and intrigue, possibly entitled "Politics in the Raw." Consider a typical plot: two 3-man government groups, one appointive and one elective, become deadlocked on an issue involving a large expenditure of public money. Both factions desire the same general service, but two of the appointed members and one elected official refuse to approve any service except the one which uses up the most public money. The possibility of graft is not mentioned. Enter Mr. Friend cast as a skillful, diplomatic, behind-the-scenes operator. He visits the one economy-minded member of the appointed board (who happens to belong to the minority party) and endeavors to change his vote. Failing in this, he convinces a governor to ignore the minority party's lawful list of nominees for appointive offices, and persuades him to appoint only those whom the smooth politician designates. Thus the man who wanted to save the public money is removed from office. Then, in an audacious attempt to pull the wool over the eyes of the world, the politician announces publicly that the ex-official has done nothing to break the deadlock. With Mr. Friend playing the lead role, the tension and nail-biting aroused in millions of televiewers would be devastating. If ratings become high enough, one of Mr. Friend's program sponsors possibly might be the renowned Automatic Voting Machine company. However, Mr. Friend's stardom in such a program would probably be brief, since the public would tire of such fantastic plots and would want something more true to life.

But then Mr. Friend could appear in a Western program, valiantly defending the honor code of the prairies as he strikes down anyone who calls him an odious name. On a show of this type, Mr. Friend could indulge his self-proclaimed "mean and tight-fisted" characteristics to the fullest.

Mr. Friend would not necessarily have to create his own show, but could adapt his talents to existing programs which have suitable names, such as "On Trial," "Father Knows Best," and "Circus Boy."

Conceivably Mr. Friend could appear on the great program of knowledge, "The $64,000 Question," under a limited category, such as "How to take money from the road building program and spend it for the costliest voting machines available." And when Mr. Friend answered the final question, as he almost certainly would, he could buy for the county whatever voting machines his heart desired.

If Mr. Friend liked to keep people guessing, he could appear on the occupational quiz show, "What's My Line?" and there puzzle everybody, because no one knows what his line is from one election to another.

Admittedly, Mr. Friend would be stepping beyond his powers if he chose to star on "Meet the Press," but with his superior abilities in comedy, suspense, and Westerns he would never have to choose.

Perhaps the most delightful consequence of Mr. Friend's mythical invasion of television would be that conscientious citizens, with an effortless flick of a dial, would be able to turn him off.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: Matthew 21:12 ff
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 56:1-12

Highest Command

Lesson for March 17, 1957

WE ALL live by authority of some kind. When some one says, "Do this!" we do it—willingly or unwillingly, but we do it if we can. If a man says, "I wear no man's collar, I do as I please, I am my own authority," a close observer can often perceive that the man is fooling himself. He may have certain habits, certain appetities. He may be one whom Dorothy Parker describes: "Some men cannot pass a bookstore." It may be books, or liquor, or fishing tackle, or women.—something says with compelling voice to this boastful man, "Come!" and he loses no time coming. Sometimes the man who brags most of his own freedom is the man who is the most willing slave.

Dr. Foreman

Who Is in Charge Here?

Consider some of the many bosses of the human race. One authority whose voice is loud in the land is the "Voice of the People." Some politicians live by it. A politician will split the welkin telling the world what a low-grade rat his opponent is; but then the opponent beats him in the primary, and the politician sings another tune. "The people have spoken," he says; and turns around to support the very man who the had just been saying was hardly fit to be dog-catcher. Others again regard the law as the highest command. In their eyes, law can turn right into wrong or wrong into right. But the law is a human thing; any good lawyer will admit that there is a gap between what the law commands or permits, and what is morally right. Law tries to catch up with morals; it never creates right or wrong.

Money Talks

Others again find their highest authority in money. Some will admit it, some will not. But however you find a person making all his decisions in the light of the one question, What will make the most money? Or, What will cost the least? then you know that for that person the last word is with the cash account. One form of this authority is Business. If it's good for Business it's good for the country. In the name of this authority many practices are advocated which are definitely not good for the people who make up the country. For many other persons, the highest command is the voice of the one who is most loved. In times gone by, it might be the King's Favorite. In our more democratic era, individual citizens may take their wife's or husband's word as the last word. Or—to take one more type, for a vast number of persons the highest authority is their Church. Some people even think the church cannot make a mistake!

Jesus, Lord of All

For the Christian, however, his highest command is that of Jesus Christ. The vows taken when a person is confirmed, or joins the church, profess, sometimes in these very words, "I take Jesus Christ for my Lord and Savior." "For my Lord . . ." If the word means what it was intended to mean, it means that above all other authorities is His. All these other commands have their places; but his is supreme. In a great corporation there are many persons with authority; but only one President.

No decision at lower levels is valid if it conflicts with a policy the President has laid down. So there are situations where the money question is decisive. There are other situations in which a political party's decision, slate or platform may be decisive for the party worker, — and so on. But if decisions on these lower levels come into conflict with what we may call the policy of Jesus, then those lower decisions must give way. In Jesus' lifetime He challenged every authority that confronted him. He was responsive to authority within proper bounds (as when He paid taxes or when placed on oath in a trial) but even over the church, even over the inspired Law, He claimed right. The sensible Christian does not claim for Jesus what he did not claim for himself. He did not set up to be an authority on forms of government, financial affairs or farming. But He did lay down certain great principles founded in the will and nature of the heavenly Father.

Judge Fraley Gives Charge to Grand Jury

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley delivered the charge to the grand jurors of the March Term of Court on Monday morning in the courtroom, after which the jurors retired into the grand jury room to begin their deliberations. Judge Fraley explained the duties and responsibilities to the twenty-three persons who composed the investigating body for the county.

The complete charge appears below:

Oakland, Maryland
March Term, 1957

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:

There are two jury terms of court each year in this county. You have been selected to serve as grand jurors tor the March, 1957, term of Court. To be eligible for service as a juror one must be over twenty-five but not over seventy years of age. There is no requirement of property ownership and the only religious qualification is the belief in the existence of God.

It is customary for the Court to charge you with reference to your duties and the procedure you are to follow in your work.

The part which the Grand Jury has in the efficient administration of the criminal law is extremely important. Your body has broad powers of inquiry and may initiate investigations as to alleged violations of the criminal laws of the State. Your action, that is whether to indict or dismiss a charge, cannot be dictated by anybody. The laws of many foreign countries permit persons suspected of a crime to be put on trial at the will of the government or its prosecuting officer. The laws of most jurisdictions in the United States, however, through the Grand Jury system, require that no person shall be tried for a felony until a Grand Jury shall have examined the evidence against him and found that there is sufficient credible evidence to warrant a trial on the charge.

The Grand Jury was designed to be a body of discreet and thinking persons called together not to act hastily and inadvisedly upon an accusation against a citizen and place him upon trial, but to protect the public interest upon the high ground of vindicating the public law. A Grand Juror's actions should be dictated only by a sense of justice and a deep seated desire to reach the guilty and protect the innocent. You will therefore, realize that there is a responsibility resting upon every Grand Juror to prevent your body from being used for intimidation, for revenge or for personal gain.

Indeed, the oath which you have just taken requires that you "shall diligently inquire, and true presentment make of all such matters which may come before you and that you shall present no person through envy, hatred or malice nor leave anyone unpresented through love, fear, favor or affection, or for any hope or promise of reward." The obligation of the oath is the greater in that the grand juror himself is the sole judge of his good faith. He cannot be questioned for anything that he may say or any vote that he may give relative to any matter legally pending before the Grand Jury, save only for perjury committed in making an accusation or in testifying as a witness before his fellow jurors.

You will find that most of the cases presented to you will have been investigated by the State's Attorney and other law enforcement officers. Usually you will hear only the witnesses for the prosecution and it is your duty to decide if the charge is supported by such evidence as warrants the trial of the accused by the criminal court. It is your responsibility to determine whether the charges may be true or false and which should be tried and which dismissed.

In a criminal case an accused is presumed innocent until proved guilty beyond a reasonable doubt and no one should be called upon to answer an unfounded charge. You must bear in mind, however, that a grand jury is an accusing body rather than a judicial tribunal. It is not your function to convict or acquit, you hear but one side of the matter and that is the State's evidence. It is the function of the petit jury or court to determine guilt or innocence after a fair and impartial trial in which the evidence of the State and of the accused has been presented.

While testimony is being produced before you, the only persons allowed in the Grand Jury room besides your own members, are the State's Attorney and the witness testifying before you.

Your body consists of twenty-three members, of which twelve constitute a quorum; and no indictment can be found by you unless at least twelve of your members present concur therein.

Your proceedings must be absolutely secret. No disclosures of any kind are to be made concerning your deliberations or how individual members of the jury voted with respect to any charge considered by your body, unless you are directed by the Court to make any such disclosures.

I believe Garrett County is free of organized vice and crime that often is prevalent in larger communities. It is important, however, that the enforcement officers ever be alert in bringing to justice those guilty of violations of our criminal statutes and your body, too, plays an important part in maintaining law and order in the community.

It is the duty and responsibility of the County Commissioners of the County to see that the public buildings owned by the County are kept in proper repair and that necessary improvements are made. It is the custom for the Grand Jury to inspect these properties and make such recommendations as seem proper and desirable. You will be furnished with a copy of the Grand Jury report of the September Term and you should investigate to see if the recommendations then made have been carried out.

The State's Attorney, Sheriff and other enforcement officers will be available at all times during your deliberations to assist you in the performance of your duties.

You will now retire to the Grand Jury room where you will begin the performance of your duties.

KILL FORAGE INSECTS NOW!
Stop crop-damaging alfalfa weevils, weevil larvae, and spittlebugs now, by spraying your fields with an insecticide containing Heptachlor. Easy-to-use, economical Heptachlor also kills armyworms, cutworms, grasshoppers, lygus bugs and others.

MAKE MORE HAY, MORE MILK AND BEEF, MORE MONEY!
By using Heptachlor you can grow more of your own feed, buy less, and feed your cattle better. Forage insects reduce yields up to 50%, destroying the leafy, high protein parts that contain 70% of the food value of clover and alfalfa. Kill forage insects now for higher yields, more nutritious hay, healthier stands.
BE SAFE! BE SURE! HEPTACHLOR PROTECTS FORAGE CROPS WITHOUT CONTAMINATING MILK!
Tolerance for the use of Heptachlor has been established under the Miller Bill, and USDA and other tests have confirmed the fact that Heptachlor provides effective control of forage insects without contaminating milk. You can cut or pasture sooner after applying Heptachlor, too: 7 days after a 4 ounce per acre application, 10 days after a 5 to 8 ounce per acre application. Today, ask your dealer for . . .

No. 4718 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property, situate in Election District No. 8 of Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and the State of Maryland, to the plaintiffs in this proceeding:

Four parcels of land described as follows:

1. Two parcels of land, the first containing 3 acres and 55½ square rods more or less, and the second 4 acres and 87 square rods more or less, conveyed to James E. Prather by deed from Simon L. Whitmore, et al, dated May 20, 1904, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 47, folio 92, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, all the mineral thereunder being reserved.

2. Parcel of land containing 3.9 acres, more or less, conveyed unto the said James E. Prather by deed from Sylvanus J. Nutter, et ux, dated September 20, 1906, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 54, folio 123, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, all coal and mining rights being reserved.

Said parcels of land are the same which were devised unto Bertha K. Prather by the last will and testament of the said James E. Prather, dated June 8, 1920, and recorded in Wills Liber F, folio 155, one of the records in the Office of the Register of Wills for Garrett County, Maryland.

3. 4½ acres of surface land conveyed to the said Bertha K. Prather by deed from Brown Cooper, et ux, dated September 3, 1921, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 80, folio 208, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The bill states, among other things, that the said Bertha K. Prather departed this life, intestate, October 9, 1953, and that title was vested in the said Howard Biggs and Sicily Biggs, his wife, Vyca Blamble, widow, John Edward Biggs and Elwanda Biggs, his wife, George Albion Biggs and Vera Biggs, his wife, and Mira Lee Brannon and William J. Brannon, her husband, the said Howard Biggs, Vyca Blamble, John Edward Biggs, George Albion Biggs and Mira Lee Brannon being her next of kin and heirs at law at the time of said tax sale, and still so remain; that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than one year and a day from the date of sale has expired.

IT IS THEREUPON, this 20th day of February, 1957, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, ordered that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks, warning all persons interested in the said property to be and appear in this Court by the 6th day of May, 1957, and redeem the property and answer the bill, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property and vesting in the plaintiffs a title free and clear of all encumbrances.

Here is why BLUE CROSS alone earns the official approval of the American Hospital Association

1. BLUE CROSS protects the interests of subscribers through its close association with member hospitals and local medical profession.

Blue Cross has written agreements with member hospitals. Under these agreements, hospitals contract to furnish hospital care to Blue Cross subscribers—the hospital care needed in each case.
Blue Cross, you see, puts the emphasis on hospital care, not just cash to help pay bills. Through its unique working agreements with member hospitals, Blue Cross and the hospitals work in joint responsibility to see that subscribers get the hospital care benefits they need, at the lowest possible cost.

2. BLUE CROSS gives you free choice of hospital and physician.

All forty general hospitals in Maryland are members of the Blue Cross Plan. When your physician arranges to have you admitted to one of these member hospitals, you simply show the hospital your Blue Cross membership card. Blue Cross pays the hospital direct. And, through working agreements with all Blue Cross Plans throughout the country, your Blue Cross protection goes with you when you are away from home.

3. BLUE CROSS is not operated for profit!

Sponsorship, control, and operations of Blue Cross are non-profit, in accordance with the requirements of the American Hospital Association for approval as a Blue Cross Hospital Service Plan. Overall administrative costs—the only part of income not used to pay for subscriber benefits—require currently a little over six cents out of every subscription dollar. Ninety-four cents out of every subscription dollar is used or set aside to pay subscribers' hospital expenses, another reason why Blue Cross pays so many hospital bills in full.

4. BLUE CROSS benefits mean hospital care.

The primary purpose of Blue Cross is to make available the widest possible range of hospital care benefits to as many persons as possible, at the lowest possible cost. Because Blue Cross subscription rates are based upon the actual cost of basic necessary hospital services, Blue Cross benefits mean hospital care. Membership in Blue Shield, the companion plan to Blue Cross, rounds out the protection afforded by Blue Cross. Blue Shield provides medical and surgical benefits, includes payments for consultations and obstetrical care. Blue Cross means hospital care—Blue Shield means doctor's care. Membership in both means a broad, realistic protection against the expense of sudden illnesses and accidents.

Essentially, Blue Cross is a community enterprise, organized by local business and civic leaders, and local hospitals and physicians, to provide a prepayment hospital care program for the people of each community. Today, nearly one million Marylanders enjoy the unique protection afforded by Blue Cross.

Find out about Blue Cross today!

Ask your employer about joining Blue Cross if there are five or more people where you work. You may get information by calling the Blue Cross office listed in your telephone directory, or by writing for a free booklet giving full details. Unsettled Issue . . . .

Every day it becomes more clear that the vote last fall on whether or not there shall be standard time or daylight saving time settled nothing whatever. The particular wording in that law is causing the mix-up, and from the view as of today, confusion is bound to reign more effectively than at any other time in the past several years.

We recount the facts. The bill on which there was a referendum in November had the following provision: "If a majority of the persons voting on said question shall vote 'For Daylight Saving Time', then this Act shall be immediately of full force and effect. If a majority of the persons voting on said question shall vote 'against Daylight Saving Time', then this Act shall be void and of no further effect."

This merely meant that if persons voted against daylight saving time then the same situation existed as had existed prior to the election, which also meant that individual communities could continue to be governed by the whim of their elected mayors and town councils. Actually it means that the County Commissioners also could make their own ruling, either for or against daylight time, except that should they proceed to adopt daylight time now they would probably incur the ill will of the 3,512 who voted against daylight time in the November referendum.

Already Oakland, Accident, Friendsville and Mt. Lake Park have voted to adopt daylight time. The county schools will operate on daylight time. Grantsville and Crellin have had daylight time for several years and will probably continue. There may be others.

The election tabulation showed that citizens of Friendsville, Swanton, Bloomington, Sang Run, Deer Park, Bittinger, Kitzmiller, Vindex, Crellin, Avilton and Mt. Lake Park all voted against daylight time. People charge that Garrett countians drink wet but vote dry. It looks like they also desire daylight time but vote against it.

The only way we'll get this thing settled permanently will be to have another referendum, but with a little teeth in it. Word the referendum so that if a majority of the voters select daylight time, then have daylight time all over the county, but if they vote against it, then make it mandatory that all communities abide by the decision of the voters.

Pronounced dead at Miners hospital was James Michael Anderson, son of Mrs. Margaret Catherine Anderson, 21, of Washington, who was critically injured in the crash. The driver of the station wagon which was headed west on route 40, was Mrs. Anne M. Rotisch, 22, Joliet, Ill. She was reported in fair condition. The child died of a fractured skull and neck. Mrs. Anderson suffered a possible skull fracture and shoulder and hip injury.

Police said the cause of the accident was unknown, although they surmise the bright sun may have blinded the driver and caused her to lose control.

Bill Would Hike Fire Unit Payments

The Senate has received a delegation sponsored measure that would increase allotments made by the county to eight volunteer fire departments.

Passed in the House Monday, the bill authorizes and directs the commissioners to pay these sums to these companies: Oakland, $2,800; Grantsville, $2,800, Deer Park, Accident, Friendsville, Kitzmiller and Gorman, all $2,000; Bloomington, $1,800.

H. D. Swartzentruber, Commissioner president, said the bill increases considerably the current allotments. At present Oakland gets $1,500; Grantsville, Deer Park, Friendsville and Kitzmiller $1,200, Accident, Gorman and Bloomington all $800.

Some people were of the opinion that it would be necessary to raise the tax rate to take care of the increases, should they pass.

Mrs. Glotfelty said two districts had reported and included Finzel, $4.75; Red House, $40.25; Mt. Lake Park, $74.65; Grantsville, $75.50; Friendsville, $60; Kitzmiller, $25.21; Swan Meadow, $10; Accident, $95; Crellin, $22.25; Bittinger, $39.40.

Mrs. Glotfelty urged that the workers speed up their collections so that the goal may be reached this month.

She said an additional $10 was contributed by Motor Service company but Harvey Gortner asked that it be given for Hungarian relief, although that drive is completed.

Criminal Trials To Begin On Tuesday

The criminal trials of the March Term of the Garrett County Circuit court will begin on Tuesday, March 26, at 9 o'clock a. m., it was announced. Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley will be on the bench.

While the criminal docket is expected to be light, a number of civil cases have been scheduled to be brought before the court.

Four of the seven indictments concerned robberies while three concerned bastardy cases. Three of the robbery indictments were against Raymond Pack and Dewey Pack who are now in custody of West Virginia officials and probably will not be released for trial at this time. The other robbery indictment is against George Ellis Artice, Jr., who is under bond.

Bastardy cases are against Robert Whitacre and Gary Ronald Hinebaugh. A third warrant has not yet been returned.

Whitacre, who asked for an immediate hearing before the court, pleaded guilty to the charge before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley on Monday and was given a suspended sentence of two years in the House of Correction. The sentence was suspended upon condition that Whitacre pay the mother $20 per month until the child is 18 years of age.

Jail Rated "Very Clean And Sanitary"

The Garrett County jail was declared to be in a "very clean and sanitary condition," in the 13th report of the Board of Correction which has recently been made public.

But the inspector made his annual recommendation that the prisoners from this county be removed to Allegany county on a per diem or annual fee basis, leaving the Oakland jail to serve merely as a county lockup. The inspector maintains this recommendation would be most economical for the county in view of the fact that the jail count runs only from one to four per day.

The county now maintains only one active lockup, located at Grantsville. Two of the county's former lockups, at Friendsville and Kitzmiller, have been closed for lack of need.

The jail was described as a two-story building constructed in 1900. The first floor is made up of nine cells on the west side of the building, each having two bunks. On the east side there are eight cells with two bunks each. There is also an isolation cell on this floor for disturbed or disciplinary prisoners. One shower with hot and cold water serves both sides. Each of the cells on the first floor has a stool and lavatory.

On the second floor there are three cells with two bunks and two cells with four bunks for juveniles. In the rear of the second floor is a large room approximately 12 by 16 feet for women prisoners. It has a large double bed. In the rear there is also another large room with two beds for women. A small ante-room separates these two areas for women's quarters. On the west side of the second floor there are seven cells for juveniles. A bath tub is provided in the corridor for both juveniles and females. Attached to the jail is the residence for the sheriff and his deputy.

Food is prepared and served by the jailer's wife at $1 per day. Prisoners are used only for jail maintenance. No outside work is provided.

Paul W. Fisher is sheriff and James Frautz is his deputy.

HELPING HAND—Evidence of some of the good that was accomplished by people of the Mt. Lake Park area in providing clothing for Hungarian refugees, is shown in the accompanying photograph. The picture was sent here by SP-3 Walter L. Moon, now in Germany, who made the request for clothing to his mother, Mrs. Ellsworth G. Moon. His story in in this issue tells how the people responded and what he did with the clothing he received in Germany. Moon is shown in the center of the refugees.

School Pilgrimage Day Planned April 3

A school pilgrimage day is now being planned by the Board of Education staff in conjunction with a committee of school patrons. The pilgrimage will include visits to schools at Kitzmiller, Friendsville, Accident, Red House, Center Street, Swanton, Deer Park, Loch Lynn, Crellin and Southern High school. A different itinerary will be set up for each group of twelve parents, although by the end of the day most of them will have visited the same schools. Lunches will be served in the school cafeterias for 35 cents. All parents going on the pilgrimage will meet in the Annex auditorium at 9 a. m., April 3. At that time groups will be made up and transportation arranged.

The purpose of the pilgrimage, according to Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, is to give parents an opportunity to see the educational program at work, and also to see the improvements that are being made to buildings and equipment. Everyone is invited to join the pilgrimage, and be at the Annex auditorium at the appointed time. A pilgrimage to the schools of the Northern portion of the county is being planned for a later date.

Lions Show Set Tonight And Friday

Lions club officials announced this week that the "Masked Marvel" would appear in person at the annual minstrel and variety show, to be staged this evening and tomorrow at Southern High school gymnasium. The performance starts at eight o'clock.

His act is listed as "dangerous," and is done while suspended in air, above the stage.

A portable stage, built by members of the Lions club, has been erected on the north side of the gymnasium, with Delbert Gnegy in charge. It will depict a spring setting with an amphitheatre effect, with a large platform stage in front and a small music hall for the instrumental group. Costume changes for each act have been arranged.

Aza Stanton is contributing much of the art work for the stage settings.

Proceeds from the benefit show go to secure eye glasses for the underprivileged, to help the Boy Scouts in their yearly program, to the hospital, sponsor students to United Nations, a dinner for high school athletes, support Little League baseball, clothing for youth in vocational rehabilitation, and other community efforts.

Rehearsals have been conducted regularly for the show for the past three weeks or more. Featured soloists include Jay Bell, Dick Pagenhardt, Bob Sinecll, Beeson Snyder, Bob Prondfoot and Charles L. Briner. Henry W. McComas will be master of ceremonies. The Lions club chorus will have 65 voices.

Tickets are obtainable from any member of the club or may be purchased at the door.

Local Soldier Reports on Relief To Hungarians

Walter L. Moon, a Sp3/c for the U. S. Army, stationed with the 17th signal battalion in Germany, has sent an interesting report of what was done with clothing collected by the people of the communities and churches of this area and sent to him for distribution to the Hungarian refugees. He accompanied the story with several photographs, one of which is reproduced in today's issue.

Sp3/c Moon is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth G. Moon, of near Mt. Lake Park.

His story follows:

When and where the thought of collecting clothing for the refugees came to me, was at a Protestant Men of the Chapel dinner in Heidelberg on December 12, during and after a talk by Mr. Richard Brown, director of the refugee program. I felt that here was an opportunity to be of some service to these people. I returned to Karlsruhe that night with a hope for success in this project.

I asked Chaplain Mashburn his opinion of this idea and if he thought we would be able to make arrangements to distribute the clothing if I could get them here. He thought it would be fine and suggested that I contact the S-5 "Civil Affairs" office for necessary information. I phoned the S-5 office and was informed that any and all clothing that could be collected would be appreciated and that there was a refugee camp in this area.

I then wrote to my mother and asked if she thought the people in the community would be interested in collecting clothes and sending them over here for the refugees.

It was approximately six weeks later that the first bag of clothes arrived. The next day another one came so I called the S-5 office and later that day visited them. I became acquainted with Mr. Hoffner, who is head of th Public Affairs branch. He was very happy at the report of two bags and when I returned the next day with three he was quite surprised. He then made inquiries as to where the camp was located and found it was in Bruchsal which is about 20 kilometers from here (Karlsruhe). Mother had written that more bags were on the way, I told Mr. Hoffner this and suggested we wait a while on the other bags.

On February 13, 1957, I received five more bags of clothes. There were three in our office, three in the S-5 office and two boxes full from my aunt in Detroit. I loaded the jeep to capacity and headed for the S-5 office. Well, Mr. Hoffner was speechless, Captain Barkley, who is the officer in charge of S-5, wondered who was moving what.

The following Saturday was chosen as the delivery date after arrangements had been made for

Sen. Friend Charges State Gas Monopoly

Senator Clifford Friend said Tuesday the present law enables the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas company to hold a "virtual state-protected monopoly on gas delivery in Western Maryland," according to an Associated Press dispatch from Annapolis.

He told the House Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee that the company is trying to extend this monopoly to gas production in the Accident field.

The senator spoke in behalf of a bill, already through the Senate, which would require that natural gas and oil pipelines be made common carriers.

He said the C. and A. company operates under a state charter giving it "a monopoly on distribution" of gas to nearby consumers.

Friend said the company now purchases gas produced by other companies in the Mt. Lake Park field but is attempting to monopolize production in this county's other gas producing area, the Accident field.

He said small, independent drillers own leases in the Accident field but do not work them because C. and A. has not agreed to purchase gas from them or rent pipelines to them for transportation. He said the independent drillers do not build their own pipelines because of the distribution charter held by C. and A.

The gas company will give the committee its side of the story next Monday.

Valley, Frederick Win State Basketball Titles

Frederick defeated Montgomery-Blair 58 to 51, while Valley defeated Oxon Hill 61 to 11.

In regular season play Valley defeated Southern High school of Oakland and also defeated Northern High school. It required an extra period for Valley to down Northern High after the regulation game had ended in a tie.

It was Valley's second straight state title.

Wheels, Tires Are Stolen

The theft of two tires and two wheels from two automobiles outside the Ford garage on Third street, was reported early Tuesday morning.

The cars were parked between the garage and the fire department, and sometime during the night thieves removed the wheels and let the cars drop down on the brake drums.

Authorities are investigating. They are also investigating the theft of copper wire at one of the mines of the Garrett Coal corporation near Vindex.

Sentenced to Four Years in "House"

Delbert Ira Wilt, 53, of near Jennings, received a four-year sentence to the Maryland House of Correction on Saturday on two charges involving operation of an illegal still.

Wilt received two years each on charges of possession of a still and equipment designed for unlawful manufacture of alcoholic beverage, and for having moonshine whisky in his possession.

Sentence was passed by Trial Magistrate W. O. Bitzer, at a hearing in Oakland.

Wilt was arrested last Tuesday after State Troopers Glenn Folk and Robert Henline and Donald Tucker had been called to the Bear Hill section to investigate a shooting.

Firemen Answer Two Alarms

Oakland firemen answered two fire alarms during the week, but there was no damage resulted from either fire.

The first one was a grass fire at the home of Cecil Welch, in Rosedale, last Thursday afternoon.

The second one was a flue fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Porter, south of Oakland, on Saturday evening about 7 o'clock.

Details Told On County Employes' Civil Service Bill

A measure to knock out the so-called "ripper" bill affecting Garrett County's Roads department, introduced by Sen. Clifford Friend, was dropped into the House of Delegates hopper just before the deadline last week.

The bill was marked sponsored by the county delegation but Del. Kermit Glotfelty said he didn't know what was in the measure.

The bill would place salaried and hourly paid employes of the county under a merit or civil service commission.

Del. Harry Edwards, chairman of the delegation, admitted Glotfelty didn't know the details of the bill but said that the "three of us" had discussed the measure. J. J. Ashby is the third county delegate.

Edwards said all supervisors would come under civil service. This would mean that William W. DeWitt, county roads engineer, would keep his job if the bill is passed.

Senator Friend said the bill was a political move to attract the road workers. Friend had sponsored Senate Bill 141 which provided that the roads engineer have a degree in civil engineering, an accountant to set up an accounting and bookkeeping system for the county roads department, and provided for letting of bids on purchases over $1,000, and required quarterly reports of the roads department to the county commissioners.

Critics of Senator Friend allege that this bill was a move to eliminate DeWitt from office. A flyer mailed to county residents within the past few days, charges Del. Edwards and Del. Ashby of holding up Senate Bill 141 following its passage in the senate.

The bill would set up a board consisting of the clerk of the Circuit court, the Register of Wills and the County Treasurer.

The following would be included in the bill; the clerk to the Board of County Commissioners, the Roads Engineer or Supervisor, county roads employes, clerk to the treasurer of the county and all salaried employes in the offices of the clerk of court, the county treasurer and register of wills.

Details Revealed

The details of the civil service bill were further explained this week. The bill sets up a system the same as provided in the state merit system. It utilizes the facilities of the state employment commissioner and authorizes establishment of classifications, salary schedules and working conditions that are provided under the state system.

No present county employe would lose his or her job, nor would they have a salary decrease. The board can prescribe standards of performance in any job, can authorize facilities for special training to increase the efficiency of new and old employes.

The bill was given little chance of passage. The board to be set up include s two state office persons, the clerk of the circuit court and the register of wills, and there was a feeling that state office personnel should not be included in the bill.

Other Legislative Routine

Senator Friend also introduced Senate Bill 566 which would authorize municipal governments to discontinue the membership of their officers and legislative body members in the employes' retirement system under certain conditions. He also submitted Senate Bill 639 which would authorize and direct supplemental pensions for certain retired school teachers in the county.

The county delegation also put in a bill, House Bill 821, which provides a schedule of payments by the County Commissioners to several volunteer fire departments.

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Danger—Beware

That the understanding of the atom brings great promise of good was clearly demonstrated by the 1950 Atoms for Peace Conference in Geneva, Switzerland, which I was privileged to attend. It was there envisioned that an interchange of materials and knowledge, among nations, would hasten universal and peaceful uses of atomic energy. To carry out this well-intentioned objective, the Senate will shortly be called upon to approve U. S. membership in the International Atomic Energy Agency.

But, implicit in this proposal are serious dangers. It seems to me that the International Atomic Energy Agency must be able to insure that the material it provides will be used for peaceful purposes only. Yet, in the view of experts, any nation possessing nuclear reactors can produce an atomic bomb. Other authoritative testimony supports the conclusion that a country having a reactor might secretly siphon off enough fissionable material in two or three years with which to build several atomic bombs.

What can the proposed agency do to prevent such an occurrence? Would the Statute, approving U. S. membership, provide sufficient safeguards that will prevent illegal use of nuclear materials? What are the contemplated costs in dollars and cents, of American participation? These are questions which, to my mind, need answering. Under this plan, countries not now possessing atomic reactors could, upon application, obtain fissionable material to start operations. Those who advocate the program minimize the inherent dangers on the basis that all recipient nations must bind themselves to utilize these materials for peaceful purposes only.

The expected Statute of the International Atomic Energy Agency says that "the activities of the Agency shall be carried out with due observance of the sovereign rights of States." There is no definition of "Sovereign rights of States" in the text. This raises the question, would not each member nation be in a position to determine for itselm just what constitutes "sovereign rights?" Some country might refuse required reports and information on the ground of invasion of sovereignty. Again, we need answers.

I certainly would not object to any program which would place the United States in a favorable light concerning the peaceful uses of atomic energy. But in the absence of adequate safeguards, and the most persuasive answers to the questions here cited, I could not vote for this Statute.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Can the $71.8 billion national budgel be cut?

And I agree.

The problem, then, is: How?

I hope the following remarks will help accent what an enormous question that is.

Federal Grants

In the first place, there is a great amount of concern over the so-called "Federal grants" to States for construction or improvement projects.

It sometimes seems that these funds, which are actually being returned—not "given"—to the States, place local authorities in the position of the boarder in a rooming house whose landlady decided to charge him $3 a day instead of $2 because of his enormous appetite.

"Oh, please don't," pleaded the boarder, "it's all I can do now to eat $2 worth."

Increased Taxation

In the same way, many political subdivisions apparently feel that they should take advantage of every opportunity to apply for Federal funds.

This, of course, causes an increase in Federal taxation and frequently it also results in a boost in local taxes so that "matching funds" can be raised.

Furthermore, it is extremely rare for the residents of any area to concede that the projects for their region might be unnecessary.

Perhaps most of the items in this category are, in fact, absolutely essential to the welfare of our citizens.

If so, there is little we can do except trust that courageous Americans will not promote plans which can safely be postponed or eliminated.

Government Employees

Next there is the question which has arisen concerning the number of Federal employees.

Here, again, we can see that there are certain areas in which adjustments can be made, but we must also face some other facts.

During the past four years, the number of Federal employees has been reduced although the population has increased 11 million, and requests for government services have likewise mounted steadily.

In addition, each new task which is given to the Federal government requires additional personnel, . . . and additional salaries, . . . and additional revenue to pay the salaries.

Economy Measures

Those are a few of the factors which confront us when we attempt to pare the budget, and we cannot overcome them unless we realize that:

1. We must decide whether certain Federal-State undertakings are actually worth the money they will cost.

2. We must continue to get the Federal government out of operations which should be conducted by private business or by local political bodies.

3. We must be sure that every cent we spend buys a cent's worth of goods or services.

4. We must keep in mind that every dollar that makes the trip from our individual localities to Washington returns from its journey just a little bit thinner.

Notes from My Appointment Book

Included in my list of "accepted invitations" for the week were ones for affairs sponsored by the Baltimore Safety Council, AFL-CIO construction workers of Baltimore and Washington, the Maryland Bankers association and the Hibernians, as well as a banquet in honor of the Metropolitan Police Boys Club and a ribbin-cutting ceremony at a shopping center in Frederick.

Spring Is Official

The season of spring was officially ushered in yesterday afternoon but nobody in Garrett county was aware of it. The weatherman was not even cooperative. A near blizzard was in progress most of the day even though officially the vernal equinox or spring began at 4.17 p. m.

A resume of the week's weather showed rain on Friday, clearing later in the day and turning cold at night. Saturday clear, cold and windy with Sunday about the same. Monday was cloudy and cool, with rain falling at night. Rain continued during Tuesday, turning to snow Wednesday with high winds.

Thursday was partially clear but cold.

House Appropriations committee lopped off half a billion of the President's budget.

What We Really Need . . .

We'd like to settle once and for all time this myth about squandering and wasting money for steel girders when the county roads garage was constructed.

We rather felt it was fixed in people's minds. There was no secret about it in the beginning and there is none now, but Senator Friend, in his latest epistle to about 2000 boxholders states that the roads department policies show "clearly that there has been considerable waste, reckless spending and bad judgment."

The bad judgment rest only on the Senator, and we will show why, but first we will quote some of his own words. Said the Senator:

"To cite just one case: In the building of the County Garage, the County Engineer, not being an engineer, wasted approximately $17,980 in the purchase of eight steel girders for $24,460. In this transaction they purchased eight 36 inch 'I' beam steel girders 51 feet in length and weighing 300 pounds to the running foot. Not only did they buy steel weighing twice as much as was needed for the job but they paid nearly double the prevailing market price." He says he obtained information from a structural engineer in steel. "The engineer pointed out that 36-inch 'I' beam steel weighing only 150 pounds to the running foot on a forty-eight foot span will carry approximately 54 tons of weight evenly distributed. Eight of the lightest 36-inch 'I' beam steel girders would have carried a load of over four hundred tons. Yet they purchased eight of the heaviest beams instead weighing 300 pounds to the running foot . . . Instead of paying the market price of 10 cents per pound they paid over 18½ cents per pound." He then proceeds to figure that they paid $24,460 when they really needed to spend only $6,480, and he concludes by saying "We have noticed this same kind of mismanagement and waste in the construction of some of the county road bridges."

Now had the county actually put up the "I" beams the Senator said would have been sufficient, the commissioners might have a collapsed garage by this time. We didn't think the Senator could be telling the entire story so we contacted an engineer of our own. This engineer figured on deadweight load and the length of these girders which is 54 feet instead of 48 feet, and he figured things which I myself could not understand such as the maximum bending moment, the section modulus and other technical terms and his results showed that the "I" beams used were exactly what should have been used. Our engineer said that the "I" beams the Senator suggested would little more than hold up the weight of the floor itself, with its dead weight load of some 95 pounds per square foot, and considering the length of the span.

Mr. Friend's engineer said the girder weighing 150 pounds to the running foot would carry about 54 tons of weight evenly distributed on a forty-eight foot span. With the span actually 54 feet long instead of 48 the stress becomes much greater. Even at his own figures each foot on this even distribution would carry approximately one ton. The county has one road machine, eight feet wide, 30 feet long, weighing 26 tons, or almost a ton to the foot. This one machine alone could have caused the building's collapse. In addition the roads people told me Tuesday that they keep fourteen trucks in that garage almost every night, weighing six tons each, sometimes they have eight-ton loads on them, or 14 tons per truck.

It was further learned Tuesday that most of the girders weighed only 230 pounds to the foot, not 300, as the Senator asserts. However, when ordering it was impossible to get all of them at that weight and that three of them are the 300 weight.

It was further learned that W. W. DeWitt, roads engineer, who designed the building, obtained expert advice, first from an engineer of a pre-stress concrete slab concern of Parkersburg, W. Va., and that his recommendations later were affirmed by a consulting structural engineer from Pittsburgh.

Just to carry the dead weight of the floor and the miscellaneous loads it would take from day to day, the least it would need would be beams 182 pounds to the foot, but with the machinery now used by the roads department and the trucks that are parked there consistently the heavier beams used were considered adequate but not overly heavy.

His market price of 10 cents a pound was not correct, for fabricated steel, even at the date the steel was purchased. Angle irons and small pieces might have been obtained at 10 cents, but not 36-inch beams. But the price of 18 cents included office planning, shop planning, erection plans, garage frames and fabrication costs, plus complicated welding which was necessary for two or three of the girders which were not long enough to start with.

We have made it clear time and again that at the time the steel was needed, if the garage was to be put under roof that fall, it was not to be had on the regular market at any price, and that these beams were obtained from some other labor job where the builder could afford to wait. All three commissioners sat in on the discussion and all agreed that the construction should go ahead, and that the steel should be purchased.

The Senator continues to be misleading. He says "Our Roads Department is now paying a person who is not an Engineer over six thousand dollars and furnishing him a car and in addition they are paying a so-called assistant engineer another $4,200 with a car." That sounds like everybody gets a car. But that is not correct. The Commissioners have one car. The roads engineer uses it, the assistant uses it and the County Commissioners use it when they take necessary trips. There is just one car for all five.

Maybe what Senate Bill 141 should have included is not a requirement that our county roads engineer have a college degree, but a requirement that our Senators should have a college degree. Maybe then we might elect Senators with a broader vision and less spite, less animosity for those who attempt to cross his path, and a less suspicious mind.

W. W. DeWitt is not a graduate engineer, but he sought advice of expert engineers when he designed the building, who agreed with his ideas of what was sound and necessary. The garage is completed, and it is adequate to take care of future machine needs. The "I" beams were just what was recommended by competent engineers. The price was high but not excessive. Twenty-five or fifty years from now the present commissioners will be praised for their foresight. They ought to be commended right now.

On The Job . . .

"On the job when it counts," is the slogan of the annual Red Cross drive this year.

Being on the job when it counts keeps alive one of the oldest American traditions, handed down from pioneer days and summed up in the phrase, "people helping people."

For more than 75 years the Red Cross has acted for the American people in meeting human need in emergencies. Qualities of the heart such as sympathy, kindness, and a desire to help their fellow men who need it are effectively expressed through Red Cross. Red Cross, with its network of chapters and branches and its devoted army of nearly two million trained volunteers is on the job when it counts.

The organization is seeking at least $1 from persons in the area to reach a quota of $4,282 this month. Last year money went to those suffering from eastern and western state floods, to Hungarian refugees, to persons whose lives were saved by a blood transfusion and to servicemen who were aided by the many Red Cross services.

A dollar makes an individual a member of the largest humanitarian society in the world.

Ependitures by the Red Cross in the year ending last June 30—around 116 millions—were the largest in ten years, largely because of the floods, but flood relief is only one way in which money contributed to the Red Cross is used. The Red Cross has increased its first aid and water safety classes to help prevent accidents. The Red Cross keeps pace with the progress medical science is making in finding new uses for blood and its products. With each new medical discovery, the demand grows for Red Cross-collected blood.

As long as the United States maintains a large military establishment the Red Cross will keep its world-wide services to the armed forces at is present high level.

If the Red Cross supported only the blood program it would be worth while. But it is only one of the many activities supported. A generous gift will be welcome.

an interpreter. The proposed interpreter, Mrs. Martin, was herself one of the refugees and has a job here in Karlsruhe. She is the only one in the Bruchsal group that can speak German. Mrs. Martin came out that evening and helped separate the clothing.

I must say that the clothing was very nice and in some cases looked new and unworn.

On Saturday, I went to the S-5 office where I joined Mr. Hoffner, Chaplain Mashburn and a man I knew only as "Pete." Pete went as an interpreter as Mrs. Martin was unable to join us. He is a Hungarian but has been in Germany for sometime.

We reached Bruchsal around 2 o'clock in the afternoon and found ourselves in front of a "jailey" looking building, that is, bars on the windows and a high wall completely surrounding it.

The German in charge of the camp told us there had been a total of 204,000 DP's and refugees processed through this camp since World War II. The building was warm but I saw no sign of a heating system.

The first thing we saw as we entered the building was a pot of hot cocoa in the middle of the floor. I suppose this was furnished by the German government. There was a large room with drapes separating the different families, this was their only privacy. The director took us to a small room and introduced us to a family. The man was a dentist in Hungary and was afraid his profession would be jeopardized, since he was forced to do hand labor because of the language barrier, his hands would become less senstive and unsteady. We entered another room where a family of four children, their mother and father who has only one leg, were living. They were cooped up in a room about ten by twelve feet. The man worked in Stuttgart which is a three-hour ride from Bruchsal on the train. He earns 75 marks a week but spends fifty-eight marks for traveling expenses. This leaves him and his family 17 marks or to be exact in U. S. currency, $4.05 a week to live on.

We piled the clothing on three tables pushed together and the families gathered around. The people said very little but all you had to do was look at their eyes, especially those of the mothers. There is something in silence that often speaks louder than words.

Mr. Hoffner told me to say something that this was my project and that I was in charge. Well, anyone that knows me, knows there are few times on most any occasion that I can't say something. This was one of those times. I just could not find the words. There were tears in my eyes as it was and if I had tried to say something they would have fallen. I did get out that I was very happy to have been able to do something to help them. Mr. Hoffner and the chaplain really came to my rescue telling them where the clothing came from. After the presentation a little boy came to me with a gift of a picture. I shall keep it as a remembrance of this occasion.

I want to thank everyone that helped in any way in the collection or delivering of the clothing. I had the idea, you people delivered the results. I thank you for the people who were helped.

Editor's Note: Since writing the report Moon told the editor that he had delivered another six hundred pounds to the Salvation Army at Karlsruhe.

One Man Looks At God

(By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor, St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland Maryland.)

In the current series of important events in the life of Christ, we will consider this week the encounter that Christ had with the Pharisees, after he had called Matthew to be his disciple.

It is recorded in Matthew 9:9-13:

As Jesus passed on from there he saw a man named Matthew sitting at the tax office; and he said to him, follow me, and he rose and followed him. And as he sat at table in the house (of Matthew), behold, many tax collectors and sinners came and sat down with Jesus and his disciples. When the Pharisees saw this, they said to his disciples, Why does your teacher eat with tax collectors and sinners? But when he heard it, he said, Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick. Go, learn what this means, I desire mercy, and not sacrifice, for I came not to call the righteous, but sinners.

The Pharisees found themselves at odds with Christ on many occasions. Time and again he refers to them in a light which is not good. And in the twenty-third chapter of Matthew, he berates them in angry terms, and showers many "woes" upon them and all who act like them. One wonders at the reason these men did not accept Christ as their Lord. There was no question about their tremendous morality. In all Israel there was no other group who was more pure in their actions. When Christ told the parable of the Publican and the Pharisee, he was stating an actual case history of the Pharisee, for the Pharisee actually did tithe, and he did fast on Monday and Thursday. In many respects, the Pharisee was to be respected. Yet Christ and they did not see eye to eye.

One of the main reasons that they did disagree violently is in a close examination of this particular passage of scripture. The main sin of the Pharisee was that his righteousness had ceased being a thing wrought of God, but had become a matter of self-righteousness. They thought of themselves as self-sufficient people, depending on their good deeds to work out their salvation. They were a proud and vain people, thinking that they were better than anyone else. They were an exclusive people who would not contaminate themselves with going to any who they felt were unworthy of their presence. They were quick to judge, and willing to set their own standards for judgment. They would not accept Christ because he spoke as one with authority, and after all who was he anyway? He had not been to any of their schools. He had come from a small town, from very poor people. In other words, he did not meet their qualifications.

Then, as if to render the crowning blow, he went in to eat with sinners, those who were regarded as unclean by the Pharisees. They could not understand the true meaning of his coming—to call all men to salvation through repentance. And repentance had no place in the scheme of their lives. They were too busy praising themselves for how good they were.

I wonder just how much of the attitude of the Pharisee has rubbed off on the so-called Christians of today. How many members of a congregation would think to understand if the pastor would go right into a place of ill-repute to preach the Gospel? Yet now, as in the time of Christ, it is the sinner who needs the ministry of the church so desparately. And when you come right down to it, that includes everybody! How much easier it is to take the attitude toward men in jail that they deserve what they got, instead of going into the jail to try to preach repentance, and the forgiving love of God to those who need it most.

The world needs great men and great women of high moral standing—but what is does not need is the self-righteous, condemning attitude of the Pharisee, but the forgiving love of Christ, who went in to eat with sinners.

Exchange Student Will Address University Women

Miss Brit Hagan, a Norwegian exchange student attending West Virginia University at Morgantown, will speak to AAUW members at their fellowship dinner on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. George Hanst, south of town. She will speak on education in her country and the part women play in it.

Miss Edith Brock, president of the Garrett Branch, said the local unit had met its full quota for the fellowship since its organization. This program is considered one of the most important works of the national organization. Now going into its 75th year it has a $1 million dollar fellowship endowment fund which provides 21 fellowships, 13 national and 8 international.

Miss Brock said the organization feels that the great[illegible] feels that the greatest need at the present time is to prepare teachers for the college classroom to take care of large enrollments.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

With The Grain

Those who work with wood know how important it is to "go with the grain" in planing the rough surface to the final sanding job. Moving against the grain only fuzzes the surface, leaving scratches and little to be desired in the finished product.

The same thing is true with fabric. Those of us who sew know how necessary it is to cut to grain perfection and sew every inch with the grain, even if we have to change our course two or three times on what to an amateur would be only straight sewing.

When clothes are made grain perfect they hang better, wear better and are bought at a greater price.

I don't know what other raw materials have grain but I do know we humans have a bit of it built in us, although we don't understand its nature like the seamstress does fabric, or the cabinet maker does wood.

What woman hasn't gone to her kitchen and stirred up a cake that every move hasn't been with the grain. She knew the cake would be good when she poured the batter into the pan. The fat creamed and fluffed just right when the sugar was added. She even sifted flour to the exact measurement.

But woe to the day she cooks off grain. (I always do when I take a dish to the church, for some unknown reason.) She lets the milk boil over, gets a bit of shell in the broken egg, lacks a tablespoon of having enough brown sugar, or lukewarm is stone cold or red hot, and the gravy gets lumps. May you and the gravy gets lumps. Maybe you never cook off grain.

Surely though you do something, something off grain. Yesterday I made a shell. Had I been in the 6th grade and turned it in for a score I would have been lucky to have barely passed. A shell is a muslin garment intended to take the place of a dress form and it fits the body the way a custom made garment would. It requires the most elementary kind of sewing. Although the machine moved with the grain, I moved against it. I would cheerfully have given up the job for washing ceilings or removing paint.

How different the day I made a wool shirt on which I travelled every stitch of the way on grain, both literally and figuratively. And it looked it. One could almost tell the garment had been made with affection in the finger tips.

How exciting life can be when we're on the grain! Teen-agers know it in their relationships. "We got on together from the first," or "we clicked."

It makes all the difference in the world in running a home. Did you ever set out to find an address and end up with a cleaned dish? Cleaning closet "with the grain" is a joyous experience, against the grain, a chore.

A career woman of outstanding note told me just this week that she disregards Saturday as her day off from the office. "Oh, I work my full quota of hours all right and I also take my day off, but Saturday may be my best day for creative thinking which my job requires."

Then there's that little science of family relationship—the most intricate of all sciences. Just to be able to chuckle with one's mate any time of the day is grain perfection, or to have a little moment of understanding with a child is another.

Do you suppose the time will ever come that we'll understand ourselves well enough that we can pick our activities according to our moods? Or is living with the grain like grace, a gift of God, to be had not for the asking, but when He wants us to have it?

—o—

A remark overheard—"I sure am glad this is the first day of spring, for I've taken about all I can of winter." Then he buttoned up his overcoat and faced the blizzard.

Southern Commercial Group Is Explained This Week

STUDIES BUSINESS—DeNeal Dean, instructor at Southern High, with his senior office practice class, studies various types of business office machines.

Southern High school's Commercial department is the subject of this week's school article as covered by Martha Herman and Pat Hughes of the high school's journalism staff.

The head of the department is F. DeNeal Dean, who has his A.B. degree from Davis and Elkins college and West Virginia university. In addition he has received his M.A. degree from West Virginia university and Pennsylvania State university. Mr. Dean teaches classes in Typing I and II, Shorthand I and II, and office practice.

The other commercial teachers are Ervin S. Smith, Mrs. Theoda Miller, and Miss Bernice Idleman.

Mr. Smith teaches bookkeeping, commercial arithmetic, general business training, salesmanship, and business law.

Mrs. Miller is an instructor in Typing I and general business training.

Commercial students begin their course in the tenth grade with general business training and Typing I.

Since it is the philosophy of the department that general business training has personal use as well as vocational values, it is given as an elective for all high school students, not just those who are specializing in business. The same is true for Typing I; therefore, this course is open to all Senior High students.

At the eleventh grade level commercial students choose either the General Business or the Stenographic Curriculum.

General Business students receive courses in bookkeeping, Typing II, and commercial arithmetic. Stenographic students receive the same courses as General Business students, with the addition of Shorthand I.

In the twelfth year the commercial students complete their training with salesmanship, business law, office practice, and Shorthand II.

Commercial students are urged to develop to a very high degree at least one skill, such as bookkeeping, typing, shorthand, selling, or business machines.

The Commercial Department attempts to give the students as much actual experience as possible by conducting a work experience program during the second semester of the year. This program was put into effect four years ago, and has been found of benefit for both the student and employer. The students, for their work experience training, choose, with teacher guidance, the type of work in which they are interested and in which they are most likely to succeed. It is possible to choose experience as a clerk, typist, stenographer, bookkeeper, telephone operator, file clerk, machine operator, receptionist, work in selling, and various combinations of these occupations.

This program is evaluated by students, teachers, and employers each year. Mr. Dean serves as the coordinator of this program.

In addition, students receive experience in the administrative office and guidance office of the school, work on the school paper, and as library assistants. Much good experience is obtained through working for teachers and the administration from time to time. All these experiences bridge the gap between classroom instruction and the job.

This year, for the first time, commercial students are given experience on a rotation basis in the office of the Oakland Elementary school.

Three years ago the Future Business Leaders of America club, a national organization for business students, was organized. This club offers opportunities for commercial students to pursue business interests, to further their understanding of the business world, and permits businessmen and former students to meet and discuss areas of mutual interest and concern, presents demonstrations of new business equipment and supplies, and affords practice in parliamentary procedure. Among its projects this year were visits to a business school and to local business offices.

An occupational survey has just been conducted of 1956 Commercial graduates. The results of this survey are to be used to further improve the commercial offerings at Southern High school.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Lines from an F.B.I. Chief

For the benefit of many of the readers of this column, who do not regularly receive the Parent-Teacher magazine published at our Maryland Parent-Teacher headquarters, I would like to re-print an article by J. Edgar Hoover appearing in the March issue. I quote it exactly as written.

The title of the article is:

Go to Sunday School

Shall I make my child go to Sunday School and church? Yes! And with no further discussion about the matter. Startled? Why? How do you answer Junior when he comes to breakfast on Monday morning and announces to you that he is not going to school any more? You know! Junior goes. How do you answer when Junior comes in very much be smudged and says, "I'm not going to take a bath." Junior bathes, doesn't he?

Why all this timidity, then, in the realm of his spiritual guidance and growth? Going to let him wait and decide what church he'll go to when he's old enough? Quit your kidding! You don't wait until he's old enough to decide whether he wants to go to school or not-to start his education. You don't wait until he's old enough to decide whether he wishes to be clean or dirty, do you? Do you wait until he's old enough to decide if he wants to take his medicine when he is sick? Do you?

What shall we say when Junior announces he doesn't like to go to Sunday School and church? That's an easy one to answer. Just be consistent. Tell him: "Junior, in our house we all go to church and Sunday School and that includes you." Your firmness and example will furnish a bridge over which youthful rebellion may travel into rich satisfying experience in personal religious living.

The parents of America can strike a telling blow against the forces which contribute to our juvenile delinquency, if our mothers and fathers will take their children to Sunday School and church regularly.

So says our very wonderful F.B.I. chief. I for one, agree most heartily.

Contract For Luke Expansion Awarded

A proposal by the George F. Hazelwood Company of Cumberland, and the Tidewater Construction Corporation of Norfolk, Va., to undertake as a joint venture construction required by the Luke Mill's $50 million expansion program has been accepted by West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, according to George Naughton, company project manager.

Both companies have done considerable work for West Virginia Pulp and Paper company in the past.

He estimated that from time to time upwards of 1,000 workers will be on the job building the enlarged mill facilities.

Construction of an extension to the finishing building and new bleaching facilities are included in the first phase of the expansion program. Site preparation for the bleaching plant is currently underway, and construction of the finishing building addition is expected to get started within the next few weeks. Houses on Cromwell street just east of the present finishing building are presently being dismantled to make room for the addition.

The expansion program currently calls for:

Installation of two high speed paper machines, each capable of turning out a mile of paper 20 feet wide every two minutes. One machine is scheduled to be in operation January 1, 1960, and the second January 1, 1961.

Additional washing, screening and bleaching facilities and more digesters.

High pressure power equipment, including a turbine, boiler and supporting facilities.

Additional stock storage and refining installations, as well as coating, calendering, finishing and shipping facilities.

The expansion program is expected to provide permanent jobs at the mill for an estimated 400 additional employees. Indirect employment also is expected to increase substantially, since the mill anticipates that its pulpwood needs, its requirements for local services and supplies, its payment for freight and its consumption of locally produced fuel will rise sharply.

Complete Report Of Grand Jury Is Given

The completed report of the Grand Jury for the March Term of the Circuit court, is reprinted below. The jury adjourned Tuesday afternoon, March 12, after having been in session for two days.

The report was unable to be published last week due to a last minute rush of other news and advertising.

To the Honorable, the Judges of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The Grand Jury for Garrett County, in session for the March Term, 1957, respectfully submits the following report:

We were in session for two days, beginning Monday, March 11th, 1957, and concluded our deliberations Tuesday, March 12th, 1957.

We have examined 25 witnesses and have returned True Bills of Indictment in seven cases.

All cases have been governed by our obligations as Jurors and our duty to society in insisting on the enforcement of the law. In our action in each instance, we have had due regard for the rights of the citizen.

Acting in accordance with the instructions given us by His Honor Judge Neil C. Fraley, we have inspected the Sheriff's Residence and Jail, the Court House, the Treasurer's Office and books, the Hospital and the new County Roads Garage.

In our inspection of the jail and the Sheriff's residence we find the same to be in excellent condition. We also discovered that most of the recommendations of prior Grand Juries have been carried out.

In our inspection of the Court House we found that the leak in the roof of the Office of the Register of Wills has not been repaired as requested by prior Grand Juries. We urge this to be taken care of as soon as possible. Also we urge the County Comissioners to repair the top of the chimney on the Court House, which now constitutes a hazard.

We wish to commend them for their efforts in improvements, especially the space being made by the excavation of the basement and the Court Room.

We found the Garrett County Memorial hospital in excellent condition, and that the recommendations of prior Grand Juries have been carried out.

We also found the relations between the County Authorities and the Hospital Personnel to be excellent.

In our opinion the physical facilities of the County Roads Garage appear to meet the needs of the Department adequately. We recommend that the law concerning a ceiling on the purchase of roads equipment and machinery for any year be increased, and that this matter be discussed by the legislators and County Commissioners prior to the next session.

We desire to express to His Honor Neil C. Fraley, our thanks and appreciation for his courtesy extended us during our term.

We also wish to thank Sheriff Paul W. Fisher, Richard L. Davis, Clerk of Court, the State Police and Constables for Garrett County, Maryland for their cooperation and assistance to us during our deliberations. It is our opinion that the law enforcement officers have performed their duties in a very commendable manner.

And we lastly wish to express our thanks to Mr. Stephen R. Pagenhardt, State's Attorney for Garrett County, for his advice and cooperation as an adviser to this Grand Jury and his able manner in conducting his affairs before us is greatly appreciated, and we wish also to thank Lester White, Deputy Clark and Mr. Charles F. Hammond for their able assistance during our deliberation.

Respectfully submitted,
Merle D. Frantz,
Foreman

Mobile Display of Electric Appliances To Be In County

A mobile display of electric appliances, the first of its kind in this area, made its debut on the Potomac Edison system recently, and will soon be in this area. Dubbed "The Frigidaire Cruiser," the promotional aid is a converted inter-urban bus which has been adapted for display of company equipment.

The "Cruiser" has scheduled a visit to nearby communities and will follow this schedule:

Tuesday, March 26, Friendsville, 9 to 5. Wednesday, March 27, Accident, 9 to 5; Thursday, March 28, Grantsville, 9 to 5.

Inside the bus, seats have been removed and the latest company appliances have been installed. Included in the display are two built-in ovens, a drop-in cooking unit, a fold-back cooking unit, a 30-inch and 40-inch electric range, a Super Cyclamatic refrigerator, a DeLuxe Flowing Cold refrigerator, a horizontal freezer, an Imperial washer-dryer unit and a Super washer-dryer unit.

During the period the cruiser is in this area, the display will be open for public inspection. Persons visiting the bus will be conducted through by PE sales personnel.

The new "Inner Ford" is really built!
Beneath Ford's beauty you'll find the kind of brawn that proved itself at Bonneville, Utah, where Ford ran away with 458 world endurance records. No wonder folks are sold on Ford.

You can have the most modern Six of all ...the Ford Mileage Maker. Six or V-8, the going's great in Ford!

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde • 6th District, Maryland

Reduction in the cost of government continues to dominate Capitol Hill talk. But the recent action of the House in requesting the President to indicate the places and amounts where substantial cuts could be made is hardly the way to trim the budget. Fact is the House, in a misguided political maneuver, has further reduced its control over the public purse and has clearly abdicated its congressional authority.

Final responsibility for Federal spending policy rests with the people who, in our form of government, are sovereign. They must decide the areas in which Federal spending can be postponed or curtailed, and it is the House of Representatives' constitutional duty to carry out those decisions. I am encouraged by the number of individuals in the 6th Maryland District who write me that they are willing to forego some benefits if it will mean a reduction in the cost of government and a subsequent cut in tax rates.

Atomic energy as a supplemental source of industrial power is becoming more important every day. I am happy to report that Representative W. Sterling Cole of New York has introduced a measure designed to foster the growth of the private development of atomic power. The bill would also aid American builders of nuclear power plants and equipment in competing with other countries for foreign markets.

Through the efforts of Senator Beall and myself, final approval for the Little Youghiogheny Watershed Project has been granted by the Senate and House Agriculture Committees. Residents of Garrett County will be pleased to learn that their project will soon be under way.

The Judiciary Committee, of which I am a member, has recently been debating the so-called Civil Rights bill in an effort to clarify its meaning. The attempt in Committee has been to come out with a bill providing legal procedure for enforcement of rights to which citizens are entitled under the Constitution.

I have introduced a bill which would permit the flying of the United States flag 24 hours a day at the birthplace of Francis Scott Key in Carroll county, and over his grave in Mount Olivet cemetery in Frederick. Senators Beall and Butler and Congressman Devereux have introduced identical bills.

Senator Beall and I have introduced a Concurrent Resolution to establish a joint Congressional Committee to investigate and study the problems created by the growth and expansion of the District of Columbia and its metropolitan area. Such a study is important for the consideration of Congress because the problems of urban development for the Nation's Capital are the same as those facing communities throughout the United States.

Our local problems are in a very real sense comparable to those of other areas where metropolitan growth has spread out over State borders. It is estimated that over 40 percent of our urban population sprawls over State lines and therefore is a proper concern of Congress. The investigation is expected to cover planning, zoning, water supply, transportation, bridges and highways. Much of the difficulty metropolitan Washington faces has come through the failure of responsible agencies to work together in solving its problems.

I appeared before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee in support of my bill which would increase annuities of certain retired railroad employees with service prior to 1937, by providing a new alternative base for computing their monthly compensation. My bill permits the choice of either the period from 1924-1931 or 1940-1947, whichever provides the greater monthly income. The bill also provides for earlier retirement than is presently permitted by law.

I would also like to call your attention to the action of the House Republican Policy Committee in endorsing a resolution recommending substantial reductions in the 1958 budget. A reduction in Federal spending will give greater stability to the cost of living and lead to a lowering of tax rates.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: Matthew 23
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 29:11-16

Hypocrites

Lesson for March 24, 1957

THE word "hypocrite" can be thrown around recklessly. Some one asked Dr. W. L. Lingle once why there are so many hypocrites in the church. His reply was that there are really not so many as some people think. The church, he says, is full of half-way Christians, stupid Christians, ignorant and weak Christians, even "I-don't-care" Christians. But a genuine hypocrite is a person who is bad and knows it, and pretends to be good in order to conceal his badness. Such persons, says Dr. Lingle, are few. However, we should not sit back and suppose that all the hypocrites were Bible characters. Still less should any one imagine that today all the hypocrites are in the church. People who are at least temporary hypocrites can be found all around us. Perhaps in us!

Dr. Foreman

Family Hypocrites

We don't have to go to church to be hypocrites. We can practice right at home, and some of us do all too well at it. The word originally meant simply "actor." We are all hypocrites when we act better than we know we are; or when our preachments fly at a higher level than our practice. When Father gives the children a lecture on honesty, the very day when he sells a piece of real estate for more than he knows it is worth; when he spanks the children for losing their tempers—but doesn't spank them till he has lost his own; when Mother tells the children at table to be patient, though she wouldn't wait in line at the post office but squeezed in out of turn; or when she greets the visiting Mrs. Jones like a long-lost sister, only to say before the visitor gets into her car, that she hopes that bore never comes again;—Father and Mother are being play-actors. Even the children may be play-acting when they take their parents' lectures or discipline as if they heard every word and meant to do better next time, when all the while they are thinking about something else, and they may be terrible little hypocrites about school—how mean the teacher is, and how all the children pick on me, and so on.

Business Hypocrites

Dwight L. Moody admitted the church harbors a good many hypocrites, but—he said—there are a lot more outside the church. There are indeed. Take business for instance. Listening to the high priests of big business in America, reading the advertisements, the man from Mars might take it seriously and believe that the main object of business is service. The jolly fellowship at luncheon clubs might be taken in the same way; how can these people be deadly rivals? The answer is, they aren't. The club rules allow admittance of only one person from each "classification." But in each classification the man may be a ruthless rival of other men in the same line not in this club. And as for service, it is quite true this is an aim of business, but the aim is making money. Even men in "professions" which have a long and honorable record of service, may be there for the simple reason that there is more money in it than in anything else they would find congenial. When a town finds itself year after without a resident doctor or minister simply because it is a town of poor people, the citizens are a little dubious about the "Service" professions.

Hypocrites in Church

Which brings up the kind of hypocrites who drew Jesus' fire—the hypocrites in church. Aren't we all hypocrites when we tip our heads back and sing, "Jesus, I my cross have taken, all to leave and follow thee"—when we decline even the small opportunities for service the church offers us? Isn't a minister a hypocrite when he exhorts his people to virtues which in his position are very easy but which he would find pretty hard if he were in their place? (Temperance, for instance.) Isn't the church member a hypocrite who hastens to dust off the Bible when she sees the minister coming up the front walk? Isn't the churchman a hypocrite who is extra careful of his language around the preacher? And aren't we all hypocrites when we pray, "Thy Kingdom come," —and back the prayer up with one thin quarter?

First Place Rating

Our school paper, "The Acorn," won a first place rating at Columbia Scholastic Press Association in New York City, where it was judged along with 1,400 other school papers from schools all over the United States. This means that the Acorn has received at least 850 points out of a possible 1,000.

The highest rating is the Medalist Award, which is given to only 10 percent of the schools entered and is taken from the first place awards. This award is given only for some distinctive outstanding qualities.

Each paper is judged on its own present merits and each paper is compared with the others in its own particular classification and is rated according to its relative standing with reference to other entries in its class.

In order to receive the first place award a paper must have 850 to 1,000 points. A second place paper must have from 750 to 849 points. A third place paper must have from 650 to 749 points. A fourth place paper has below 649 points.

Papers are judged on make-up, writing technique, content, and general considerations.

The Acorn staff has set their goal for the Medalist Award for next year.

Elsie Ann Barello
Star Route, Box 88
Silverton, Oregon
No. 4739 Equity, In the Circuit Court For Garrett County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce A Vinculo Matrimonii of the complainant from the respondent.
The bill states:
That the complainant was married to the respondent, Elsie Ann Barello, in the Spring of 1950 at San Francisco, California, by a duly authorized Justice of the Peace; that there was one child born of this marriage, to wit: Jerry Barello, age six years, said child being in the custody of the respondent; that although the conduct of the complainant toward the respondent has always been that of a kind, faithful and affectionate husband, the said respondent abandoned and deserted the complainant in April, 1953, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly and without cohabitation for nearly four years, and is deliberate and final, and beyond any hope or expectation of a reconciliation; that the complainant has been a resident of Garrett County, Maryland, all of his life, although he is presently employed in Baltimore, Maryland, and that the respondent is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and does not reside therein, and was last known to the complainant to reside at the home of her parents at Star Route, Box 88, Silverton, Oregon.
The bill then prays for a divorce A Vinculo Matrimonii of the complainant from the respondent, for general relief and, for an order of publication.
It is, thereupon, this 18th day of March, 1957, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, ordered that the complainant, by having a copy of this order inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 19th day of April, 1957, give notice to the said absent respondent of the object and substance of said bill of complaint, and warning her to be and appear in this Court, either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 7th day of May, 1957, and show cause, if any she has, why the prayers of said bill of complaint should not be granted unto the complainant.
True Copy,

Farm Bureau Planning Group Officers Meet

Thirty representatives of ten Farm Bureau Planning groups met at Accident Fire Hall last Tuesday evening to discuss their program for the year.

Mrs. Orval Glotfelty lead the discussion and introduced the speakers. Sol Hoke of the state office acted as counselor.

Comments made by Merle Garletts indicated a need for the planning groups to set up local and county projects to improve economic and social conditions of the county. He urged close cooperatim between Farm Bureau and Rural Development program to help develop the human resources of our people.

Marvin Callis pointed out the advantages of having a coordinated program for planning groups. He said more can be accomplished by unifying our efforts and reporting the accomplishments of each group to a central secretary.

Emerson Bishoff advocated the need for strong and active planning groups. They are the source for ideas and needs of farm people. Mr. Hoke told the group the political and economic impact of organized farm people is of great importance in state and national affairs.

The president of Garrett County Farm Bureau, Elra Garletts, asked the leaders of the planning groups to support the County Fair program and give aid when needed.

Mrs. Orval Glotfelty led a discussion. Mrs. Helen Glotfelty lead the group in several songs, accompanied by Gay Umbel on the piano. Refreshments were served by ladies associated with fire department.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. J. W. Schroyer, who passed away nineteen years ago this month, on March 16.
Only God knows how we miss dear mother,

Life can never be the same; although your smile has gone forever
And your dear hands we cannot touch
We will never lose the memory of you and your great love, that meant so much.
Sadly missed by daughters, Sons, Nieces and Nephew.

Paving the Way? . . .

Is Ervin Roth trying to pave the way for his own ouster as a member of the Board of County Commissioners? One would think so judging by his most recent attack on Aubrey Brenneman. Mr. Roth has distributed a circular stating that Commissioner Brenneman, as a result of the Court of Appeals decision is liable by law for a criminal indictment, and he cites statutes to fortify his position.

He challenges the state's attorney to do his duty by recalling the grand jury to present the matter for decision and declares his circular is necessary to put the full truth of this case before the citizens of the county.

To put the full truth before the citizens would have to involve Mr. Roth himself, because he is guilty of doing exactly the same type of thing as Mr. Brenneman. According to section 27 of the annotated code "It shall not be lawful for any county commissioner, during his term of office, to accept, hold, purchase or acquire any claim on or against the county of which he is a commissioner, or any share or interest in such claim, which claim has been or is to be passed upon and approved by the Board of County Commissioners, of which he is a member." Mr. Roth accepted payment of funds from the County Commissioners for distribution of surplus foods. This is on record at the Court House. Mr. Brenneman's company accepted payment of funds from the Commissioners for performing a drilling contract. There is no doubt that both of them did things which technically were against the existing statutes.

But you will remember Chief Judge George Henderson's oral opinion when the case was up for trial before him last June. The judge said, "I want to make it clear to everybody that nothing was done in any way which would appear to be a criminal offense." He was emphatic in wanting it un-

Work On Schools To Resume Soon

Work is expected to start again on the construction of the two new elementary schools. This was indicated by Hardesty and Shirer, the contractors.

Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, said these two schools would be a welcome sight for parents, teachers and pupils alike. He pointed out that perhaps no worse facilities exist anywhere in the state than those found at the Annex in Oakland and the Johnson school. These two schools, along with the one-room school at Finzel are to be closed when the new buildings are completed. Completion is set for around the first of the year.

Both schools will provide adequate classroom facilities, libraries, health rooms, kitchens and all-purpose rooms to be used for cafeterias, auditoriums, visual aids and physical education. Both schools are to be equipped with new furniture, adequate classroom shelving, bulletin boards and classroom wardrobes. Principals' offices and adequate storage space are also provided in the new buildings.

Hawkins said the completion of the two buildings along with improvements planned for Swan Meadow, and the continuing renovation program this summer and next would place all pupils of the county in modern or modernized school buildings with all needed educational facilities.

He indicated other needs such as covered walkways between main high school buildings and shops, hard surfaced playground areas for many elementary schools, and a band room for Southern High. He said the Board of Education hoped to bring these about within the near future.

He also pointed out the needs of auditoriums at both high schools but said the School Board sees no way to finance their construction at the present time.

To Show Color Slides At P.-T. A. Meeting

At the regular meeting of the Oakland Elementary Parent-Teacher association on Monday evening, April 1, at 8 p. m., at the Annex, Willard Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, will show a series of color slides depicting the many improvements made in the schools throughout the county.

The annual spring art exhibit will be held prior to the regular meeting. Children's art work will be on display. Teachers are to be in their rooms at both Center street and Annex schools from six to eight. Parents are invited to visit the art exhibit and attend the meeting. Refreshments will be served by the first grade homeroom mothers.

Lenten Services Continue

The fourth union Lenten service among the Protestant churches of the Oakland community will be held next Wednesday evening, April 3, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Church of the Nazarene, corner of 8th and Alder streets. Rev. John J. Atwell, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, will speak on the subject "Weak but an Open Door," in the theme "God Speaks to the Church."

Last night's service was held at the Episcopal church with Rev. Charles W. Carlson, pastor of the Lutheran church speaking.

"Atoms For Peace" Unit To Be Shown

The atom as a peacetime force will be on display for citizens of Westernport and Oakland when the "Atoms for Peace" mobile unit, sponsored by the University of Maryland and the Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce, arrives Tuesday, April 2.

This exhibit will appear in the Westernport business district from 12 noon to 2 p. m., and in the Oakland business district from 4 to 7 p. m. It will be on Second street at the corner of Alder.

One of the timely displays is devoted to the use of radio-active materials and radiation in the field of medicine—an aspect that may surprise those who may think of atomic energy as a weapon of destruction, not as an agent for the diagnosis and treatment of disease.

Actually there are many ways in which the atom can aid the physician. Because radioactive substances can be readily detected with instruments like the Geiger counter, they serve as valuable tools in studying the circulation of the blood.

Also radioactive iodine is used not only to diagnose the condition and efficiency of the thyroid gland, but also to destroy excess tissues where such destruction may be deemed necessary in cases of hyperthyroidism.

Many tumors show an affinity for certain elements and compounds; when these elements are made radioactive and injected into the body, they localize in the diseased portions, where they can provide a radiation "picture" to aid the physician to diagnose and treat the condition.

One of the growing uses in the medical field is the treatment of cancer and other diseases by machines which emit beams of intense radiation that destroy the diseased tissue. Though the principle is identical with that of the familiar X-ray devices that have been used for many years, the machines using radioactive sources are more efficient, more flexible, and much less expensive.

The medical display is just a small part of the "Atoms for Peace" exhibit.

The exhibit is one of many developed by the Atomic Energy Commission to bring the nation's many peaceful-atom programs to the attention and understanding of the general public. It is made available through the Museum Division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

Legislators then turned attention toward a teacher pay raise with the Senate approving a state tobacco tax as a means of financing and a House committee coming out for a one-half percent increase in the state income tax.

The Senate had passed the big spending hill last Friday after approving cuts by finance committees which totaled 3 million dollars.

Artice Is Given Eighteen Months

Court Is Concluded Wednesday Except For Civil Cases

George Ellis Artice, 30, Friendsville, was sentenced to serve eighteen months in the House of Correction yesterday by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley. Artice had pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary at the home of Albert Silhaugh, Friendsville, on February 6, for which he was indicted by the March Term grand jury.

Artice was arrested February 9 by Corporal Sam Conrad of the State Police. At a preliminary hearing before Ivan Humberson, trial magistrate, in Friendsville, he was released under $2,000 bond.

Conrad reported at the time of his arrest that a deer rifle, a revolver and a jacket were stolen. At the same time the disappearance of $2,000 in bank notes was discovered. The jacket and deer rifle were recovered.

The criminal trials were completed Wednesday morning after two of three bastardy cases had been disposed of.

Paul Jacob Tasker, on a charge of bastardy, was tried by a jury which returned a verdict of guilty. A motion for a new trial was filed by the defendant.

Ronald Wilhelm, on a charge of bastardy, was tried before Judge Fraley and a verdict of not guilty was returned.

Criminal Appeals

Several cases listed under criminal appeals were disposed of by the officials. George Arthur Shaffer had appealed a speeding charge for which he had been found guilty by Trial Magistrate W. O. Bitzer. He failed to appear when his case was called and the fine of $100 meted out by the magistrate was upheld.

William Ercel Sleeth, who appealed the decisions of Magistrate Bitzer when he smashed into the store front of the Oakland Electric and Radio Service on Alder street, in the town of Oakland, several months ago, had the magistrate's decision affirmed. Bitzer had fined him $100 and costs for driving under the influence of liquor. $25 and costs for reckless driving and $5 for having no license to operate a motor vehicle.

The case of Jack Carlton Kemp, on a charge of manslaughter by automobile, will he heard later. Kemp is at present an inmate of the jail in Somerset county, Pa.

Paul Wiland appealed a case in which Magistrate C. S. Zeller fined him $25 and costs for improper passing on the highways. He had a trial by jury and the magistrate's decision was affirmed.

Kermit Robert Helms was before the court last Saturday and entered please of guilty to three motor vehicle law violations, which had been appealed. The fine and costs in the case were suspended. Helms had been fined $100 and costs for driving under the influence of liquor, $25 and costs for reckless driving and $5 and costs for having no license to operate.

The jury was dismissed until next Tuesday when some civil cases are scheduled for trial.

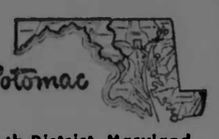
Along The Potomac



Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

Many of the problems of small and medium-sized businesses in the 6th Maryland District, as well as in the nation as a whole would be solved if these firms could retain out of earnings sufficient funds for legitimate business needs. The present tax burden makes this impossible. In an effort to remedy this situation I have introduced a bill which would lessen the tax burden on small business.

My bill has two provisions: (1) The income tax section would permit business firms, incorporated and unincorporated, to deduct from taxable income an amount for reinvestment purposes not to exceed 20 percent of net income or $30,000, which ever is lower; (2) The estate tax section would permit the businessman to set aside earnings in anticipation of his estate tax through the purchase of non-interest bearing certificates up to the amount of $100,000 and pay any balance over a ten-year period. The amount of tax anticipation certificates would be deductible from the gross amount of the estate for tax purposes.

During the week I also introduced a bill which would improve the handling of petty offenses and traffic violations on the Suitland and the Baltimore - Washington Parkways. At the present time the U. S. Commissioners in Prince Georges and Montgomery counties do not have authority to try these cases unless a defendant gives his or her consent. My bill would give the Commissioners the power to try these cases and to sentence those found guilty. Under present law there is an unavoidable congestion in the U. S. Court in Baltimore and a needless delay in the handling of traffic violations.

A well deserved tribute was paid to the Frederick Chamber of Commerce last week when the Department of Defense presented it with the Government Achievement Award. I understand that this is the first time that a Chamber of Commerce has been so honored. The citizens of Frederick all share in this recognition of the civic worth of their Chamber of Commerce.

On My Calendar

Wednesday, March 27, 9:45 a. m., students of the Clara Barton school (4th and 5th grades) will visit me in my office; 12 noon, Chevy Chase Women's club luncheon, Senate Thursday, March 28, 6:30 p. m., Federation for Railway Progress dinner, Sheraton Park. Monday, April 1, 8 p. m., guest, Maryland delegation, 5th annual Republican Women's conference, Statler.

Letters to the Editor

Accident, Md.
March 25, 1957

Dear Editor:

After I read your paper last week in regards to this so-called D. S. T. I think it is high time for some people to waken up to the fact that D. S. T. was voted on, so was whiskey. They are both forces of evil and the work of Satan. They are thinking of spending thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money for voting machines. Why vote? If a clique or a few people go ahead and do as they please, you might just as well stay at home, as I heard some say you would not know who would be put into office.

D. S. T. is of no advantage. We go by Standard time most of the year, why can't we go on Standard time all year and end all this confusion. Children that have to get up an hour earlier in the morning are tired out and nervous by the time they get to school. They cannot do school work right. Some don't realize what a job it is to get children out so early in the morning. The citizens of West Virginia voted out D. S. T. and have backbone and good common sense to stand back of what they voted against. Some people think if they have D. S. T. other places we should have it too. We do not need it. If someone steals or jumps in the lake, etc., that doesn't say that we should do the same. So lets stamp out this evil before it takes root. Let's work and pray to make Garrett county a better place to live in.

Thank you.
Charles E. Bowser

One Man Looks At God

(By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor, St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland Maryland.)

This week we will consider the words of Christ as recorded in Matthew 9:36-38:

When he saw the crowds, he had compassion for them, because they were harassed and helpless, like sheep without a shepherd. Then he said to his disciples: The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few; pray therefore the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into his harvest.

Though on the surface it looks as if there are more Christians than those who do not believe in this country of ours, there is no lack of places that Christ can be preached. For though there are many on the rolls of our churches, not all of these by any means are true believers in Christ, and then there are still many millions in this country who do not even go so far as to have a formal relationship with any church. And when we look throughout the world, we find non-Christians past the billion mark to which we can go with the gospel. The "Harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few."

Practically every denomination in Christendom feels the lack of ministers. Most churches have a need for far more in the full-time service of the church than they now have. There are many congregations throughout our nation who are without the leadership of a pastor. This is a serious problem in many respects. It shows first of all that churches themselves are not placing a high enough premium on getting the best of their young people to go into the ministry. When you indicate the wide difference in salary scale between an engineer, for instance, and a minister, you begin to see the point. While the material rewards are certainly not the basic reason a man should choose any calling for his life's work, certainly the rewards should at least indicate the relative importance of the calling. When you realize that the average construction worker is making more money than the average minister, who spends some seven or even more years in preparation for this work, it seems rather ridiculous. The ministry is not the only area where this factor is a problem when you look at it from the viewpoint that all Christians should be subject to the same responsibilities to spread Christ to the world as the minister. The minister is pastor to his flock, but he cannot live the whole Christian life for his people. He can guide them, but it is the task of all Christians to "go into all the world," preaching and living a gospel of redemption.

One of the first answers that I receive when I talk to people about their responsibilities as "lay evangelists" is that they don't know enough. Well, the way I look at it is if the people do not know enough about their Lord to talk about Him, and spread His word to their friends, neighbors, and any one else who needs it, then they had better learn! There is no lack of opportunity to learn. Most Sunday Church Schools teach the Bible pretty well, and any person who has gone through public school should be able to read English, and there are many good modern translations of the scriptures, so that any person should be able to read and find out for himself a lot of what Christianity is and should mean. Of course there are questions, but any pastor worth his calling will be more than willing to help, and we must never undercut the power of direct inspiration by the Holy Spirit, to all who seek out the Word of God in sincere prayer for guidance.

The harvest is plentiful, the opportunities are great, but the laborers are few. Should it be the pastor's responsibility alone to visit the sick, comfort the dying, preach repentance to the sinner, and all the other areas of the Christian faith in action? Certainly not! Accept your Christianity as not only a privilege, something that has been done for you, but accept it as a responsibility, something that you can share with others!

derstood that the case before him for trial was not a case in which there was any criminal intent charged. He indicated that the county had obtained value received for any funds that had been spent with A. C. Brenneman and Son for drilling operations, and this was borne out when all the parties concerned agreed to let John J. Brenneman complete his drilling contract at the stipulated price.

The Grand Jury of September, 1956, also declared it had "investigated thoroughly the possibility of violation of the statutes of Maryland relating to the doing of business with the County by the County Commissioners," and after considering all the evidence the jury declared it was of the opinion that "There was no criminal intention to violate these laws." So the matter has already been before the grand jury and no indictment was returned. Furthermore, the state's attorney has no legal authority to recall a grand jury. Only the judge has that right under the laws of Maryland. The court of appeals decision has no additional bearing on the case, as far as taking any criminal action is concerned. This makes us wonder if Roth's remarks could not be construed as contempt of court.

At the time the original complaint was filed against the two commissioners, these two could very easily have filed a similar complaint against Roth for his activities in taking money for the distribution of surplus foods, but they are not the vindictive type. They let this pass. But it still isn't too late if Mr. Roth desires to apply pressure. Of course everybody realizes where this pressure actually is coming from. It isn't coming from Roth but from one to whom Roth runs every time he is called upon to express a single opinion, a person who has expressed a vow that he would oust one of the commissioners in some way or another so that he would have a say in who would be appointed to office in his place.

Then, citizens, we really would be hopping out of the simmering frying pan into the blazing fire, and make no mistake about it. If that person gets just one foot in the door, then look out!

To The Editor

Oakland Rotary Club,
Oakland, Maryland
Gentlemen:

Your organization is to be commended on the interest you have aroused in the need of an airport in the Oakland-Deep Creek Lake area.

In the past two years I have discussed this subject with the Garrett County Commissioners and on at least four occasions have mailed them literature printed by the Government and C. A. A. explaining how those communities which do not now have air facilities can obtain them with little or no expense. Needless to say I have not met with much success. Two of the finest homes on Turkey Neck Estates alone have been abandoned in the past two years due to the the lack of this facility. The owners living even a short distance away, Bedford, Pa., but there's a lot of difference between two hours of hard driving and 18 minutes in their private planes.

The tax roll of Garrett county will benefit tremendously as this facility will bring those to the lake who can better afford the nicer homes on the lake. The last census indicated 87,000 private and executive aircraft in the country and this figure is making tremendous increases each year.

If I can lend any assistance in this move, financially or otherwise, please do not hesitate to call on me. Will return to the lake about May 1st.

Sincerely yours,
HARRY C. DEAL

Gas Carrier Bill Unfair, Says C. & A.

A spokesman for the C and A. Gas company told a legislative committee Monday that a bill introduced by Senator Friend of this county is "wholly unnecessary, probably invalid, wholly impractical and grossly unfair."

John W. Avirett, attorney for C. and A., made the charges before the House Agriculture and Natural Resources committee which deferred action on the senator's proposal.

The bill, already through the Senate, would require that natural gas and oil pipelines be made common carriers.

Friend told the committee last week that C. and A. holds "virtual state-protected monopoly" on gas delivered in Western Maryland and is "trying to extend its monopoly" to gas production in the Accident field.

He said small, independent drillers have purchased leases from farmers in Accident field, but do not work them because C. and A. has not agreed to purchase gas from them or rent pipelines to them.

Avirett said his company has no "chartered monopoly" on gas production or transportation. He said the state protects it from competition in distribution to domestic consumers only as long as it meets its "obligations to the public" and abides by regulations of the Public Service commission.

He said Friend's proposal is "unnecessary" because the gas company now buys gas from anybody in the county who produces it in marketable quantity and of a "quality we're allowed to sell." Avirett said C. and A. does not produce any gas in Accident field but buys it all from the Snee and Eberly drilling firm. Friend said he believes but cannot prove that Snee and Eberly is C. and A.'s "drilling arm" and that the two companies are "one and the same."

Avirett said that Snee and Eberly is not "in any way regulated, controlled or supervised" by C. and A. Avirett said Friend's bill would be "invalid" because this field of legislation is already "preempted" by the federal government through the Federal Power Commission. He also said such a law would violate the "due process" clause of the Constitution and that his company will fight it in court if it is enacted. The law would be "impractical" Avirett said, because of the problem of transmitting a fungible substance such as natural gas. He said the law would be "unfair" both to his firm and to the consumers because it is "aimed at only one company" and because it would result in higher consumer rates and might prevent certain areas from getting all the gas needed during peak transportation periods.

Another speaker against the principle of the bill was Harrison Winter, representing the Transcontinental Gas Pipeline company.

Friend denied a charge by Avirett that he "constantly harasses" the gas company. He admitted that the company has not refused to buy gas from any producer, but he said many lease holders hesitate to spend $60,000 to $80,000 in drilling in face of a possibility they may not be able to get their gas moved. He said independent drillers could sell their gas to industrial consumers despite C. and A. domestic distribution charter.

Friend also denied a charge by Avirett that the bill is his "personal interest." He said the Farm Bureau is behind the measure because it is designed to "prevent strangulation of a whole community by a complete monopoly."

The senator said the purpose could not be invalid because 21 other states have similar legislation. Avirett said other states have such legislation only pertaining to companies "holding themselves out as common carriers." He said C. and A. was not organized as such and is operating under a federal authority that does not regard it as such. Avirett said C. and A. serves 20,000 enstomers in Western Maryland.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Save just 2 cents out of every dollar" advised a Marylander who has been studying the national budget, "and you will save more than $4 billion.

That, of course, is merely another way of stating what could be accomplished by making a 2 percent reduction in our proposed expenditures, but it seems to me that the approach might be rather effective.

Perhaps everyone whose work involves Federal funds should be encouraged to think more frequently in terms of "2 cents out of every dollar."

As my constituent observed, a careful adherence to such seemingly small economies could result in a sizable reduction in government spending.

Two Basic Questions

Speaking of the budget, one of the major economic considerations we have had to face during recent years has been the financing of our foreign aid program, and it looks like the issue becomes more complicated every time.

Basically, it involves two points—the moral and the strictly economic.

Thousands of factors are, in turn, involved in each of those points, but we can more or less boil them down into two questions:

To what extent are we to be "our brothers' keepers?"

Can we maintain an efficient program through which our overseas expenditures result in financial gain, either through defense savings or increased trade, to the citizens within our own shores?

Duty to be Informed

Numerous volumes have been filled with the 'pro' and 'con' arguments on those questions, and it would be ridiculous to attempt to resolve them in these few short paragraphs.

However I do feel it is important for all of our citizens to keep thinking of them.

After all, you and I are the ones whose consciences will help form the future.

You and I are the ones whose pocketbooks will be affected.

You and I are the ones whose duty it is to be informed and to determine the paths we are to follow.

P.S.—Results of my questionnaire are still being tabulated, and I hope to release a complete report on my findings within several weeks.

Notes from My Appointment Book

During the week I had the pleasure of addressing a student assembly at Morgan State college and the members of Langley Hebrew congregation. I also attended a presentation ceremony during which the Frederick Chamber of Commerce received the Army Certificate of Achievement "for outstanding patriotic service," a breakfast given by Secretary of the Army Brucker, and affairs held by the Maryland Association of Insurance Agents and the Old Town Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

Vows were exchanged before an altar of gladioli, snapdragons, ferns and lighted tapers.

The bride, daughter of Howard Schlosnagle and the late Mrs. Schlosnagle, of Accident, was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a navy blue dress with white accessories, with a corsage of white carnations. Her maid of honor was Miss Betty Jean Rell, niece of the groom, of Atlanta, Ga. Best man was Sgt. Leonard Kleckie, of Camp Gordon, Ga.

Miss Sandra Caldwell, Greensboro, sang "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. T. H. McGibony, also of Greensboro, who played nuptial music throughout the ceremony.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church Sunday School rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Moon are now at home in their apartment at Grovetown, Ga., while Mr. Moon is stationed at Camp Gordon, nearby.

Attending the ceremony from this county were Howard Schlosnagle, Accident; Mr. and Mrs. Clark Schlosnagle and children, Linda and Ellis, of Friendsville.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

March came in like a lion and from where I sit she looks as if she may go out the same way. But she has left me the richer, regardless of how she chooses to go.

Three things stand out like the American flag on the Fourth of July.

There was War and Peace, a movie that I have thought about off and on since its showing. Beautifully done, yes, but it left one thing with me—I must get to know this man Tolstoy. The dialogue was loaded with philosophy stated simply. It came out Pierre's month like poetry.

The Uolost Generation

An article in February Harper's Bazaar has been the most thought provoking thing I've read for a long time. It's about our American young people who were born in the thirties. And like their parents who have been labeled most anything that meant "wild" such as the "Lost Generation," the "Roaring Twenties," etc., these young people are so staid and correct and pure that their parents, now in their fifties, are all but frustrated because they can't give out any warning. They can't even tell about their own youth without these wise old twenties looking them over and sometimes uttering "How awful," or even worse, "how stupid!"

Edward Steichen, the great photographer, observed not long ago that the U. S. "is suffering from a shortage of youngness of youth."

The quest for security takes precedence over ambition and self-expression, so observes Carolyn Bird, the author of the article.

Why they seem so unambitious, over adjusted and apathetic is that they are on the receiving end of new techniques for the mass handling of people. They are among the first public school pupils taught to "adjust to the group." Later they were the first soldiers trained to "voluntary cooperation." Finally when they applied for a job they quickly discovered that the interview was more concerned with their ability to work with others than to do the work.

"To live in the Pentagon or in a big corporation one must walk on eggs, and that is something new in America."

Nevertheless the 1930 generation is managing it by and large without a murmur, and frequently with a smile. Why have they submitted so tamely to this loss of individuality and independence? The answer—it does not seem unnatural to have regulated lives. From nursery school to executive training squad, to housing project, they have been trained to conformity.

They reject the all-out struggle for success. Individual businesses are lagging because they would rather be employed by a company which will take the responsibility.

Money is merely a bookkeeping device handled by the women. According to Margaret Mead those activities allocated to women have less value. The "unlosts" prefer to keep DOWN to the Jones.

Their attitude about love, marriage and a family is completely mature and is far superior to that of the lost generation. They want good marriages above all else.

There is much about their attitude, as I work with gronps of them, that seem so Christian and peace loving even though I'll have to admit that somehow they lack spirit.

But this too, will pass. I do not believe that "unlost" is permanent. They'll want their children to be different from themselves and so the pendulum swings.

A Glimpse Into Norway

Miss Hagan, the tall blonde with an abundance of natural beauty gave us of A. A. U. W. an interesting picture of family life, among other things, in her country.

The child is kept at home until seven. There seems to be no outside influence. Somewhere between that age and the teens the child learns complete self control. To such an extent that to our teenagers they would appear clear beyond bounds. These boys and girls even go on camping trips without adult supervision.

She thinks the girls at W. V. U. are so protected. Girls in her country are expected to go to Paris or England for a year—money for travel provided by family—but they must make their own way. That's to prove to themselves and the family that they are self sufficient.

Because of their economy and housing they don't go "steady" or even think of marriage until the middle twenties. Boys and girls go "Dutch" and there's no such thing as a wallflower because they move in groups where there is no pairing off.

Excerpts From Testimony In Brenneman Case

From argument presented to the Maryland Court of Appeals:

"That the lower court did not question the credibility of either of the Brennemans is evidenced by the fact that he stated in his oral opinion that under the facts in this case there would be no justification for a criminal prosecution of Mr. Brenneman. No such conclusion could have been reached if he had disbelieved their testimony."

From the Judge's oral opinion, of June, 1956.

"This is not a case in which there is any criminal intent charged. It doesn't have to be a criminal intent . . . I have referred to the fact that it is not a criminal case."

In quoting the applicable laws Judge Henderson said:

"There is a third section which has to do with criminal violations. And there is a distinction between the two, in that a criminal intent would seem to be a necessary finding before there could be a conviction under this third section. It reads: 'If any county commissioner shall violate any of the provisions of the two preceding sections, he shall be liable to indictment, and, upon conviction, shall forfeit his office, and shall also forfeit his share in the agreement, contract or claim, as aforesaid, as the case may be'."

Roads Department Bill Still Held Up

Senator Friend's bill No. 141 which would revamp the County Roads department, was still being held up in the House of Delegates, thus far it was learned this week.

Delegate Harry Edwards, of Grantsville, chairman of the county's delegation said, "As it stands now, it's going to be held in my desk."

Through procedure in the state legislatures, local bills passed in one house are referred to the legislators from that county in the other house.

The legislators receiving these measures can do three things—report them out favorably or unfavorably, or just hold them and in effect, kill them.

In a flyer mailed to residents of the county Senator Friend said the hill was passed in January in the Senate without opposition and sent to the House of Delegates. Friend claimed the bill was being held by Delegates Edwards and Ashby.

Senate Bill 141 calls for the Garrett County roads engineer to have a degree in civil engineering, the appointment of a chief clerk for the roads department, the contracting of a qualified accountant to set up a new bookkeeping system, provides the letting of all purchases of $1.000 or over through competitive bidding, and sets a penalty for failure of compliance of the bill's terms.

Senator Friend's critics have termed the measure a "ripper bill" that would get rid of veteran County Roads Engineer William W. DeWitt. Friend denied there was any personal animosity but said he was solely concerned with the problem of obtaining a more efficient and economical county roads department. In an altercation with the county roads engineer last summer the Senator struck DeWitt a blow and broke his jaw. Later a Garrett county grand jury rendered a verdict of not guilty when tried on a charge of assault. His attorneys argued that he had ample provocation for striking DeWitt because of a name which DeWitt called him.

Senator Friend also has another bill that would require an audit of the County Roads Department funds for the year of 1954, prior to the time the present county commissioners took office. Del. Edwards said the delegation would also hold this measure as "going back won't help us."

He said he had been encouraged by a number of business men of the county to hold up these bills. The only one speaking in favor of them has been Sen. Friend.

The Senator in pointing out that the roads department spent nearly a million dollars a year, said he was critical of the department's operation in view of the large spending.

Del. Edwards said that Friend's flyer hadn't encouraged him to take the bills out of his desk.

Welfare Expenses for February is $24,436

A slight decrease in welfare expenditures for February was noted with 650 persons receiving $24,436.97 through the Garrett County Welfare board. Figures were released by Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare. The total did not include costs of administration.

The report showed the total number receiving assistance was 25 less than the number receiving assistance during January, and that the total amount was $280.05 less than for the previous month.

Largest percentage of the total expenditure for February went to the old age pension category where 214 persons received $9,188.13, an average of $42.94 per person. There were 7 new applications with 3 being added and 5 cancelled.

Two hundred ninety-seven persons in 103 families received $8,673.73 under the aid to dependent children category, an average of $84.21 per family. There were 6 new applications with four cases being added and six being cancelled.

Five blind persons received $298.75. Ninety-seven persons listed under permanently and totally disabled received $4,335.91, an average of $44.70. One new application was received here with two cases being added.

Thirteen persons listed under general public assistance received $681.15, an average of $52.40. In this category there were three new applications with three cases being cancelled. Twenty-four children listed under Foster Home care received $1.259.30, for an average of $52.47.

Throughout the state the expenditures for February amounted to $1,878,981, which compared to $1,711,957 for February a year ago and $1,861,315 for the previous month.

Walter Reuther, head UAW Union, criticized Beck's use of union money as "highly improper, inexcusable and morally indefensible."

DODGE PowerGiants

Most Power of the Low-Priced 3!

Everybody agrees . . . the main reason for buying a truck is to haul a payload. That being the case, doesn't it make sense to get the truck that's powered and built to carry the most in its weight class? Of course it does! That's why so many truck owners are switching to Dodge.

Dodge gives you the most powerful V-8's of the low-priced three, ranging from 201-hp. pick-ups to 232-hp. tandems. And Dodge trucks are built especially tough to handle bigger loads. For instance, Dodge pick-ups can haul up to one-third more than other competitive makes.

Dodge makes hauling these bigger loads easier, too. Shorter turning radius lets you needle in and out of tough traffic spots in a jiffy. Power steering is available on most models, and the extra convenience of a push-button transmission* can be yours only with Dodge.

Think it over. After all, it's just plain good business to get the most for your money . . . and your dealer can prove the most truck for your money is Dodge.

Facts prove the Dodge D100 pick-up beats both competitive low-priced models in payload. Model compared is a Dodge 6, 100 pick-up, 7½-foot body. In larger pick-ups the Dodge lead is even greater.

Scenes like this are as commonplace as the moonbeams that play on the nursery wall. Little Gail doesn't know it . . . but Daddy and Mummy "look in" on her every night.

But what of the hours when parents sleep? What of the busy playtime when Daddy's at work, and Mummy's in the kitchen, and Gail is out walking her doll? Who will "look in" then?

Centuries ago the Hebrew pilgrims went up to Jerusalem for the great feasts, lifting their eyes to the hills, singing the song of "The Divine Vigil."

He that keepeth thee will not slumber rang the voice of the leader. He that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep answered the chorus.

Even the loving care of parents is no substitute for the faithfulness of God. When you worship in church next Sunday you'll be expressing the ageless conviction: My help cometh from the Lord.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a sick house of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Background Scripture: Matthew 24:25
Devotional Reading: Matthew 24:32-41

Last Judgment

Lesson for March 31, 1957

ALL human judgments are imperfect, and some of them highly unjust: because no man knows all the circumstances of any act, not even his own. We are notoriously poor judges of our own actions; but we are no juster to others. Judgments of ourselves are spoiled by pride; judgments about others are spoiled by prejudice. We never do really see any action in all its dimensions. We can never judge the consequences of an act because we know only a small fraction of them. We cannot well judge the motives of an act, because we mis-read (or read through rose-colored glasses) our own motives, and the motives of others we can do no more than guess at.

Dr. Foreman

Final Judgment

Nevertheless, most of us are called on to pass judgment on others in various ways. And when we are honest we do try to come as near to God's viewpoint as we can. That is, we try to take everything into consideration. But try as we may, we must admit first and last that only God can be the final judge, for only he has all the facts. There are many pictures of the "Last Judgment" in the Bible and they do not agree in details, since they are pictures of what cannot really be imagined. But back of all the pictures, stern, compelling, chilling as some of them are, we discern some plain truths. One is that not only is God the final Judge of every man, but his judgment is final because he and only he has all the facts, and he does not render his judgment till all the facts are in. True, God's judgment is going on all the time, and we can read them in history. "I can read his righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps" as the poet says. This is true of men and nations, that the divine judgment is interwoven with the lives God settles many of the affairs of this planet on this planet. But in the ultimate future and only then will all the facts be in. No judgment before then, not even God's, is final.

The Great Separation

All sorts of efforts have been made to dull the force of Jesus' terrific picture of prophecy of the Last Judgment in the parable of the sheep and the goats. It has been said that this is a judgment of nations, not individual persons; but anyone who can read Greek can see that is not the case. The word "them" in Matt. 25:32 plainly does not refer to nations but to persons. (Furthermore, how do "nations" fit into the end of the story?) It has been said too that this is not a separation of the "saved" from the "unsaved." But the issues of the Trial, as Jesus pictures it, are eternal life and eternal death. The fact is, this is Jesus' picture of the Last Judgment of mankind, and there is no getting out of it. At least two points stand out, etched as it were by fire. One is that the final judgment against a man is not necessarily for what he has done but for what he didn't do, did not even think about doing. The other point is that the basis of judgment is a man's human relations! True, deeper than that is a man's relationship to Christ; but in this parable Christ identifies himself completely with the troubled sufferers of the world. What we do, or do not do, about human misery, we do or fail to do for the Lord.

The Judgment Seat of Christ

Another strange thing appears in this overwhelming portrayal of judgment, vast and final. The Judge, the King, is the Son of Man, Jesus Christ himself. This fits in with other passages in the New Testament where sometimes Christ, and sometimes God, appears as the Judge of all. This is a tremendous claim on Jesus' part, to have the right to sit on the throne of the universe. Nowhere is the deity of Christ more strikingly affirmed than right here. On the other hand, he is still the Son of Man. He is our Elder Brother, bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh, "made like his brethren in every respect" as Heb. 2:17 says. God in his final judgment, acts with and through his Son who was and ever shall be one with God and one with man. We cannot deceive him. He is one of us.

vs
Elsie Ann Barello
Last know address:
Star Route, Box 88
Silverton, Oregon

No. 4739 Equity. In the Circuit Court For Garrett County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce A Vinculo Matrimonii of the complainant from the respondent.

The bill states:

That the complainant was married to the respondent, Elsie Ann Barello, in the Spring of 1950 at San Francisco, California, by a duly authorized Justice of the Peace; that there was one child born of this marriage, to wit: Jerry Barello, age six years, said child being in the custody of the respondent; that although the conduct of the complainant toward the respondent has always been that of a kind, faithful and affectionate husband, the said respondent abandoned and deserted the complainant in April, 1953, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly and without cohabitation for nearly four years, and is deliberate and final, and beyond any hope or expectation of a reconciliation; that the complainant has been a resident of Garrett County, Maryland, all of his life, although he is presently employed in Baltimore, Maryland, and that the respondent is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and does not reside therein, and was last known to the complainant to reside at the home of her parents at Star Route, Box 88, Silverton, Oregon.

The bill then prays for a divorce A Vinculo Matrimonii of the complainant from the respondent, for general relief and for an order of publication.

It is, thereupon, this 18th day of March, 1957, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, ordered that the complainant, by having a copy of this order inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 19th day of April, 1957, give notice to the said absent respondent of the object and substance of said bill of complaint, and warning her to be and appear in this Court, either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 4th day of May, 1957, and show cause, if any she has, why the prayers of said bill of complaint should not be granted unto the complainant True Copy.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

All Part of a Plan

An excellent interview, in the current issue of U. S. News and World Report magazine, with General Akio Doi, a Japanese military leader, who recently visited Red China at the invitation of the Communist Government might well be required reading for those who scoff at the motives and devices of international communism. The real purpose of this invitation was exposed when Mao Tse-tung, Chairman of the "People's Republic of China" told the Japanese mission: "We heartily hope to establish friendly and peaceful relations with Japan . . . China must join hands with Japan . . . unless Japan and China get along amicably, neither Asia nor the world will have peace . . . "

General Doi, not to be taken in by such transparency, made this observation: "One thing you must keep in mind: Red China's true intentions are one thing; her tactics are another . . . The Chinese Communists want first of all to eject the United States from Asia, and, finally, to communize the United States . . . "

Champions of the left-twist in national and international affairs will no doubt seize, with favor, upon Mao Tse-tung's bromide that "there is an inevitable and irresistible world-wide trend toward socialism." Mao's words echo Kremlin-inspired "hate America" propaganda: "It is American imperialism that suppresses the desires of the Japanese masses. Japan must become independent by throwing out the Americans." All of this, says General Doi, "suggests that the Chinese are thinking in terms of a Communist Japan." Any eventually of this magnitude would be a serious blow to the cause of the free nations, but more imperatively, to the defense perimeter of the United States.

"Basically, the Chinese leaders believe that the entire world will turn Communist—although it may take a long time, particularly in the case of the United States . . . " continues the Japanese General, "but the Communist Chinese will still be operating on the premise that America, eventually and inevitably, will go Communist."

The Chinese Communists boast: "Even if the United States doesn't recognize us for a hundred or even a thousand years, we will still become a great nation." Undoubtedly, most of the Chinese leaders ardently seek recognition for it would mean admission to the United Nations, and "then they will be in a position to act vigorously in other fields."

Most regrettably, these goals have been served recently when two national figures proclaimed that recognition of Red China is inescapable. I continue to disagree vehemently.

Senator Knowland urged union leaders to "clean their own house" to avoid possible punitive legislation.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our darling daughter, Nellie V. Johnson, who passed away March 16, 1950.

Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have, to hold, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.

The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never.
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

Some say, time heals an aching heart,
But no, it isn't true.
For seven long years have passed, dear Nellie,
And my heart still aches for you.

You will always be remembered
By the ones that loved you best.
Rest in peace, your work is ended,
You have gone, where those who loved you
Soon are coming, one by one.

Mother and Family.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 81. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., APRIL 4, 1957. PER COPY, 8c NUMBER 5.

It's Up To You . . . .

Any cut in the Federal budget is really up to all the people. Nearly everyone in Washington is worried about the size of the new Federal budget and really believes it will be cut, but no one there really believes it will be cut—unless YOU insist that it be cut.

Senator Harry Flood Byrd, Virginia Democrat, says the proposed budget can be cut at least $5 billion without impairing national defense or the efficiency of the government. The Hoover commission, headed for several years by a former Republican president, has also shown how billions can be saved. The National Association of Manufacturers has issued an analysis showing how cuts aggregating $8,227,000,000 could be made in this proposed budget of almost 72 billions dollars.

The demand for these enormous increases in spending does not come from the American people. As former President Hoover points out, it comes from "pressure groups," from organizations which want something from the Federal Treasury at the expense of all the taxpayers.

There is hardly a family in the country which does not "need" things which would cost a lot more than it can afford to spend. There is hardly a family in the country which could not cut present expenses ten percent if it had to do it. The government also can cut its spending. And like a family, it cannot live beyond its means indefinitely without getting into serious trouble.

Many people are now writing to their Congressmen indicating where they feel the budget can and should be cut. They may indicate international affairs and finance, veterans' services and benefits, labor and welfare, agriculture and agricultural resources, natural resources, commerce and housing, general government, or national defense.

Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey said, "We must seek the full cooperation of the public generally in limiting its demands on the Federal government for only essential Federal functions," and declared that unless spending was kept down there would be a depression "that will curl your hair."

If you do not favor a "hair curling," and believe that Federal spending should be reduced, now is the time to indicate your desires to your Congressmen. Demands from voters for a reduction continue to pour into both houses in record numbers. Your representatives would appreciate your backing on this matter. They would like to cut too, but they want to be sure that YOU approve.

The only other area member of the council is Del. George Hughes, Allegany county Republican, minority floor leader in the House of Delegates.

Pay Increase For Teachers Passed

A pay raise for school teachers, supported by a state tax of three cents a pack on cigarets, was enacted and sent to Governor McKeldin Monday night as the Maryland Legislature wound up a 90-day session.

The House of Delegates completed action on the $10,500,000 bill about 10 p. m., clearing away a major problem which had faced the assembly since it convened January 2.

The teachers' pay bill, calling for average increases of $400, rocked through an hour of stormy arguments in the House before finally winning overwhelming approval. Southern Maryland delegates, irked at the proposal of a tobacco tax, led the complaints. But they finally retreated and a conference report recommending the pay hill and accompanying tax measure was adopted 100 to 18. After that the House passed the hill 107 to 0. The Senate had approved it earlier 25-1 with Sen. Dempsey of Baltimore voting against it and three Southern senators passing.

The compromise plan on teacher salaries was the work of a joint conference committee of the House and Senate which met over the week-end. The committee agreed to take the House plan for $10,400,000 to be spent on salaries and aid to education and the Senate's proposal for a tobacco tax.

The senators had recommended a 2-cent tax on cigarets with 1 to 3 cents on cigars and 1 cent on packaged tobacco. In order to raise more money the conference group upped the cigaret tax but eliminated the smaller levies on cigars and other products. The tax, if it and the teacher raise can escape a veto by Governor McKeldin, would become effective July 1. It would be applied on top of any local cigaret levies now in existence.

Most teachers figure to get increases of $300 to $500 under the pay bill, with higher amounts ranging up to $1,900 more a year for principals of larger schools. Supervisors and visiting teachers would also share in the increase. The Senate had proposed a flat $350 across the board increase for everyone which would have cost some 3 million less than the House plan.

Cove FFA Sponsors Improvement Project

Cove Chapter, F.F.A., of Northern High, is sponsoring a community improvement project, in cooperation with Nationwide Insurance as a supplement to the National F.F.A. Foundation farm security program.

The objective is to make the farms of the community safer places on which to live and work, according to Max Bowser, president.

Members of the chapter are divided into two teams. Each team will inspect a group of farms to look for hazards such as poor electrification, uncovered wells, unshielded machinery, broken steps, etc., that threaten life, limb or property.

Bowser said the program provided direction and educates where education does the most good, in the schools.

Over 3,600 members of the companies helped compile the winning record of 1.45 accidents per 1,000,000 man-hours worked. In 1955 they finished third in the national contest.

Roads Employes Given Wage Raise

In an agreement between County Roads employes and the County Commissioners, roads employes are to receive an increase of 20 cents an hour, but will be limited to 45 hours per week, according to information received this week.

The settlement was not official until attorneys of both sides had put the agreement in writing, according to H. D. Swartzentruber, president of the Commissioners.

Last week the roads employes, headed by Ted Knotts, president of the Garrett County Roads Department Employes' Association, had sought a raise in wages of 25 cents an hour, a five-day sick leave with pay, and seven paid holidays. The workers already receive a ten-day paid vacation and were given an increase of 10 cents an hour last year.

The County Commissioners, in regular session Monday, had agreed to the 10 days paid vacation, five days sick leave, three paid holidays per year, and an increase of 15 cents per hour in wages with the possibility of laboring 50 hours per week.

Mr. Swartzentruber said this proposal was accepted by the Roads employes at a meeting Monday night. But they were in disagreement with the Commissioners Tuesday morning when they came to work. Roads officials told the men it was raining and there would be no work that day. The men felt that in their agreement they were given nine hours per day for five days per week and five hours on Saturday, so they refused to leave. They were in effect striking in reverse.

The executive committee of the Roads employes was then called to meet with the commissioners and it was agreed that they accept 20 cents per hour increase with a guarantee of 45 hours per week.

Two Juveniles Caught In Robbery: Others Implicated

Two juveniles are being detained in jail after having been caught robbing the R. and P. Firestone store on Third street in Oakland early Wednesday morning. Merchandise amounting to $1,112.24 in retail value was in the process of being trucked away when Porter DeWitt, night policeman, came upon the two with a stolen truck in the alley back of The Republican building.

The day-long investigation yesterday also brought four other juveniles under observation, with the result that all six have confessed to a series of petty thefts which have been occurring over the past several months.

Names of the persons involved may not be published, because of the juvenile court law, but it is rather widely known who the persons are. Their ages: one is 13, four are 14 and one is 16.

The story as brought out by State's Attorney S. R. Pagenhardt, ran something like this:

About 2 a. m. one of the juveniles went to the home of the other one, tapped on the window and awakened him, and then both went to a warehouse of A. D. Naylor and company, where one the company trucks was kept. The previous night they had broken the lock and replaced the covering over it, so all they had to do was to open the door and start up the truck. They parked it in the alley in the rear of The Republican office. They then took glass cutters and attempted to cut through an auxiliary door of the R. and P. store, fronting on Third street. Failing in this they smashed the window and entered. They hastily gathered the following: nine guns, several of them high powered rifles; 37 boxes of .22 calibre shells; 7 boxes of 16-gauge shotgun shells; 10 boxes 12-gauge shotgun shells; 24 boxes of high powered rifle bullets; two radios, three rifle scopes, watches, flashlights, pocket knives, hunting knives, fishermen's hats 175 other things.

Prepare To Load Truck

They made their exit by way of a cellar window between the store and the City hall, leaving their "loot" between the buildings while they went for the truck.

It was while they were getting the truck started that Policeman DeWitt arrived. He arrested one boy, while the other fled. Taking the one boy to the lock-up he roused Deputy Sheriff James Frantz, and learning the identity of the other boy, drove to the boy's home. There the family was in bed, but after the parents were aroused and search was made, they found the second youth in bed in his pajamas, but he perspiring heavily and was still out of breath from running home.

DeWitt learned where the articles were that were in the process of being loaded on the truck and so practically everything was recovered.

Grilling Follows

Then in the grilling which took place yesterday authorities learned that on March 24, four had entered the J. W. Jackson 5 and 10 cent store, and again on Monday the two had gone back.

Throughout the day they admitted to daytime theft of a number of articles from the Englander Pharmacy, Browning's Hardware, Ihh's Harness Shop, Carroll's Sport Shop, Western Auto Associate Store, Smouse's Store, Oakland Pharmacy, and the Oakland Radio and Electric Company. They also admitted having stolen a car from Ralph Smouse's Body Shop, and also one from Sanders and Hershman garage. They admitted stealing dealer tags from Sanders and Hershman, and of having stolen gasoline at least once. From The Oakland Radio and Electric they had stolen truck keys.

They also admitted to having entered the A. D. Naylor and company store around Christmas time and stealing a high powered rifle. This was recovered yesterday. One of the youths said he took that in daylight hours by sticking it down his trouser leg.

Had Loaded Four Guns

County authorities said that four of the guns had been loaded, and there was speculation of what might have happened had DeWitt been a few minutes later and had come upon them while they were in the process of loading the "loot" onto the truck.

It was also brought out that these juveniles had been involved in knocking out street lights with pump guns and shooting rifle bullets through mail boxes.

When the investigation was completed late yesterday afternoon officers had six youths under surveillance with the two of them who were involved in the actual robbery yesterday being detained in jail.

Pagenhardt said they would be tried before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley, sitting as a juvenile judge. The date of the hearing was not determined.

Authorities had been alerted because it was known that someone had attempted to force the main door of the R. and P. store on Sunday night, and it was also known that thieving had been going on at the J. W. Jackson store.

License To Sell Beer Is Refused

Samuel L. Bowman, of near Glendale bridge, was refused a license to sell beer following a remonstrance hearing before the County Commissioners sitting as a Board of License Commissioners, in the Court house Tuesday morning.

A petition with 41 signers was presented to the board from citizens of the area, asking that the beer license be refused. Twenty-three of the signers also appeared before the board to personally enter their remonstrances. The petitioners were represented by Walter W. Dawson. Dawson pointed out the beer parlor would be within two tenths of a mile from a church and that there were other beer parlors within the area that could adequately take care of people's needs.

Following the hearing the board passed a motion denying the issuance of the permit.

Two Others Granted

Two other beer license applications were approved. One was to Earl C. Speicher, Grantsville, who is taking over the business formerly operated by Ethel Miller. The other was to Earl W. Giles, Finzel, who is taking over the business formerly operated by Orval Butler.

Bill To Increase Fire Departments' Levies Is Killed

The legislation which would have provided a schedule of payments to be made by the County Commissioners to the several volunteer fire departments of the county died in the Senate, it was learned this week.

Originally the bill called for payments annually of $2,800 each to Oakland and Grantsville, $2,000 each to Deer Park, Accident, Friendsville, Kitzmiller and Gorman, and $1,500 to Bloomington, amounting to $17,100.

This was amended by Senator Clifford Friend in the Senate making the payments $2,000 to Oakland, $1,500 each to Grantsville, Deer Park, Accident, Friendsville and Kitzmiller, and $1,000 each to Gorman and Bloomington, or a total of $11,500. The House of Delegates did not concur in this amendment and thus the bill died in the Senate.

At present the departments receive $8,700, divided as follows: Oakland, $1,500; Friendsville, Deer Park, Grantsville and Kitzmiller, $1,200 each; Gorman, Accident and Bloomington, $800 each.

The separate bill for the Accident department raised that one to $1,200 for next year.

Is Your Name Calhoun

Do you know that

Calhoun an old and honored surname, is principally of Scottish origin. It is an abbreviated form of Colquhoun which is obtained from the Gaelic "colquhoun" meaning "brave or furious in battle." There is a tradition that the younger son of Conach, an Irish king, came to Scotland where he obtained a grant of land in Dumbartshire from the king of Scotland and named his new possession "Conachon." The latter was transformed in many instances to Colquhoun which, in turn, has been shortened to Calhoun.

David Calhoun (1736-1805) and George Calhoun (1754-1835) were lieutenants respectively in the Connecticut and Pennsylvania troops during the Revolutionary War.

The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has listings of James, Moses and William Calhoun who were residents of Maryland and heads of families at that time. The latter lived in Harford county and the other two in Baltimore county.

The journal of William Calhoun, one of four brothers who settled in Abbeville, South Carolina in 1856, is found in Volume 8 of the Publications of the Southern Historical association. It contains a varied assortment of accounts, records and notes and is of value to those making genealogical studies of the Calhoun and associated families.

John Caldwell Calhoun (1782-1850 was U. S. senator from South Carolina, Secretary of War, Secretary of State and Vice-President of the United States. He was a son of Patrick Calhoun, who was a member of the South Carolina legislature for a number of years, and a grandson of James Calhoun who came to Pennsylvania in 1733 and moved shortly thereafter to Virginia.

William James Calhoun (1818-1916) was a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission and U. S. Ambassador to China.

Abner Wellborn Calhoun (1871-1916) earned international recognition as a surgeon and specialist in diseases of the eye, ear and throat.

Frederick Earl Calhoun is brigadier general, U. S. Air Force.

Robert L. Calhoun is professor of theology at Yale University.

David R. Calhoun, Jr. is president, St. Louis Union Trust company, St. Louis, Mo.

Trout Carryover

In order to evaluate the existing open season for trout fishing in Maryland, which is from April 15 to September 15, the carryover of stocked hatchery trout from one fishing season to the next was studied by fishery biologists of the Game and Inland Fish Commission, who used electrofishing gear in Big Hunting Creek, Frederick county.

During 1956, the 4.5 miles of stream open to anglers was stocked with 11,529 trout at the rate of 2,562 fish per mile. The March 13, 1957 survey revealed a population of approximately 147 trout per mile and an estimated total of 662 trout in the fishing area. The population sampled on March 13, 1957 was six percent of the population stocked during spring of 1956.

The remaining legal size trout population was composed of 15 browns for every two rainbow trout. No legal size brook trout were recovered.

Creel census in 1956 showed that 41 percent of the brook trout stocked before April 15, 1956 were kept by anglers on opening day. This high creel of brook trout is desirable since there is no significant carryover of this species from one fishing season to the next. The aim of the Conservation is to see that as many hatchery reared trout as possible reach each angler's creel on an equitable basis of numbers and distribution in water which will support trout and is accessible to fishing license holders.

The harvest of hatchery trout from Maryland waters is considered good because there are highly concentrated stocked areas and fishing pressure at these locations removes a sizable proportion of the fish paid for by anglers' fees. To further increase the angler's sport and to give the fisherman more trout in the creel for his license fee the fishery research staff suggests extending the present open season. This recommendation is made because the survival of hatchery trout during late autumn, winter and early spring has been found very poor. The opportunity to creel these trout should be afforded the angler before mortalities remove them. A closed season from March 15 to April 15 for the purpose of stocking streams and permitting all anglers an equal opportunity on opening day is suggested.

ROADMASTER 75
Custom Built by Buick
NOW ON DISPLAY

A NEW CONCEPT in motorcar excellence awaits your inspection in the ROADMASTER 75 just introduced.

You will see what we mean the first time you glimpse the interior.

The impeccable tailoring and taste of the rich appointments are as obvious as the comfort is opulent.

The seats, for example.

They are meticulously fashioned in glove-finished fabrics of broadcloth or Nylon, with backs topped in supple, hand-buffed leather. They are thickly layered with contoured foam rubber. They are wide, deep, superbly soft.

The doors present a new standard of luxury and restfulness—fully upholstered and softly cushioned from floor line to window.

The instrument panel, below the safety cushion, is chromed from end to end. The deep-pile carpeting is backed by foam. The integral armrests are fully in keeping with the spacious grace of the car.

The complete interior is matched by the mechanical excellence that is ROADMASTER tradition.

Indeed, nowhere else among the world's fine cars can you enjoy superb performance quite like that of a ROADMASTER 75—from the instant response of its brilliant new Dynaflow, to the smooth obedience of its all-new air-cooled aluminum front brakes—newest and the finest in the fine-car field.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

They Waot Action

It is certainly, as Mr. Stewart Alsop says, sheer nonsense, at this point anyway, to talk of a real revolt of the conservative Republicans in Congress against the Eisenhower Administration's "modern Republicanism." Yet, it is undoubtedly true that there is a good deal of grumbling and muttering in and out of Congress against the President.

This, of course, was to be expected from his recent opponent, Mr. Stevenson, who, curiously enough, had gotten himself into a frame of mind toward the end of the campaign in which he really believed he was going to win last November. This was largely due to the greasy flattery with which his egg-headed friends such as Mr. Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., Chairman Paul Butler and various potent political altar boys among our more conspicuous publicists kept him anointed. He was much more sure of success than in 1952 and so were his friends, some of whom visualized themselves in cabinet posts or as ambassadors. This accounts for the deep resentment of such lightweight aides as Senator Hubert Humphrey, of Minnesota, and the garrulous turncoat, Morse, of Oregon. It also accounts for the bitterness noted in Mr. Stevenson's most recent speech at a notable dinner in Washington.

* * *

None of this is very high-minded but it is perfectly normal and natural. Probably the Republicans would be behaving the same way had the election gone against them. Everybody can understand that. What is not easy to understand is why so many people who voted for the President twice, who laughed off his heart attack and his operation, who saw through the silly Democratic propaganda, who took Mr. Nixon because he said he was all right, who were glad when the President found time to play a little golf, who were with him all the time and all the way through—why these should now be disturbed and uneasy.

True, the old anti-Ike propaganda still keeps up but they never let that bother them before. Nevertheless, now, they are a little perturbed. They are "Ike's" friends but they want to "do something." They seem to have no idea what they want him to do or how. One such in a group the other day was asked "Would you rather have someone else for President?" "Oh, hell, no," was the emphatic response. "Is there anyone you think would be better as Secretary of State than Dulles?" "No. I think he's doing all right and I would rather have him and Ike running things than anyone else running them." "Well then," asked the questioner, "What is the matter with you, anyhow, just why are you bellyaching?"

Then it all came out. "Well," he said, "I think he is spending a lot too much money. I think this budget is outrageously big. I know he and Secretary Humphrey both say it is too big and should be cut. But, why don't they pitch in and do it? I know Ike and Dulles know much more about Israel and the Suez Canal and this tough boy Nasser than anyone else and I believe they are doing all that can be done. But about this budget, I don't think they are doing right. They have sent in a budget of over $71 billion—the highest of all peacetime budgets. Harry Byrd and Mr. Herbert Hoover say that it can be cut from 5 to 8 billion dollars. They say that a cut like this will greatly lessen the inflation danger and steady our economy. It also will make it possible to lower taxes next year. And, everybody knows taxes are too darned high. I saw the other day that Senator Byrd said that he hoped to make at least a $5 billion cut but that it would be very hard to do without more cooperation from the President. My idea is that Ike and Byrd and Herbert Hoover ought to get together and do this one job well. They all know Congress can't or won't do it alone. I know and you know that if the President puts his shoulder to the wheel along with Herbert Hoover and Harry Byrd it could be done—and I would feel a lot better."

* * *

There it is—straight from the shoulder. This is a typical conversation. It does not reflect a loss of confidence in the President. They would back him again as before. But, they very acutely want the budget cut, and two men in whom they have confidence—Herbert Hoover and Harry Byrd—after years of study and experience have told them again and again that this Government is spending far too much and taxes are far too high. And the President, in whom their confidence is still high, has also told them that—and all of them have said the necessary cut could be made without impairing any vital Government function or or weakening our defense. Under such circumstances one can understand why they want action—and want it from Ike.

Control of Black Knot Of Plums Is Given

Black knot is a serious disease of plum trees. Small twigs are frequently killed within a year and larger branches in three or four years.

Home owners and orchardists with plum trees should examine the trees for black knot during the dormant season and prune all knots from the trees. This suggestion comes from County Agent John Carter. Black knot will also be found on cultivated and wild cherries.

The disease is first seen as a small swelling. Infection occurs early in the spring on the tender one-year old wood. In the following year, the knots become larger in size. By fall they are black in color.

The large knots also spread and become larger until the branch is girdled. Spores are also produced from the knots and these cause infection late in April on the new growth.

Here are Mr. Carter's control recommendations:

Remove all knots from the trees before growth starts in the spring. Cuts should be made at least 4 inches below the base of the visible swelling.

Burn or bury knots. If they are allowed to remain on the ground spores may spread to nearby trees.

Cut out knots that have developed in large limbs.

Spray with bordeaux mixture at the green tip or delayed dormant stage to prevent new infections. Bordeaux 6-6-100 should be used.

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

Peter F. Hurst, president of Aeroquip Corporation, Jackson, Michigan, recently returned from a visit inside Russia. He reports his observations in his company's employees' magazine, The Flying A. Facts in his report should be brought to the attention of every employee in America. Communism, as well as Socialism, claims to be "The Workers' Party." It directs most of its propaganda in America toward the wage earners, trying to undermine their confidence in the American system, describing Russia as "The Workers' Paradise" and boasting that under the Socialist-Communist system the wage earners live better and are their own "bosses." Mr. Hurst, a keen observer, didn't find it so.

He visited a number of factories in Russia, escorted by guides from Intourist, the Russian travel agency operated by the government. "I presume they showed us the best," he observes. And yet, in most cases, what he saw was production machinery, industrial techniques and working conditions far inferior to America's. And the Russian factory, he reports, "gives the impression of what we used to call a 'sweat shop'." He talked to the factory "director" in many plants, probing into the questions of wages, employee advancement, etc.

Although he could see on all sides evidence of the shabby living standards of employees working in this Socialist-Communist "paradise," Mr. Hurst's careful studies on the scene in Russia permitted him to document their true plight. "Let us analyze the situation," he suggests in his report. "An average 'well paid' factory worker gets about 800 rubles a month for working six days a week . . . or about 198 hours each month.

"Income taxes and union dues take about 10 per cent. The worker subscribes 'voluntarily' to some government bonds equal to about 8 per cent of his pay . . . He has left about 650 rubles to spend. At the 'official' rate of exchange that is about 162 U. S. dollars. Now, let us see what he can buy with this amount.

"A pair of poor quality men's shoes . . . 400 rubles or $100.

"One pair of poor quality women's shoes . . . 250 rubles or $62.

"Or he could buy one bicycle for 650 rubles, his monthly 'take home' pay."

"Men's suits . . . 1000 to 1500 rubles or $250 to $375.

"One yard of rayon material (for dresses) 35 rubles or $8.75.

"Twin bed bedroom suite . . . 9000 rubles or $2475.

"Obviously," Mr. Hurst notes, "a worker hasn't anything left after paying for shelter, food and clothes for himself and his family, and only a bare subsistence level. Actually, the working people—and that includes agricultural workers, since there are no true farmers in Soviet Russia—are being exploited in a shameful manner, which is obvious to anyone from outside the Communist world."

Prescription Given For Better Lawns

If your lawn looks a little sick, here's a prescription for greener grass: lime, fertilize, roll, reseed, and control weeds.

That's the advice of lawn experts from the University of Maryland.

The principle causes of ailing lawns are poor soils, poor quality seed, too little lime and fertilizer, and too much trampling.

Home owners frequently add to these troubles by too much of the wrong kind of care, namely, cutting the grass too often or giving the lawn frequent light sprinklings of water in dry seasons. These help the weeds more than grass.

Right now, early in the season, is a good time to remedy some of these troubles.

First on the agenda is building up the soil. Soil tests are the best guide to lime and fertilizer requirements, but since most lawns are deficient, maintenance applications are usually a safe bet. Fifty pounds of ground limestone, or its equivalent, applied per 1,000 square feet every four or five years will keep up good lawns. More is needed if soil is very acid. Between 10 and 20 pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer per 1,000 square feet, applied evenly in March or April will stimulate growth.

Rolling will help to smooth out rough spots. Roll when the soil is slightly moist, and when the ground is not likely to be frozen again.

Reseeding bare spots is usually best done in the early fall, but spring seeding will work, too. For uniform lawns, it's probably best to reseed with the same kind of grass seed originally planted. Kentucky bluegrass is a favorite, but it must be seeded before April 1. For later seeding, try ryegrass.

Many common lawn weeds can be controlled with 2,4-D, but be careful around ornamental plants.

Further details on good lawn care can be secured from county agents, or in the free publication, fact sheet 81, "Maryland Lawn Culture," available from the Bulletin Room, University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Sen. John Marshall Butler

A New Dimension For Foreign Aid

Aid to foreign nations, a temporary measure in 1945, seems to have acquired a permanent set in 1957. In the past 11 years, our allies, friends, quasi-friends and would-be friends have been the recipients of nearly $60 billion in U. S. assistance funds. And the end is not in sight according to the President's Citizen Advisers on the Mutual Security Program—the Fairless Committee—whose report was released last week.

Whereas foreign aid was begun on a provisional basis in a humanitarian desire to accelerate the economic rehabilitation of Europe, following World War II, it has now been expanded to include Asia, the Near East, the Middle East, and Latin America. The Fairless Committee concludes that these programs have been necessary and sound, and that they must be continued for an indefinite period. It warns that collective security costs are not temporary and that there can be no relaxation. Threaded through the Committee's report is the thought that "mutual or collective security" must be extended to the four corners of the globe, "so long as the Soviet bloc continues to seek the destruction of the free world."

In this single sense, those dedicated to the proposition of liberty and freedom for all will find nothing with which to quibble. But, what of the other side of the coin? Is there not a limit of our financial capacity to continue these benevolences ad infinitum? Quite obviously, the answer is "yes." Basic in the communist creed is the assertion that Soviet Russia will compel the United States to spend itself into bankruptcy. The present levels of our Federal budget and national debt offer little comfort in rebuffing this dictum.

The conclusions of the Fairless Committee, I fear, will not still the increasing skepticism of the American public with regard to foreign assistance. Unquestionably, the Committee's recommendation for administrative savings; against the channeling of aid through the United Nations; and for the encouragement of private investment abroad will be popularly received. But, among others, the recommendations for additional expenditures and for a review by the Congress every two years rather than annually will not be widely applauded.

In the name of national solvency and fiscal stability, if for no other reason, these programs must be diminished. The patience and generosity of the American taxpayer is not limitless. I, for one, will vote for a substantial reduction in our foreign aid appropriations.

Number of U. S. farms is decreasing but they are getting bigger.

TESTING THE 17-MILE Grade. In his address at the great B O Railroad celebration in Wheeling in January, 1853, the president of the company, Thomas Swann, said:

The next most interesting epoch in history of this road, was the working of the high grade of 116 feet ——This road was opened to Piedmont in 1851, when it was thought expedient to test this great problem——We left Baltimore with a large company of our municipal authorities, and the leading dignitaries of our city. Both the chief engineer and myself thought it advisable, if we were doomed to fail in this last effort, that it should be in good company. The train having reached the foot of the heavy grade, it was agreed that the chief engineer should take his stand upon the engine, where, in the event of discomfiture, he might conceal his shame in the smoke in which he would soon be enveloped. I, on the other hand, who was most likely to be held responsible from the position which I occupied, deemed it convenient to take my stand at an open door of the car, with the view to a more ready access to the woods.

THE ALTAMONT CUT on the railroad is 2626 feet above tide water at Baltimore and the Cranberry Summit elevation is 2550 feet.

Between these two points the country is generally level, and consists of what are called GLADES, or natural meadows, which are extremely beautiful to behold. —— Their verdure is peculiarly bright and fresh, and the streams watering them are of singular clearness and purity, and abound in splendid trout, which nowhere else attain the flavor peculiar to it in the mountain brooks. The climate of the elevated region is too cold, and the summer too short, for raising corn, while the land is generally too wet for wheat. Oats, rye, hay and potatoes are the principal crops, but the main business is grazing, there being scarcely a limit to the extent of the pasturage.

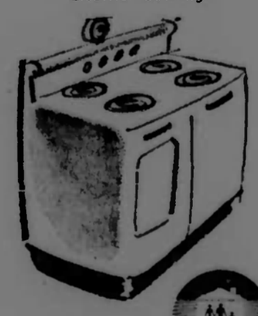
For a STAY-CLEAN KITCHEN
nothing measures up to Electric Cooking

Soap just doesn't work as hard as it used to — and neither will you — when there's a modern electric range in your kitchen.

Clean, gentle electric heat is kind to your pots and pans, keeps them looking clean and new. Then, there's no soot to form on walls, ceilings, cabinets and curtains — your whole kitchen is always bright and cheerful.

Remember — For A Stay-Clean Kitchen, Nothing measures Up to Electric Cooking.



See the new electric ranges at your dealer's . . . and ask him about the free wiring plan that's available for normal installations. Also, ask him how quickly All-Electric Living can come to your home if you install an approved electric water heater, and go on the new residential water heating rate . . . the lowest rate ever offered in this area.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

There's a rather grisesome story about a murderer who admitted killing a man for three dollars.

Asked to explain his action to a judge, the man shrugged his shoulders and replied: "You know how it is, your honor; three bucks here and three bucks there, they all add up!"

I was reminded of that incident the other day when the promoters of a plan to put an unnecessary airport in northern Virginia finally began publicizing their financial motivations.

Danger Ignored

According to these persons, a major argument in favor of building such a facility as a second airport for Washington is that it might eventually bring the Virginia area an annual payroll increase of $33 million.

They ignore the fact that construction of the airfield would take three to five years, and that it has already been a year and a half since a Senate committee reported that the need for action to relieve the "seriously overcrowded" condition of Washington National Airport was "immediate and urgent."

And they seemingly ignore the question of whether the lives of today's air travellers should be risked while certain interests dream of the pot of gold they expect the Virginia airport to provide.

After all, they appear to be saying, "33 million bucks here and 33 million bucks there, they all add up, and perhaps the good luck of the patrons of National Airport will stretch for several more years."

Outlying Locations Suggested

I, for one, refuse to participate in such a gamble.

And I will continue to insist that Friendship International Airport be used as soon as possible as a co-terminal for the Capital.

It is interesting to note that when the safety gamblers were boosting Burke, Va., as a good site for a new airport, they made much of the fact that it was 15 minutes closer to downtown Washington than Friendship.

Now, proclaiming that they might lose all chances for the annual $33 million if they don't do something—anything—they are indiscriminately offering several other locations, all of which are farther away than Burke.

Economy A Factor

It would be completely false, of course, to suggest that those of us who are interested in Friendship are unaware of the financial gains which additional usage would provide.

We can say, however, that the urgency of the current situation supersedes such monetary considerations, and that Friendship provides the only immediate answer to our problem.

Furthermore, with the national accent on economy, I think it would be completely irresponsible if we by-passed a chance to use Friendship without cost to the Federal Government in favor of a project like the Burke plan, in which the initial expenditure alone would be more than $35 million.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

Weather Or No

We just can't help talking about the weather and it has been going on for centuries.

I was very much surprised while studying my Sunday School lesson a few weeks ago to find Jesus quoting a weather prediction that we have all heard. "When it is evening you say, 'It will be fair weather for the sky is red' and in the morning, 'It will be stormy today for the sky is red'."

Now we hear it, "Red in the morning, sailors' warning; red at night, sailors' delight."

Many an old timer can quote a lot of sayings and believe every word of them.

Even red and morning gray
Sets the traveller on his way.
Evening gray and morning red
Brings down rain upon your head.

Rain before seven, clear before eleven.

When the dew is on the grass,
Rain will never come to pass.

When grass is dry at morning's light,
Look for rain before the night.

When the stars begin to huddle
The earth will soon become a puddle.

A red sky has water in his eye.
Sound traveling far and wide
A stormy day will betide

I suppose that ten year old who has just won $128,000 on TV would be able to give a long, complicated, scientific answer to every one of these sayings. Though we may not know the WHY, we know there's truth in it.

Just as there is truth in my saying, at which all my family makes fun—"When the planes go over—your clothes will dry on the line."

Daylight Saving Is Old Too

Daylight saving time is like our weather predictions—it goes way back, too, started by an old Indian, out in Arizona. He cut off one foot of one end of his blanket and sewed it on the other end, to make it longer.

But he wasn't very modern or he'd have cut it off the top when his feet were cold, and have taken it off at the bottom when it wouldn't cover his shoulders—back and forth, back and forth—that's us moderns. Confusion with frustration.

The Happy Man

If you observe a really happy man you will find him building a boat, writing a symphony, educating his son, growing double dahlias in his garden, or looking for dinosaur eggs in the Gobi desert. He will not be searching for happiness as though it were a collar button that has rolled under the radiator. He will not be striving for it as if it were a goal in itself, nor will he be seeking for it among the nebulous wastes of metaphysics.

To find happiness we must seek for it in a focus outside ourselves.

Quoted from "One Thousand Beautiful Things," by W. Beran Wolfe.

—o—

The Happy Woman

The happy woman is one who has completed her spring sewing, and all her special cleaning by Easter. Then she is ready to work outside, the month of May, and by June, she's finished her work. She's the one who says, "Oh, I just can't work when summer comes. I've got to get it done before hot weather." I know only a few, but by the middle of summer they can hardly wait to get their fall work done.

Spring Is In The Air

Buds are swelling, some bit of green is showing on the Japonica, lawns and meadows are brightening, men selling shrubbery from the woods with high sounding names but actually are little laurel, pine and hemlock.

The snow fences have been rolled, tractors carrying plows move along our country road. It's not only great to be alive, but it's great to be rural. If you're rural at heart you're an optimist. I have proof that we're both for we're ordering 40 hybrid cantaloupe seeds for seventy-five cents!

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

Like to hear a little story?

Once upon a time some golden apples grew upon silver trees in a lovely mountain.

Few knew about it until some wayfaring men chanced to pass by that way. Then the fame of the golden apples spread abroad.

But some moths made their home among the silver trees, and soon little worms began ruining the fruit.

Now the lovely mountain is Garrett county and its fine people are the silver trees.

But unless we get out the sprayer about election time, the little worms (the "argument people") are going to destroy those golden applies, i. e., the cultural and economic opportunities of Garrett county which the outside world is just beginning to discover.

Or will some say, "He speaks in parables."?

Yours very sincerely,
Ernest G. Gnegy

Gets Trophy For Production In Eggs

Mrs. Lloyd Kamp, Grantsville, has qualified for the Master Producer trophy for the high production of her poultry flock, according to the Awards Committee of the Hy-Line Poultry Management association. To qualify for this award, owners of poultry flocks must have a record of between 225 and 249 eggs per hen housed in 12 months or less. Mrs. Kamp's trophy is being awarded on the basis of her record of 247.5.

Mrs. Kamp is a cooperator in the Association's management record program. Members send their records each month to a hatchery. The hatchery computes and tabulates all records so submitted and each member gets back a report showing how his flock's performance compares with other flocks.

Jamestown, Va., will mark her 350th anniversary of founding in May this year.

Rats Delay Experiment

Rat Study Proves Productive

The Maryland Medical Research Laboratory has sent six white rats and two hamsters for experimental use in Southern High School.

The General Science and Biology classes are using these rats for nutritional experiments. The purpose of this research is to find out about vitamin deficiency. These experiments, which will last about six weeks each, have been held up because three of the white rats had young.

It is possible for the white rats to reproduce every twenty-three days, while it is possible for the hamsters to have young every sixteen days. One out of every four of the hamsters should be an albino with pink eyes.

The rats in Mr. Burley's classes had three young and those in Mr. Miller's room had twelve young. The hamsters had five small ones but ate them all. Sometimes if disturbed they do this to protect their young. More hamsters are expected to be born at the end of the month.

The teachers in charge of the projects are Mr. Charles Burley, Mr. Harold Miller and Mr. Edward Quattro.

Other inhabitants in the science rooms include three chameleons which came from North Carolina and two turtles. Mr. Miller's turtle is called Pinky and Mr. Burley's is called Elvis. The chameleons make very interesting pets.

Later on in the year the science classes are going outside to seek snakes and other interesting specimens.

Check Roses For Canker, Is Advised

While your rose bushes are still dormant, examine them for signs of canker.

Dr. L. O. Weaver, University of Maryland extension plant pathologist describes canker as a diseased area on a woody cane. On the rose, it is an area of dead tissue which may have girdled the cane to kill the whole branch.

If you should find cankers, prune the bushes to remove the weak or diseased area and burn the branches.

Dr. Weaver says the two most common canker diseases found on roses are brown canker and stem canker.

Brown canker is most severe on hybrid tea roses. Cankers may be found during the winter, especially on lower portions of canes that are moist. Small, black fruiting bodies and spores of the fungus develop in the cankered area.

Stem canker is present in almost every rose garden. The fungus enters through wounds — entering through pruning or insect wounds, or where branches have been broken.

The pathologist says the best way to control canker is to prune all infected parts as soon as they are found. Also, early applications of fungicides on the new growth are important control measures.

Avoid heavy mulches with wet leaves. When buying rose plants, examine the canes for cankers since the disease may be introduced into your rose garden on new plants.

Dr. Ralph Robinson Will Be Speaker At Evangelism Program

That Dr. Ralph C. Robinson, of Harrisburg, Pa., would be the "missioner" at the series of evangelism meetings scheduled for St. Mark's Lutheran church, Oakland, August 25 to 30, was announced this week by the Church Evangelism committee.

The committee met Monday night with the pastor, Rev. Charles W. Carlson, to continue with plans for the activities which are a part of the synod-wide program for this year.

Dr. Robinson, former Oakland resident, is presently secretary to the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America, and formerly was pastor of a Lutheran church at Spring Grove, Pa., for a number of years. He is a son of the late Dr. and Mrs. John G. Robinson, of Oakland.

Dr. Robinson will give a series of sermons at meetings Sunday through Friday, August 25 to 30, culminating in an area rally in the Southern High school gymnasium.

One of the important features of planning for this event is a complete church census of the area including Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn which will be done the latter part of May by some seventy-five or eighty members of the Lutheran church.

It was stressed by the Evangelism committee that this census would be an activity that would benefit all churches of the community. These workers will attempt to visit every home in the area to obtain information about their church activities, whether or not they are active, interested or indifferent, and what church they would prefer. Those people who signify church preferences other than Lutheran, will have their cards turned over to the particular denomination favored for follow-up purposes.

Later in the summer various committees will endeavor to interest people in attending the mission services and become active in some church of the community.

On the evangelism committee here are Ervin S. Smith, Mrs. Karl Kahl, Mrs. Earl S. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. George Hanst, William E. Sharps, Thomas D. Kight and John H. Forman, with the latter as the chairman. Forman is dividing the Oakland area into five sections and Mt. Lake-Loch Lynn area into three areas, for the purpose of the census in May. Two training meetings are to be held for the census workers.

Similar activities are going forward in the Bittinger, Accident, Red House and Aurora-Davis parishes.

SYMBOL

Legend has it that, long ago, the dogwood came into bloom on Calvary and that, afterwards, a cross was implanted into the flower itself, to remain for all time. You can see it if you look closely, rust brown against the white of each individual blossom.

Many of us carry crosses, faint like the dogwood's emblem but with us, nevertheless. Somehow, in this Lenten season, we become particularly conscious of them and of our need for help—a certain kind of help, that can be found only through the things we learn in Church.

The Church doesn't pretend to banish our cares and woes. But, its teachings realistically consider the experiences of life itself. No matter what our personal cross may be, we seem able to bear its burden with more strength.

Lent is a wonderful time in which to begin making church-going a regular part of your life—if you haven't already.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

He Took the Cup

Lesson for April 7, 1957

THE dark shadows of Gethsemane have never fully lifted. If even the closest friends of Jesus did not watch with him through that hour, we cannot at this great distance hope to penetrate where no light is. Some have found it hard to believe that Jesus actually knew distress. This is to deny Jesus' own words, "My soul is very sorrowful, even to death." Mark's report that he was "greatly distressed and troubled," and Luke's story of the sweat like drops of blood. It could hardly have been fear of death that disturbed him. Lesser men have met it without a tremor, and he himself had faced it more than once without fear. It was something deeper that broke up the fountains of his soul that night.

Dr. Foreman

Cup of Suffering

There are gleams in the darkness. Jesus refers to his experience as a "cup." He had been speaking of a cup but two hours before, in the upper room, the cup of his blood. Was it this cup he prayed might pass from him? We make a mistake when we think of this in merely physical terms. In many a hospital there are patients who have already suffered longer and more severely than Jesus could have, physically speaking, all of Good Friday. It was his soul that was troubled, not his nerves, in Gethsemane. The cup of suffering which he dreaded was more than scourging and nails. He was being rejected . . . rejected. Not a friend would stand by him. All his work would come to an end. He had sought for time but time was running out. He had come to his own, and his own people had not received him. He was God's last word to men, and men had no response but thorns and a cross. Other men have known rejection, but none have known it as he knew it, for not another man in history came to this earth to fall of heaven as he.

Cup of Sacrifice

The cup which he dreaded was also the cup of sacrifice. From earliest times, the Christian church has read the story of Gethsemane and Calvary in the light of the prophecy in Isaiah 53: "He was wounded for our transgressions; he was bruised for our iniquities." The weight of human sin lay darkly on his soul. It was not that in Gethsemane for the first time this had occurred to him. Long ago he had spoken of giving his life a ransom for many. The rejection of love is a sore thing to bear; but to feel the weight of the sins of the world is something of which we do not even dare to think. He had always identified himself with sinners and with sufferers; but now he was going the last mile appointed to the suffering and the sinning. All the pain and all the perverseness of mankind fell upon him, a smothering cloud which in a few hours would even hide the face of God.

"Not as I Will"

We must not accuse the Master of cowardice, not even of weakness. Horror there was indeed; but a strong man may be filled with horror without being any the less strong. Jesus did not turn to flee. Yet it is quite plain, and we must not pretend it was otherwise, that Jesus wished for some other cup than this. "Nevertheless," he said, "not as I will but as Thou wilt." We do not know what other occasions there may have been when Jesus knew that his own will was not as his Father's will. Yet if there had been other occasions his prayer must have been ever the same: Not as I will! Above all other desires, above even the desire to fulfill his own will—a desire all the stronger, the stronger the character is — was the overarching desire to do the Father's will. There were elements of Jesus' suffering in Gethsemane which set that night off from all other nights, and that strong sord apart from all other souls. And yet even in the mystery there is something for us to learn. If the masterwish of our life is that our own will be done, we shall come to frustration in the end. But if the overmastering wish is that our Father's will be done, then whatever our first desires may be, our highest prayer shall still be answered.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

The evolution through which a man's ambition passes was outlined for me recently as follows:

To be a circus clown.
To be like dad.
To be a fireman.
To make All-State.
To do something noble.
To get rich.
To make ends meet.
To get an adequate pension.

Having enjoyed the item myself, I decided to pass it along as a rather light introduction to a much more serious report on several bills which actually relate to making ends meet, adequate pensions, etc.

All of the measures I will mention were introduced during the past month under my sponsorship or co-sponsorship.

Budget Watchdogs

Budget Watchdog committee. Our bill to establish a Joint Committee on the Budget, which would scrutinize all programs and projects in the interests of increased efficiency and economy, has been reported favorably by the Senate Committee on Government Operations, and is now awaiting action by the full Senate.

Railroad Retirement Increases

The Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare is currently holding hearings on our bill to provide increased benefits under the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937, the Railroad Retirement Tax Act, and the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act.

Aid For Handicapped

Our bill to establish an independent Federal Agency for the Handicapped, as well as rehabilitation projects, placement programs and other services, has been referred to the Labor and Public Welfare Committee.

Loans to Farmers

The Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry is studying our bill to simplify, consolidate and improve the authority of the Secretary of Agriculture with respect to the making of loans to farmers and stockmen.

Around-the-clock Flag Display

Our bill to permit the flying of the flag of the United States for 24 hours of each day at Terra Rubra, the Carroll county birthplace of Francis Scott Key, and at Key's grave in Mount Olivet cemetery, Frederick, is before the Senate Committee on the Judiciary.

Mortgage Assistance

The Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, of which I am a member, has given a favorable report on our measure to authorize increased Federal assistance for certain home mortgages which are made under the National Housing Act. It will now be placed before the entire Senate.

Greek Orphan and Veterans

Our proposed legislation to authorize the admittance of 3,600 Greek war veterans and orphans under special visas which other nations failed to use is being examined by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Congressional Medals for Civilians

The Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare has received our proposal to establish nine awards, each to be known as a "Congressional Medal for Arts and Sciences," for distribution each year to citizens who have made outstanding contributions in the fields of chemistry, government, literature, medicine and physiology, music, peace, physics, the pictorial arts, and sculpture.

Notes from My Appointment Book

During the week, I had the honor of introducing Miss Ilona Gale Ely Maryland's Princess in the Cherry Blossom Festival to the Senate. I also was selected to serve as honorary chairman of the 1957 memorial banquet at which Ogden Reid, president and editor of the New York Herald Tribune, was presented the Eternal Light Award of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. In addition, I addressed the opening meeting of the newly formed Southern Maryland Improvement Council, and was a guest at a dinner of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

Silverton, Oregon
No. 4739 Equity, In the Circuit Court For Garrett County, Maryland

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce A Vinculo Matrimonii of the complainant from the respondent.

The bill states:

That the complainant was married to the respondent, Elsie Ann Barello, in the Spring of 1950 at San Francisco, California, by a duly authorized Justice of the Peace; that there was one child born of this marriage, to wit: Jerry Barello, age six years, said child being in the custody of the respondent; that although the conduct of the complainant toward the respondent has always been that of a kind, faithful and affectionate husband, the said respondent abandoned and deserted the complainant in April, 1953, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly and without cohabitation for nearly four years, and is deliberate and final, and beyond any hope or expectation of a reconciliation; that the complainant has been a resident of Garrett County, Maryland, all of his life, although he is presently employed in Baltimore, Maryland, and that the respondent is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and does not reside therein, and was last known to the complainant to reside at the home of her parents at Star Route, Box 88, Silverton, Oregon.

The bill then prays for a divorce A Vinculo Matrimonii of the complainant from the respondent, for general relief and for an order of publication.

It is, thereupon, this 18th day of March, 1957, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, ordered that the complainant, by having a copy of this order inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 19th day of April, 1957, give notice to the said absent respondent of the object and substance of said bill of complaint, and warning her to be and appear in this Court, either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 4th day of May, 1957, and show cause, if any she has, why the prayers of said bill of complaint should not be granted unto the complainant.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

Feverish activity on the part of Congress in cutting the budget does not necessarily mean permanent economies are being instituted, but it does serve to point up the inadequacy of present congressional machinery for dealing with Federal spending. I am hopeful that the current economy wave will result in improved methods of handling money bills.

My own congressional group—the 83rd Club—is now working on a resolution which would establish a joint congressional committee on the budget. The committee would be provided with an adequate full-time staff and would be in year around session. One major difficulty now is that Congress tries in a few short weeks to review budget figures which the Bureau of the Budget has worked over for a year or more. Under the 83rd Club proposal, the Congress would have as much time as the Budget Bureau to study budgetary problems.

Defeat of the Patman Resolution authorizing a study of the nation's monetary and credit systems by a House Banking and Currency Subcommittee served to focus attention on the importance of a non-political and unbiased review of our monetary and banking structure. Real fear existed in Congress that the study if carried out by the Patman Subcommittee, might degenerate into a political witch hunt for villains and victims. The House in its action stated emphatically it did not want the study group to be just a sounding board for pet monetary ideas.

The House District Committee has reported favorably on my bill —"Simultaneous Death Act," which would make the District of Columbia's law the same as Maryland's on distribution of estates when deaths occur at the same time or at close intervals. A House District Subcommittee also approved a bill of mine to correct District law on the inheritance of real property. My bill would make real property follow the same line of descent as personal property and would repeal old laws dating back to the 13th century.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Setting the Budget Stage

In a controversy which promises to transcend political partisanship the "line of battle" is now forming.

Seemingly, in many instances, Republican will be pitted against Republican, Democrat against Democrat, and Democrat against Republican, in the close quarters of the forthcoming Congressional endeavor to reduce the national budget. Poised on opposing sides are the advocates of government economy and the champions of increased government spending. This "trial by battle" will indeed be spirited.

Probably for the first time in too many years, the forces of economy and the evils of free spending will be put to the test. In a climate created by a record breaking peacetime budget, public opinion, simmering through more than two decades of high taxation, has reached a fever pitch. Like most members of the Congress, I have received a heavy volume of mail protesting the mammoth proportions of the Federal budget, as well as the national debt, and demanding substantial and immediate savings in the operations of our government.

Opposing factions, within and without both parties, as they approach the line of battle, are faced with the realities—yes even the complexities—of a responsibility for world leadership which has been thrust upon us. Approximately 60 percent of the recommended $72 billion budget is allocated for national defense. The importance of national security will not be questioned by any thinking citizen, but an expected expenditure of some $43 billion for this essential protection intensifies the absolute necessity of removing all wasteful and excessive spending.

Where and how to begin? Senator Byrd of Virginia, a recognized expert in fiscal matters, contends that $1.5 billion can be eliminated, with safety, from appropriations requested for national defense. He further concludes that foreign aid and international programs can be shaved by $2 billion and that $3 billion can be pared from domestic-civilian activties. Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, also affirms that the budget can be reduced by some $3.3 billion without jeopardy to our national security or economy.

This "trial by battle" will determine whether an orderly retrenchment or a successive spending spree is to be our policy for the future. With a Nation, for all practical purposes, mortgaged to the hilt, the answer should be clear to all an orderly retrenchment in spending. It is this fundamental principle of government which I shall continue to support with all vigor at my command.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and helpfulness during the long illness and following the death of our father and brother, the late Floyd Wilson Green.

Tough Problem . . .

We did not envy Judge Fraley's predicament this week. It was his responsibility to pass sentence upon two juveniles who were apprehended last week as they were about to make a get-away with merchandise valued at more than $1,100 from a local store. There certainly was a definite responsibility to society, to parents, and to the individuals directly concerned. The entire problem of what to do with juveniles who violate the proper rules of society, is a tough one.

We all wonder what is the correct answer. Sunday School and church participation is certainly the answer in many cases. Or it may be a series of lectures interspersed in the high school curriculum on the junior high level. It is plain that these things happen in spite of parental care. They happen regardless of the fact that these youths are presumably engaged in worthwhile activities such as Little League, Pony League, Junior High basketball, Teen-Age club, Boy Scouts and all the rest. So just the fact that parents take an interest in keeping children occupied in worthwhile programs isn't always the answer.

It should make us keenly aware at all times that the directors and sponsors of supervised recreation and programs should be of the finest moral character. They should be examples that young boys will want to follow. The Little League, for instance, would have no lasting effect on youngsters if the adults who are running the league do not portray the highest type of sportsmanship themselves. The same holds true in Scouting, high school athletics, or any other youth activity.

In general, we ought to feel fortunate in our own community. In talking to people from other areas, especially in cities, we get the general idea that we don't know how well off we are. The troubles youngsters get into in this community appear mighty small compared to other sections of the state or nation.

But that doesn't give us the right to be complacent about the situation. In spite of what is attempted here, some children just can't seem to abide by the rules, and as a result they are going to be properly disciplined. We realize it is hard on parents. But if these youth continue to go unpunished for actions that reach serious proportions, we are unfair to the children themselves eventually, and to society in general right now. Let these other youth who have similar tendencies learn a good lesson from this occasion in addition to the two who will have plenty of time to ponder over their folly.

Red Cross Is Asked To Extend Campaign

A request that the Red Cross campaign for funds be extended because of the fact that national funds are at an all-time low, due to many disasters, was received this week by Mrs. E. Z. Tower, county chairman, from General Walter Gruenther, president of the American Red Cross.

Apparently campaigns all over the country are lagging and additional effort will be made in endeavor to obtain the desired quotas.

In this county, with a goal of $4,200, Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, of Accident, roll call chairman, said that approximately $1,600 had been received to date. Mrs. Glotfelty said she was asking each community chairman to make plans for some activity in which communities may participate following the Easter holidays. They are also being urged to make doubly sure that their entire territory has been covered before turning in final figures.

Last year the total amount raised was $2,700, which also fell short of the goal.

A breakdown of the Red Cross dollar shows the following distribution. Disaster relief, 9 cents; home nursing, 4 cents; fund drive, 3 cents; first aid, 2 cents; telephone, postage and telegrams, 16 cents; civilian and veteran services, 31 cents; whole blood program, 35 cents.

Band To Sell Flowers

Members of the Mt. City Band again will have their Easter flower sale, it was announced this week. Potted plants will be on sale at the Harman Shoe shop, next door to DeWitt and DeBerry, Alder street, Oakland, on Friday and Saturday, April 19 and 20.

Robert Rudy, Jr., president, said a large selection of potted plants would be on display.

Corporal Conrad Is Next Lions Speaker

Corporal Sam Conrad, of the Maryland State police, will speak on police work and the recruiting program now underway in Maryland, at the next meeting of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club on Monday evening, April 22.

Lions club officials have made plans for several other affairs.

The annual athletic banquet will be held at Southern High cafeteria on May 13, at which time athletes of the school will be honored. The speaker will be Paul Fulks, of Weston, W. Va.

The annual Ladies Night will be held May 27. Feature attraction will be Peter Lukas, impressario of the piano, playing a variety from Bach to "boogie." Charles L. Briner will sing, accompanied by Mr. Lukas.

Marvin Jones, program chairman, appointed the following committees: Dinners, Emile Germain; staging, Delbert Gnegy; decorations, Donald M. Browning; tickets, S. R. Pagenhardt; gifts for ladies, Charles Briner and Howard Naylor. Cost for the Ladies Night will be $1 for the dinner and $2 for the dance.

At Monday's meeting Merritt Feather gave a complete report on the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Kenneth Johns showed slides of the recent variety show. Full reports of this show are to be available within the next two weeks.

Meeting Friday Night To Plan For Little League

A meeting will be held this Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Oakland fire hall, for all persons interested in Little League baseball, it was announced by William H. Spiker, president.

Plans for the coming baseball season are to be completed Spiker stressed the need for all interested persons to attend.

Curriculum Needs For County Aired

School supervisors and administrative staff met with Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, at the Kitzmiller Community school on Wednesday. Special guests were members of the school board and fifteen teachers.

The dinner was served by the Kitzmiller P.-T. A.

Curriculum needs for the county as seen by teachers and principals were discussed by Edwin Elias, elementary supervisor; and A. B. Dean, principal of Grantsville Elementary. One more case of petty thievery was uncovered here last Friday. A juvenile was caught stealing merchandise from the F. A. Smouse store S. R. Pagenhardt, states attorney, said he would be tried before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley, sitting as a juvenile judge, within a few days.

Hospital Week To Be Emphasized At Local Hospital

As steps were being taken locally to observe National Hospital week, May 12 to 18, it was learned that during 1956 the Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland admitted 2,237 patients, an average of 31.6 per day. The local hospital has a capacity of 54 beds and 24 bassinets. The hospital is run most economically when there are 42 patients or more per day.

During the year there were 410 births occurred in the hospital, and there were 1,702 out-patients. The hospital dining room served 61,153 meals.

During the year also, 225 major operations and 420 minor operations were performed.

Henry W. McComas, administrator, said that career opportunities for young people in the hospital field where a personnel shortage exisits today, would be emphasized during National Hospital week. He said the total hospital personnel in the nation had increased 57 percent in the past ten years, while the number of hospital beds rose only 12 percent.

The local hospital will join with others through the United States and Canada in observing the week by attempting to interest people of the community in hospital careers. The theme will be "Careers that Count."

A wide variety of positions in addition to nursing are open to young people today, with 200 job classifications existing in larger hospitals. The local hospital has employes in 9 classifications.

The local medical staff also is urging interest in hospital careers.

Six Persons Apply For Assessorship

Six persons had made application in writing for the position of County Assessor this week, it was learned yesterday at the office of the County Commissioners. Applications are for the position made vacant by the death of John H. Stevenson.

The applicants were Arthur Calhoun, Paul W. Fisher, G. Harold Yutzy, Rolland G. Schoch, John L. Fitzwater, Jr., and R. T. Brohawn. It was understood that others also were interested.

The salary involved is $3,500, half of which is paid by the State Tax commission. A bill which passed the legislature but which has not yet been signed by the governor would increase that salary to $5,000, while also increasing the salary of the Supervisor of Assessments to $6,000. Under the recent legislation sixty percent of the salary would be borne by the State Tax commission.

It was probable that the applicants would be interviewed in the office of the State Tax commission and a test given to each applicant, after which the commission would indicate those who qualify to the County Commissioners. The Commissioners would be responsible for the appointment.

New Facilities For Swan Meadow School Planned for 1958

New facilities for the Swan Meadow school, near Gortner, are to be made available during the year 1958, it was announced Tuesday by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools. Mr. Hawkins made the announcement to the Board of Education in regular session at the Court House.

Mr. Hawkins said this would be a matter largely between members of the Board of County Commissioners and the Swan Meadow patrons who would build the building. Construction is to be done during 1958. He said legal aspects of such procedure would be cleared with the State Department of Education as speedily as possible.

Among other business disposed of by the board were the following:

Accepted resignation of Ralph Swauger, mathematics instructor at Northern High school, effective April 1, and approved appointment of Mrs. Jean T. Grose, of Cranesville, a graduate of Penn State university, to replace him.

Authorized the superintendent to send a telegram to the Governor, urging his support of the recent teacher salary legislation.

Mr. Hawkins reported that while not many resignations had been received from teachers, neither had the usual number of applications for positions been received. He said the number of applications for teaching positions was lower than the number received up to this time last year. He said he felt some improvement in teacher salaries was necessary if schools were to be staffed with competent teachers in the fall.

The Board also:

Approved contracts for paint, tile flooring, underlayment board and other supplies needed for summer repair and renovation work, all contracts awarded to low bidder.

Announced a county-wide teacher meeting Wednesday, May 1, at Southern High school, 2 to 4:30 p. m., with schools closing that day at 1 p. m.;

Approved Vernon Yoder as substitute bus driver for John Horchler and approved Mrs. Gertrude Y. Yoder as substitute driver one day each week;

Authorized writing of letter to Dr. James E. Spitznas, patient at Sinai hospital in Baltimore, expressing wishes of the Board for a speedy recovery;

Made a report on the school tour and work with Mayor and Council on solving problem of sewage disposal for new Oakland Elementary school.

Mr. Hawkins said about 10 parents went on the school tour April 3 and appeared pleased with what they saw.

Following adjournment the board inspected Crellin and Center street schools, and approved plans for improvement of the Crellin building during the coming summer. The Center street annex will be abandoned for school purposes around the first of December. Board members expressed their pleasure at the county-wide [illegible] last Thursday.

Rotarians Plan For Indoor Circus

Members of the Oakland Rotary club are busy this week planning the third annual Indoor Circus, to be held at the Southern High school gymnasium on Friday evening, April 26.

The program will be presented by the Gymkana troupe of the University of Maryland. This troupe, founded at the University eleven years ago, with six members, has grown to its present size of 35. It has earned the nickname "Ambassadors of Good Will," resulting from the many trips the troupe has made to entertain schools, hospitals and members of the armed forces.

New acts have been added this year in performances at tumbling, club swinging, parallel bars, magic, trampoline, vaulting, the chair act and comedy sketches. The Southern High school band also will be an added attraction.

Heading the various committees are Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, advertising and production; Prentice DeBerry, ticket sales; John Getty, publicity; Earl Zepp, finance; Willard Hawkins, school attendance; William E. Hesen, concessions; Melvin Kight, ushers; Aza Stanton, lighting, staging and decorating; Merrill Cargo, club president, as executive.

All school children, both high and elementary, will be admitted for twenty-five cents. Tickets for adults will be $1.

As an advertising stunt many Rotarians are going to wear "straw hats" especially designed by Aza Stanton, to publicize the coming event and some of these hats will be distributed among the school children in the Oakland area.

Local Hospital Is Given Accreditation

The Garrett County Memorial hospital has been named to the 1957 list of accredited hospitals by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of hospitals, it was announced this week by Henry W. McComas, administrator.

Other hospitals in this area include Sacred Heart and Memorial hospitals in Cumberland; Washington county hospital, Hagerstown, Meyersdale Community hospital, and Hopemont Sanitarium. Others were listed for this area of Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Dr. Kenneth B. Babcock, commission director, said in the report there are approximately 6,000 hospitals eligible for accreditation and that the omission of a hospital from the list did not necessarily mean it had failed to pass an accreditation test. He said the program is a voluntary one and only those hospitals which request surveys and are visited and undergo a study of its facilities and patient care are eligible. Hospitals with fewer than 25 beds are not eligible to be accredited.

The commission is an agency established by five organizations in 1953 to inspect and survey hospitals in the United States and Canada. They were the American College of Physicians, American College of Surgeons, American Hospital association, American Medical association and the Canadian Medical association.

Two Youths Get Jail Sentence

Will Be Required To Spend Four Months In County Jail; Two Paroled

Four months sentences in the county jail were meted out to two juveniles yesterday morning by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley, while two others were placed on probation and charges against a fifth were dismissed.

The sentencing came at a trial in the juvenile court, after two juveniles had been caught robbing the R. and P. Firestone store on Third street in the town of Oakland on April 10. The thieves were in the process of carting away over $1,100 worth of merchandise when they were apprehended by Porter DeWitt, night policeman.

The day-long investigation following the robbery brought four other juveniles under observation, with the result that all but one were also placed before Judge Fraley yesterday. A sixth youth, who last week was listed as having been involved with the group, was not brought before the judge. It was understood that he was involved only to the extent of shooting at mail boxes and shooting out electric lights and was not connected with any of the thefts that had occurred in recent weeks.

In his remarks prior to sentencing the two youths to four months in the county jail Judge Fraley debated the wisdom of sending young boys 13 and 14 years of age to training schools where they rub shoulders with other youths of similar tendencies. He noted that sometimes these were the ones who become second offenders and eventually become habitual criminals.

He noted that by confining them to the county jail they would not be allowed to come into contact with other juveniles and would also be kept separate from any adult prisoners.

The two youths, who were represented by counsel, had admitted to numerous thefts from local stores and to several breaking and entering jobs. They admitted they had planned the R. and P. robbery for several weeks.

Counsel for the two pointed out how their actions had mushroomed over the past several months, after starting from pilfering a few peanuts in the Englander Pharmacy one evening. They pointed out that one thing seemed to lead to another and before long it was becoming a habit. They asked that the court give them another opportunity to abide by the laws and be placed under strict supervision, saying they felt they had learned their lesson.

In passing sentence Judge Fraley advised the sheriff to keep the two confined, that they were not to be given the run of the sheriff's office, but were to be kept in jail and that visits would be limited to parents and close relatives.

He said the juvenile court had wide powers and that it was going to be up to the attitude and behavior of the boys during the four-month period whether or not additional sentence might be imposed. "If they satisfy me that they have learned their lesson, there will be no further sentence," he declared, "but this they are going to have to do."

Judge Fraley then placed two other juveniles on probation for two years, under supervision of David Steel, parole officer. It was brought out that these two had served mostly as "lookouts" for

2. Irregular bleeding or discharge.
3. Persistent indigestion.
4. Unexplained changes in usual bowel movements.
5. Unexplained weight deviations.
6. Changes in the color or size of a mole.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

I was rather thrilled to receive my home paper this week and see a cartoon by Warren King. I was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. King in New York City this past week.

A friend and I were in New York so my friend's little girl could audition for the Ted Mack show. My friend is Mrs. Edgar Recker whose little daughter Sondra, age seven, is a rock 'n' roll singer. She sang in the Elks minstrel, Cumberland, and was at the Maple festival at Meyersdale. Since she passed her audition she will soon appear on Ted Mack's show.

Sondra's audition was arranged by French Sensabaugh brother of Mrs. King, formerly of Cumberland, is now an editor for Alfred Hitchcock Enterprises. Warren King is artist for Jay Gould Enterprises.

Hope all my friends will watch for little Sondra Recker. She has a lot of talent and should be seen within the next three weeks on TV.

MRS. FLOYD CUSTER

Dear Editor:

I agree with Mr. Bowser about the fact that Daylight Saving Time was voted on—and should stay out.

The majority of the people of Garrett county voted against D.S.T. yet two or three men got together and decided we are going to have it. The next move may be to sell whiskey. If they can do one, way not the other?

The editorial of two weeks ago states, 'People charge that Garrett countians drink wet but vote dry. It looks like they also desire daylight time but vote against it.' No, we do not desire it. It is being pushed off on us.

I don't know what to do about this situation. If someone who does know, will start something, I'm with that person and I know of several other people who say the samething.

Thank you.
HELEN MURPHY.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

Senator John L. McClellan, chairman of the United States Senate's "Select" Committee conducting the investigation into racket activities among officials of certain labor unions, feels that the committee and staff will be engaged at least a full year in hard and tedious work. "It is a job which none of us sought," he said as he sat for an interview in his office on Capitol Hill. "But it is a job which all of us feel must be carried on with dedication and whatever sacrifices are necessary."

That the sacrifices will be heavy already was apparent. Although it was a legislative off-day on Capitol Hill, Senator McClellan had spent six and a half hours in Committee work, including two hours with officials of the FBI—before most people had had their lunch. His afternoon was full, and a group of West Coast people were scheduled for a 5 p. m. appointment with the chairman and Robert F. Kennedy, Committee chief counsel. After that there would be a conferences with Kennedy and other staff people to set up plans for the public hearings on the next day.

Senator McClellan said: "I would like for you to tell your readers, Dr. Benson, that for the time being we simply cannot get around to investigating all the reports flowing into our office. However, as we complete the building of our Committee staff we will try to properly handle every tip, every report, every appeal that is being made upon us at the moment."

Several thousand communications regarding the rackets investigation have been received by Chairman McClellan. Each day's mail brings hundreds. Many of them are from labor union members registering vague or generalized complaints about the operation of their union. Some of the letters make specific and detailed charges. They are coming from states all over the country.

"Every American citizen has a stake in the work of this committee," Senator McClellan soberly said to me. "Some of the evidence we have suggests an unwholesome and dangerous situation in some areas. The very future of our freedom system could be jeopardized."

As I left the Senator's private office, Chief Counsel Kennedy and a group of Oregon people entered. On the desk of the receptionist in the outer office a new batch of telegrams had been opened. The one on top had come from a West Coast city heretofore not mentioned in the McClellan Committee hearings. The sender's name and address was signed. The telegram read: "GET OUT HERE AND INVESTIGATE DIRTY WORK IN LOCAL (NAME AND NUMBER GIVEN). ONE MAN BEATEN, I'M NEXT. FBI KNOWS."

The McClellan Committee seems determined to "get out there" on all such summonses, and to bring to the attention of the nation (and local authorities) any racket-ring conditions jeopardizing our freedom system. For that we should all be grateful.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

By the Skin of My Teeth

It was by the skin of my teeth that I was not skinned last week. One of those luring color advertisements came through the mail promoting a certain plant that would give 10,000 blooms in one season. There was nothing in the plant world that would equal it. The nice thing about this wonder flower was that three plants cost less than $4 and they bloom all summer, thrive in sun or shade, in good or poor soil.

Now that is a bargain, even an ungullible would agree.

By chance in looking through a catalogue of a company I receive each year I notice the same plant listed at 3 for $1.50.

It would be interesting to know how much money goes each year on such arrangements. A few years ago I fell for an ad in the Sunday paper where I could get 50 perennials for $2.89. A hunch of molded plants arrived and out of the lot I got one spindly baby's breath. I stuck in the ground five things that looked like dried stems and waited two years to watch the mystery. But there was no mystery —just sticks.

There was a guarantee so I could have returned the molded things that were probably picked up to begin with from the trash pile of some nursery—but I didn't —so I can blame only my gullible self.

The sad part of the story is that I don't recall the name of the company—only the state—so now I don't dare order anything from that state for fear it will be the same firm that fooled me.

Now I note that the Federal Trade commission has issued a complaint against six affiliated firms in two states for using descriptive schemes to sell nursery products. So now, if a man comes to my door and wants to landscape our lawn or sell shrubbery I'll not bite unless he lives in Garrett county. Even then I may not bite, for I've heard of one of our natives planting an evergreen and when the owner discarded the dead tree he found it to be an old Christmas tree, sawed off at the bottom.

Next to the reliable firm, the safest and most enjoyable is exchanging with neighbors. Then the garden becomes alive with personalities. It's like walking among friends. There are Delbert's and Esther's lilies, Mrs. Robinson's poppy, Donna's jonquils, Cheri's iris, Avis' phlox, Neil's daisies. Always a feeling of warmth which is just the opposite of the feeling I get when I look at that baby's breath.

The Sins of Omission

Every so often we have a Sunday School lesson that deals with sin, just plain old cussed ornery sin, and nothing makes me want to sink down in my coat collar as much as when we move to the sin of omission, failing to do good.

Then to try to unburden my conscience by telling my 8th graders how much harder it is, as one gets older, to keep from sinning. The sin of neglect. I confess how long it has been since I've gone to see a neighbor or how I failed to write a friend to tell her how much we enjoyed the bloom on the shrub she had given us—but I didn't and now it's too late.

But I wonder if our greatest sin of omission is that we fail to give praise and encouragement and interest to our youth, not through organization as much as through the back door; calling out to come lick the pan, or calling up to say, "I Was as proud of you as if you were my own," or "that was good going."

We scratch our heads when our youth get into trouble. We can pass the buck by blaming the parents while they in frustration, wonder what they have failed to do, and all the time it was nothing the parents have done but the neighborhood has given them the shoulder of indifference.

Think it's time to stop the preaching and go borrow Elizabeth and ask her to stroll with me to the pasture spring. This three, and any three-year-old loves to watch leaves float in a pool of water. Maybe she's never seen water trickle out of a hillside.

While we walk hand in hand I'll recite Robert Frost's poem:

"I'm going out to clean the pasture spring
I'll only stop to rake the leaves away
And watch the water clear, I may:
I shan't be gone long
You come too."

It just might be for the rest of her life she too might like pasture springs and some day she might take a child by the hand and say, "I shan't be gone long, you come, too."

Core Program at Southern Outlined In Student Article

GRAMMAR PROBLEM—Harland Carlson, Alice Madigan and Mrs. Daisy Beachy, 10th grade core teacher, tackle a problem in English grammar in one of their class periods.

This is the fourth in a series of articles about the various departments of Southern High school. Elizabeth Dilgard and Jane Duling in the following article tell about the core program.

Junior High Core

Core, a required subject of all students in the junior high school, consists of English, literature, geography, history, spelling, current events, and directed and recreational reading. Strong emphasis is also applied to written and oral expression of ideas.

The junior high program endeavors to establish relationships with areas of living by the study of problems which challenge the students to explore and use the skills of more than one subject. Teachers and students work together in planning and achieving goals. Guidance and counseling are also given at classroom level.

Many aids such as films, film strips and recordings are used in the teaching of core. Oral reports, graphs, maps, charts and drawings are also used in solving problems.

A typical core class may consist of a student reporting on a special problem on which research work has previously been done; writing a theme associated with the problem; an English exercise on sentence structure, paragraphing, or punctuation; a spelling assignment, and a period of time for recreational reading.

Each grade has one main unit which is broken down into smaller units.

The main title of the seventh grade unit is "Living together with our World Neighbors Across the Seas." Each student is taught to understand the life, customs, and problems of the people of other nations.

"Living together as a Nation" is the main theme topic of the eighth grade unit. This unit is taught to promote an interest in American democracy as a form of government and a way of life which is based on the Constitution and the will of the people. It helps develop an appreciation of the American Heritage through the study of American history.

The basic title of the ninth grade unit is "Living together with Ourselves and Others in our Community, State, and Nation." This is mainly a course in citizenship and civics. Students gain a working knowledge of their community, state and national governments in order to increase their understanding and appreciation of them. Students are also taught their rights and obligations as a part of their community, state, and nation.

Another branch of the ninth grade unit is "Making a Living."

Students learn about the various fields of work and therefore, they begin to establish goals for attaining their future vocations.

Southern's core program is constantly being evaluated and revised with the recent trends in education. Recently a new social studies and English program has been developed for the junior high school. At the present time the problem of raising the level of reading ability is being studied.

The junior high core department this year is headed by Mr. Lewis Domenick, who teaches seventh grade core. Other seventh grade teachers are Mrs. Burnetta DeVore and Mrs. Margaret Feather.

Mrs. Alta Duling, Miss Virginia Glover, Mrs. Grace Hogue, and Mrs. Vera Mussard teach eighth grade core.

Senior High Core

Senior high core is the problem-solving method of presenting subject matter. The core program aims to provide opportunities for each pupil to understand himself, his relationships with others, his physical environment and its effect upon himself and upon society.

The program strives to train each individual to become a useful, participating member of a democratic society, a person who is capable of facing and solving problems wisely and of expressing himself clearly and concisely.

The subjects which are taught in senior high core are as follows: United States and World Geography, United States and World History, Problems of Democracy, and English.

The English phase of the course consists of the fundamentals of grammar, spelling, vocabulary, written and oral compositions, literature, and the use of the library for reference work and preparation of book reports. The library is also used for recreational reading. Other skills taught in core include the use of periodicals, newspapers, and the taking of notes, and other techniques involved in research work.

The core unit of the tenth grade is "Living Together in Today's World." The problem areas are: Birth and Development of Ancient Civilization, Man's Search for God, Man's Search for the Aesthetic, Development and Effect of Science and Technology, Development of Government, Man's Search for Peace and World Cooperation, the latter unit being the United Nations.

In grade eleven the units are "Living Together in the United States" and "An Understanding and Appreciation of Our Democratic Institutions." The problem areas are: Understanding the Background and Birth of Our Democratic Form of Government, The Formation and Operation of Our Democratic Form of Government, The Territorial Expansion and Growth of Our Nation; How the United States Became a World Power, and Accepted New Responsibilities.

"Living Together Under Our Democratic Government" is the unit of the twelfth grade. The problem areas are: The Importance of Making Wise Decisions in the Solving of Personal Problems, Solving the Problems of Living Together in our Society, and The Opportunities and Responsibilities of Citizens in a Democracy.

Mrs. Daisy Beachy is the head of the senior high core program. She is also a tenth grade core teacher. The other core teachers for the tenth grade are Mrs. Bessie Price and Mrs. Lillian Wall.

The core teachers for the 11th grade are Mrs. James Trickett and Mr. Eugene Weese. Miss Roberta Cogley, Miss Bernice Idleman and Mr. Elmer Crone teach twelfth grade core.

There are fifteen core sections in the senior high. There are six core sections in the tenth grade, four in the eleventh and five in the twelfth grade.

Senator Long of Louisiana predicted the gradual withering away of the Soviet State.

Southern-Northern Nines Meet Today

Southern High's baseball team is scheduled to play Northern High school this afternoon on the local diamond.

The Highlanders have a fourteen-game schedule. Other games scheduled include April 13, Berkeley Springs, away; April 16, Circleville, away; April 23-24, Fort Ashby, home; April 30, Fort Ashby, away; May 3, Circleville, home; May 7, Masontown, home; May 10, Moorefield, home; May 14, Keyser, away; May 16, Elk Garden, away; May 18, Berkeley Springs, home; May 21, Northern, away. Last Saturday's game with Elk Garden was rained out.

Coach Carl Hogue, head coach, has had a big rebuilding job this year with the Highlander team having only a single starter from last year's nine that won 10 of 12 games. He is Bill Deckman, senior catcher, who has three years of experience behind him.

Missing from the team are Fred and Toby Colaw who pitched and batted the Highlanders into a tie for second place in the Potomac Valley conference.

Hogue will have a young squad this year, only five seniors being listed. Bob Shiffy, Gary Bittinger, Bill Nelson, Earl Kight and Deckman, and six juniors. Ken Shaffer, a junior, also saw action last year in the outfield.

The roster includes in addition to those listed Terry Colaw, Jack Gnegy, Allen DeWitt, Don DeWitt, Pat Turney, Julius Bolyard, Leo Martin, Don Stemple, Joe Sanders, Wayne Callis, Keith Butler, Jerry Wine, Henry McRobie, Lester C. Bittinger, Harry Craver, Bill Duling, Bill Stemple, Willard Paugh, Sam Glotfelty, and Ron Michaels.

"Our Growing Edge"
MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

All Growth Requires Effort

Someone has said and I fear it is all too troe, that we are becoming a nation of spectators in much of the living of onr lives. In this great drama of life, we fail to be the participators we should be, and stay on the sidelines, only as interested spectators. We think to oorselves it is better to let the other fellow carry the ball, and the tragic result is that too much is being done for us that we should be doing ourselves, and our muscles become flabby and soft. In the realm of sports, many leaders are complaining that our young people do not seek to be well-developed physically, when a great deal of effort is required and when self-discipline is necessary. Rather, they prefer to sit in the cheering section, and shout at the athletics who do make the effort. I am not advocating that every young person try to become a professional athlete, yet I do think for each of us, regardless of our age, there should be a planned physical fitness program. And that, takes work and effort.

In the mental field, growth requires effort, too. It is easy to sit, night after night, and watch one television program after another. Some of them cause us to think, many are fine and educational, but the great majority do not create a flicker in us for creative thinking or add a bit to our knowledge. They simply entertain us, with no effort on our part. That does have value for all of us, yet if we desire to grow mentally, we simply must give some time to the reading of really fine books, to study, to thinking, to meditation. We must impose on ourselves the self-discipline necessary for really honest and worth-while mental growth.

In the spiritual realm of our lives, which is by far the most important, we need desperately to grow and that also takes effort and work. In a Lenten service the other evening, the growth of our Christian life was our meditation theme. Just as we need food, fresh air and exercise for physical growth, we need comparable things for our spiritual growth. How can we grow if we don't feed our souls? Our food is the Word—we read it with our eyes in the Bible and accept its truth in our hearts. Our spiritual exercise is obtained by our living the Word. And the very essence of our daily spiritual lives are found in worship and prayer. Does it surprise you that many times even in our praying we can be completely selfish. And that even here we need to constantly grow? Some one has said our prayer may be something like this one: "Oh, Lord, I feel miserable, and the situation I am in is terrible. Won't you help me, God?"

What should that prayer be? Say something like this one. It starts with words of praise: "Thou hast created a wonderful world for our enjoyment, O Lord. Give me the courage, the cheerfulness, the pleasantness to enjoy this wonderful life Thou hast given me from Thy bounty." Contrast the thinking in those two prayers.

We could well ask ourselves how we are growing in our spiritual lives? Have you ever tried praying for your enemies? A great Chinese Christian woman tells how that experience helped her to grow. She said after she did that she felt freed and recharged. She found that after her persistence in prayer, she had a fresh burst and flowering of faith, and with it a wider and deeper joy than she had ever experienced before.

Our spiritual lives cannot be static, any more than any other part can be. We must constantly grow. There is always a wide gap between what we are and what we should be. It all takes effort, but how very worth-while it is for all of us. We will some day come to know, with humble hearts, what Jesus meant, when he said, "I am come that you might have life and have it more abundantly."

ONE FRIDAY

When we become mired in the routine of life, one day is like any other. This was just another working-day for most of the people in Jerusalem.

Three men died on Calvary Hill. One of them was the Galilean!

Business as usual in Jerusalem. Unless we understand the whole significance of what is happening we pay little attention . . .

Do you understand what happened that Friday. Do you realize WHO hung on that central Cross. Do you know WHY He died. And FOR WHOM?

There is nothing more necessary in our lives than the deep, personal knowledge of what happened that Friday . . . and the Sunday following.

Come to Church!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Shouters

Lesson for April 14, 1957

IT WAS an exciting week in Jerusalem. There was shouting on Sunday; there was shouting on Friday; all about the same Visitor, one Jesus of Nazareth. Only the shouting was different. On Sunday he rode in to the city preceded by a guard of honor, disorderly to be sure, but wildly enthusiastic. They called him King ("Son of David"); they said with loud voices that he came in the name of the Lord; the Hosannas must have been heard for miles. Friday morning the Visitor was mostly out of sight. The Roman police had him, and they did not disgorge prisoners easily. The crowd milled about in the streets outside the governor's castle, and they kept yelling "Crucify him!" Nothing can be more thrilling than to be hailed as King; nothing can be more dreadful than the sound of a mob hungry for torture.

Dr. Foreman

The Same Voices

Now the strange thing is that some of the same people who were shouting "Hosanna!" on Sunday, were shouting "Crucify him!" on Friday. Didn't they know their own minds? Well, they didn't. Shouters seldom do. There are always shouters about, they emerge from every crack when anything exciting goes on. They shout in crowds; solo shouters are rare. If you had taken many (maybe most) members of that Sunday crowd aside and asked each one in private: "Do you really think this Jesus is a King?" it is a fair guess that some of them would have replied, "Well . . . I don't know, of course. But he might be. Good idea to get on the band-wagon. I hear . . ." and so forth. Further, if you had been able to get private interviews with the bloody-sounding shouters on Friday morning and asked "Do you really think that this Jesus is guilty—and of course, if what exactly? Do you personally want to see him crucified by the Romans? You have got me there. I . . . I guess I never thought of it that way. I mean, I never counted. Well, I'm a little strong. Of course I don't see anybody in Roman robes. But I don't know the man personally, but I was told . . ." and so forth. I have heard—I was told—They say . . . Your shouter has to read all he has is a voice.

We Should Know

It is not such a dark mystery why the same people could yell Hosanna! and Crucify! about the same person within a week. Remember what was lined up against Jesus—intrenched interests, selfishness, indifference, pride, hate, greed, prejudice. For him there was only truth, and truth has short shrift when the shouters are strong. We may be shouters ourselves. How is it that on Sunday we can sing the most devoted songs about Jesus, we can even offer prayers in His name, and then on Monday (not waiting till Friday) our actions, which cry louder than our words always, crucify the Son of God afresh? As we sing come from poems which better Christians wrote; we just sing along with others, we don't think much about what the words mean. Then on Monday we fall back to the ways of the world. We don't connect what we are doing (which can be pretty devilish and still legal) with what we said on Sunday; and we don't (maybe) intentionally mean anything! against Jesus. But we do and what "everybody" does and says, and don't stop to think it's too much trouble for a shouter to think that what we are doing, or failing to do, is louder than words—"Jesus" Who? he? Nobody that makes any difference with me, nobody I'd care to be like!"

If They Had Known Him

There were some who shouted on Sunday who were silent on Friday. The Eleven forsook Him and fled, we know; but we may be sure they did not yell "Crucify Him!" and perhaps the Mother Mary took no voice in the shouting any time. The star of her love shone steadily through the storm. Those who really know Jesus not by hearsay, rumor or tradition but know him as a living man, Friend, and Savior, do not change their minds about Him overnight. And sometimes those who love Him most deeply are not to be found among the Shouters, but among those who serve.

M. L. HOKE

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde • 6th District, Maryland

Drew Pearson in a recent column noted that I was one of those members of the House Judiciary committee who had voted for a "hamstringing" amendment to the civil rights bill. He neither explained nor described the amendment for his readers. What Pearson called a "hamstringing" amendment simply provided for "speedy and public trial by an impartial jury" in all cases of contempt under the Act.

Under our present laws all persons tried for criminal contempt are entitled to a jury trial except where the United States is a party to the action. The civil rights bill in its present form provides that the United States is a party in all cases arising under it. This means that in civil rights contempt cases persons accused would not be entitled to a jury trial.

In our labor laws we have always provided that the defendants (who would be members of unions and labor representatives engaged in labor disputes) are entitled to a jury trial even though the United States is a party to the action. Is it not fair that we extend the same right to local police, school board members, and others, that we extend to labor leaders and members of labor unions?

What a monstrous indictment it is for the Government to say to our people "you are not qualified to sit on juries in civil rights cases because you would not be fair." In the Free State of Maryland, in criminal cases, our juries are judges of the facts and the law. But in this civil rights bill your Federal Government is saying it will not trust the people, it will trust only its political appointees on the bench.

I am in favor of a civil rights bill, but I do not believe we should pass a measure which has in it a provision which destroys the right to a trial by jury.

During the debate in Federal appropriations for schools in impacted areas, I suggested that Congress make a thorough study of the question of Federal payments to State and local governments in lieu of taxes on federally owned installations. At the same time I reintroduced my bill providing for such payments. An important point in favor of my bill is that funds would go directly into a county's general fund and there would be no Federal control of specific services—such as schools, etc. used by employees of Federal installations.

On My Calendar

Thursday, April 11 8 p. m., Regional Conference, D. C. Commissioners, District Bldg., Friday, April 12, 8 p. m., guest, Naval Reserve Officers' club, Bethesda; Tuesday, April 16, 7 p. m., speaker, Jr Order United Mechanics, Baltimore.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Are We To Be Anesthetized?

With the regular monthly civilian payroll nearly $1 billion—another all-time record—one begins to comprehend the present dimension of Federal bureaucracy. Some 2,390,507 persons are now employed by the Federal Government. This socialist tendency has been impervious to the best intentions of contemporary times, and presently seems even more malignant.

Government today is a system of wheels within wheels, wherein the small and obscure wheels grind out in great part the vast bulk of the decisions and policies for which the major and known wheels are ultimately responsible. To make their own positions more secure, the "small and obscure wheels" continually and eloquently urge an enlargement of government functions. The alacrity with which these recommendations are adopted by the "major and known wheels" suggests that they have either been mesmerized or that they lack the stamina to "resist the tide." Therein rests one of the major obstacles to reduce the national budget.

The erroneous idea of a big, centralized bureaucracy is not without devotees in and out of government. A vocal minority of our population are steadfastly dedicated to the "great socialist revolution." They do not call themselves socialists. They are always "liberals" and it is always in the name of "liberalism" that they speak and act. But that these people are socialists in disguise, is plainly revealed by these basic assumptions which they fervidly profess:

Government is good and to be expanded, business is evil and too regimented; labor unions are good, employers are wicked; the Federal Government is progressive, and should increasingly supplant the States which are regarded as obsolete; public ownership is better than private enterprise, which is looked upon as selfish and corrupt; wages are good, profits are sinful; public welfare measures should replace private charity, the executive branch of the Federal Government, and in particular the regulatory agencies thereof, should be given more power and wider discretion, the Congress and the Courts should be subordinate and curtailed.

Each of these assumptions have their origins in socialism, the dangers of which were accurately expressed recently by Harold Macmillan, Britain's Prime Minister when he said: "... there is no difference between socialism and communism except this: Socialism is soft, communism is hard; socialism is pink, communism is red, socialism gets you down but by bit by a kind of anesthetic process. It might be called mercy killing. Communism just knocks you on the head."

No. 4739 Equity. In the Circuit Court For Garrett County, Maryland

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce A Vinculo Matrimonii of the complainant from the respondent.

The bill states:

That the complainant was married to the respondent, Elsie Ann Barello, in the Spring of 1950 at San Francisco, California, by a duly authorized Justice of the Peace; that there was one child born of this marriage, to wit: Jerry Barello, age six years; said child being in the custody of the respondent; that although the conduct of the complainant toward the respondent has always been that of a kind, faithful and affectionate husband, the said respondent abandoned and deserted the complainant in April, 1953, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly and without cohabitation for nearly four years, and is deliberate and final, and beyond any hope or expectation of a reconciliation; that the complainant has been a resident of Garrett County, Maryland, all of his life, although he is presently employed in Baltimore, Maryland, and that the respondent is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and does not reside therein, and was last known to the complainant to reside at the home of her parents at Star Route, Box 88, Silverton, Oregon.

The bill then prays for a divorce A Vinculo Matrimonii of the complainant from the respondent, for general relief and for an order of publication.

It is, thereupon, this 18th day of March, 1957, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, ordered that the complainant, by having a copy of this order inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 19th day of April, 1957, give notice to the said absent respondent of the object and substance of said bill of complaint and warning her to be and appear in this Court, either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 4th day of May 1957, and show cause if any she has, why the prayers of said bill of complaint should not be granted unto the complainant. True Copy.

A Closer Tie . . . .

Two programs within the past three weeks have been extremely important in binding the county more closely together. They were called the all-county chorus festival and the all-county band festival.

We can see all kinds of good in competitive athletics, and hope they continue to grow in interest and activity, but there were qualities about these all-county festivals that cannot be duplicated for providing good will among all schools of the county and all sections of the county.

In these festivals there were participants from Yoder, Grantsville, Accident, Friendsville, Red House, Oakland, Kitzmiller, and other places. They had the opportunity to do things together. Junior high students and Senior high students from Northern and Southern High schools joined forces for combined musical presentations. These were performances where no school was competing against the other one. They were for the common good.

The audiences attending both performances were from practically every community in the county. Kitzmiller people rubbed elbows with Oaklanders and Oakland people rubbed elbows with parents of Northern High students.

The reaction has been so good that nothing should be allowed to interfere with there being a repeat performance next year and in the years to follow.

Let there be the usual baseball, basketball and football games between the two sections of the county and let the competition be keen but clean. But let there also be these county-wide events where a Northern musician sits next to a Southern musician in cooperative effort, where a Northern singer and a Southern singer may join in lifting their voices in a spirit of good will.

Such things may change the outlook of all of our county people. And what could be finer?

Forestry Camp Director Named

Ralph Swauger Began Duties Yester At Garrett County Site

Appointment of Ralph D. Swauger, of Friendsville, as director of the second Boys' Forestry camp to be opened under joint sponsorship of the State Welfare and Forestry Departments, was announced by Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Welfare department.

The camp will be located in this county, four miles west of Lonaconing. It will serve as a rehabilitation center for the care and treatment of boys transferred from the state's two boys' training schools at Loch Raven and Cheltenham.

Mr. Swauger, who began his duties yesterday, is a graduate of Frostburg State Teachers college and has completed graduate study at West Virginia university. He has taught school in this county for eleven years, teaching mathematics for the past two. He was baseball coach at Northern High.

Prior to teaching Mr. Swauger served in the armed forces for more than three years in the African and European theatres of operation.

While in Friendsville he has been active in community affairs, as a boy scout leader, chairman of the Children's Community Christmas fund, county chairman of the county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and at present is president of the Friendsville Rotary club.

He is married and the father of two children, Rebecca, 8, and Lane, 5. He is a member of the Church of the Brethren, the Community Volunteer Fire company, Friendsville, Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion.

Fishermen Out In Droves First Day

An estimated 3,000 or more fishermen took advantage of the favorable weather and tried their luck on the opening day of trout season on Monday, April 15.

Banks of all trout streams were crowded with anglers and many reported obtaining their legal limit for the day.

Twenty-one streams are listed as permanent trout streams in Garrett county. A permanent trout stream, it is explained, is one which may be fished from April 15 to September 15, and fish of other species may be taken only during the lawful open season within the period April 15 to September 15.

The permanent streams include the watershed of all of Savage river, Salt Block, White Rock, Bear Creek, Mill Run, Muddy Creek, Puzzley Run, Schell Laurel from its source to Potomac river, Cherry Creek from its source to where it enters Deep Creek Lake, Potomac river from mouth of Kempton Laurel run upstream to West Virginia state line, Meadow Mountain Run, Red Run (Deep Creek Lake), Red Run (route 40), Miller's Run, Bull Glade run, Murley run, Dunkard Lick, Buffalo Run, Hoyes Run, Laurel Run (White Rock) and Piney Run, from breast of Frostburg water impoundment to its juncture with Red Run.

Three other streams were declared temporary trout streams. A temporary trout stream was explained as open to all fish in season and trout being able to be taken from a temporary trout stream only during the period April 15 to September 15. Temporary streams were listed as Yough River, Glade Run, and their north and south branches of Casselman river from sources to their junction and the Casselman River junction to a point twenty-five yards beyond the breast of Stanton's dam on said river.

It is also lawful to fish for trout in Deep Creek Lake, and regular fishing hours do not apply to waters of Deep Creek Lake proper. Fishermen can spend the entire night there if they so desire.

Regular fishing hours are from 5:30 a. m. to 8 p. m., standard time.

There is a special area where fish may be taken by means of artificial flies only. Spinners are prohibited. This is in Savage river from Merrill Bridge to mouth of Popular Lick.

Stocking of forty percent of the trout was completed within the past two or three weeks. An additional forty percent will be stocked the last two weeks in April and the remaining twenty percent will be placed in "pressure" areas during May.

April 30 Final Date To File

April 30 is the final date on which farmers can file applications for incentive payment for shorn wool and pulled wool (lambs and yearlings) sold during the 1956 marketing year, it was announced by H. Robert DeWitt, chairman of the County ASC committee. The 1956 wool marketing year is from April 1, 1956 through March 31, 1957. Anyone who sold shorn wool or lambs during this period should bring or mail his bills of sale to the ASC office in Oakland not later than the above date, if he wishes to collect the Wool program incentive payment, it was stated.

Governor Vetoes Teacher Pay Bill

Governor McKeldin on Sunday vetoed a pay raise for Maryland public school teachers which would have been financed by a state cigaret tax of three cents a pack.

The program would have cost $10,400,000 a year, giving teachers an average raise of $400.

In a letter of explanation to House Speaker Luber, McKeldin again called on the counties to provide for any needed teacher raise above present state-supported minimums. "The argument that the larger counties can better afford the locally-provided salary increases than can the smaller counties is not impressive," McKeldin wrote. "The real answer," he said, "lies in their larger counties' more realistic assessments of property for tax purposes and the more realistic rates, generally speaking, at which real estate taxes are imposed." "Counties which have not increased teacher salaries above state minimums should make a sincere effort to bring their teacher salaries more in line with those of the city and counties which have taken a more progressive and realistic position in this regard."

The governor said the vetoed bill made no effort toward equalization of teacher salaries in the state.

He also took a swipe at the cigaret tax proposed by the bill. He said it was "unfair to the dealers in this product and to the consumers in Baltimore City and those counties which now impose cigaret taxes to supplement their revenues for governmental purposes including the support of their schools."

Both houses of the 1957 General Assembly had favored a pay raise for teachers but were at odds on how to finance it. The House had proposed to increase the sales tax from 2 to 2½ percent. The Senate favored a tax on cigarets and other tobacco products. The final result was a compromise of the two views. The margin of passage was substantial in both houses. The legislature will probably be called upon to override the veto.

Maryland legislators expressed confidence that the governor's veto would be overridden when the General Assembly meets again next winter.

Dial Service For Bayard, Gormania Right On Schedule

Installation of more than 225 dial telephones in Gormania, Bayard, and Mt. Storm is proceeding on schedule, according to an announcement by Fred Anderson, commercial manager of the C. and P. Telephone company's Keyser office. Mr. Anderson said that he expects the installation job to be completed by May 1st. The Gormania dial office is to be placed in service June 2, at 2 a. m.

The construction work to place wire and cable is about 75 percent complete, said Mr. Anderson. He stated that construction crews are now working to complete the placing of 587 poles, splicing 11 miles of cable and stringing approximately 84 single miles of wire. The building located on Route 90, south of Gormania, which will house the dial equipment for this new office was finished last November.

"The total job", said Mr. Anderson, "will represent an overall investment of about $203,000 by the telephone company and will serve a substantial portion of Grant county. This will fill a long time need in the communities of Gormania, Bayard, and Mt. Storm."

Before the new office is placed in service every customer will have been visited by telephone personnel and given personal dial instructions. A new telephone directory listing all of the new customers will be mailed just prior to the cut-over date of June 2. In addition to this Gormania directory, each customer will be supplied with an Oakland directory for local calls to that city.

Extent Of Recent Measure Causes Mild Concern

Indecisions Concerns Exact Duties Of Clerk To Commissioners

The successful passage of at least one bill at the recent legislature has been causing much comment in Court House circles within the past three weeks, and there is division of thought as to its exact meaning.

The bill under question is House bill 275 which relates to the salary and expenses of the County Commissioners and to the clerk of the Commissioners. The uncertainty about the bill is the extent of the clerks' office and what it might eliminate in the way of present clerical positions.

There is no uncertainty about the first part of the bill which gives the Commissioners an annual salary of $2,200 instead of $900, but which eliminates any reimbursement of traveling and living expenses incurred while traveling for the transaction of proper business of the county which was limited to $600 in any one year. The bill also eliminated the sum of $500 per year for expenses incurred by reason of a commissioner's duties on the Roads board.

The controversy comes in the clerk section of the measure. The bill sets the salary of a clerk to the County Commissioners at $3,600 instead of $1,800 but it eliminates the authority which the Commissioners had to employ such additional clerical help as in their judgment was deemed necessary for the proper conduct of their office.

Must Perform All Duties

Instead the bill makes it mandatory that the clerk shall perform all the duties of his office without any additional help and stipulates that the office of the clerk shall be kept open from 9 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 p. m. daily except Sunday.

At present there is a clerk to the County Commissioners, R. T. Brohawn, and an assistant clerk, Mrs. Virginia Fizer. There are also two stenographers in the assessors' office, Mrs. Berlie Thrasher and Miss Janet Paugh, who are paid directly by the County Commissioners' office. They, however, work cooperatively with the State Tax commission and the local supervisor of assessments.

What Does Bill Do?

The weighty matter that is now under study by W. Dwight Stover, attorney to the County Commissioners, is what is meant by the duties of the clerk to the commissioners. Does it mean the duties of these stenographers to assess-

Important To Christians
(An Easter Editorial)

By Charles W. Carlson

The other day I read in a newspaper that Easter is not nearly the popular festival that Christmas is, as far as the general public is concerned. This is probably very true, especially in view of the fact that Easter does not lend itself nearly so well to the commercial exploitation that Christmas has experienced, though some have used this festival to "cash in."

But for the Christian, there is no question that Easter is far and away the most important event of the Christian year. If there were no Easter, there would have been no Christianity. For the fact that Christ was born is not nearly as important as what he did after he was here.

In absolute contradiction to what the people wanted from him, a cult of Super David, who would restore their power in the world in a political way, he served out of love the poor, the prostitute, the unstable, the sick, the blind, the hungry. He contradicted and criticized the self-appointed leaders of the Jewish nation, aroused the outraged, malevolent and openly sinful character of the accepted religion of the people, because them to love where they would rather hate, to forgive rather than to bear grudges to be humble when they would rather have pride and in the final act of sacrifice, offered his life for theirs. He did not have to die, he could have destroyed; he deliberately chose death, that others might have life.

Today as then there are more who think of Christ as an annoying, unnecessary fool, there are millions who think him so unimportant that they ignore anything about him. Yet this is their loss. For all who believe in him, he is life itself, here and into eternity, for he is the way, the truth and the life, through whom we come, as undeserving sheep who have gone astray, to a father who wants nothing more than to love us, and for us to be His children, to participate fully in a wonderful life He has made for us.

Easter unimportant? Unpopular? Perhaps so for some. Not for the Christian. If it is unimportant for you, why not come to His house this Sunday to see why it should be the most important thing in your life!

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

In an attempt to obtain a Federal law against daylight saving time, Congressman O'Hara of Minnesota has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives known as H. R. 369, to restore Standard time to the entire country. The Federal Standard time law now applies only to interstate common carriers and Federal activities.

The bill is prepared under the authority of the Standard of Measures clause in the Federal Constitution to strengthen and broaden the scope of the Federal Act and make it nationally effective the entire year for all governmental and business purposes.

Although the Interstate Commerce commission has no direct association with the bill it meets the repeated recommendations of the commission that Congress fully occupy the legislative field respecting Standard time to the exclusion of state legislation or local action.

The bill is now referred to the House Committee on Inter-state and Foreign Commerce and all people who are for their letters of support to Hon. Joseph P. O'Hara, House Office Building, Washington 25, D. C.

Sincerely yours,
Charles E. Bowser,
Accident, Maryland

Dear Sir:

In regard to daylight saving time, it was voted out in the county. It took the whole county to vote it out and the Oakland Mayor and Council brought it back. Tell me, what is the use of spending money for voting machines or ballots if two men can repeal anything voted for. Why can't they also bring back liquor if they want to.

I voted against both items but will not vote anymore if such things are allowed to continue. It is time for the people in Garrett County to stand up for their rights.

Sincerely yours,
MRS. LEWIS A. HARVEY

Kitzmiller, Md.

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

While in Washington, D. C. recently my attention was attracted to a little news item on the front page of The Washington Post. The Post featured it, with special handling, so that many readers might see and read it. The two-paragraph news story reported that Representative Clarence Cannon, Missouri Democrat and chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, had received more than 100 shirts—right off the backs of tax-conscious citizens of Centralia, Mo., protesting the record-breaking Federal budget.

Although The Washington Post did not report it, each of the shirts received by Mr. Cannon was accompanied by a letter which said, in part: "Congressman Cannon, here's my shirt, too! I'm sending the Shirt Off My Back directly to you as a personal protest against the high budget proposals for the coming fiscal year. Your influence in reducing this budget will be appreciated and remembered.

"The people of my community are alarmed by the prospects for an increased federal budget. We see in it a continuation of the trend toward a more costly and powerful central government . . . We are convinced that there are tremendous possibilities for savings by adopting more of the Hoover Commission's recommendations and by eliminating other costly projects which are not essential to good government. We realize, too, that requests for Federal Aid for local projects makes budget reduction more difficult. So . . . along with this request we agree to quit asking for Federal Aid in exchange for your influence in reducing government expenses."

The "Shirts Off Our Backs" project was conceived by The Freedom Club of Centralia, whose membership includes people of all walks of life and in all economic categories. On my desk as this column is being written is a photograph showing two men in their undershirts, folding and wrapping their white dress shirts to be sent to Congressman Cannon.

The two men are F. Gano Chance, President of A. B. Chance Company, nationally-known manufacturing company; and Joe C. Turner, President of Local 821, IUE-CIO, the membership of which works at A. B. Chance Company. Both of these men are my friends. Both have participated in the Freedom Forums held in Searcy by the National Education Program. Both are members of the Centralia Freedom Club whose basic objective is to strengthen and safeguard the structure of American freedom, and whose program is designed to stimulate all Centralia people to fulfill the responsibilities of American citizenship.

Mr. Summerfield's order of mail service curtailment, which became effective Saturday, has been rescinded.

Postoffice officials said that the curtailment in the Oakland postoffice meant the saving of 28 man-hours per week, but the curtailment meant extra heavy duty for the workers on Monday and Tuesday.

Topic for discussion was "Who Shall Drive Tractors." The group felt that parents should be responsible for those they feel capable to drive tractors, using good common sense in allowing their children to drive. Courtesy by all motorists on highways was stressed.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Buckel. Regular meeting date was changed to the first Saturday of each month at 8:30 DST.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Perhaps It Is Both

As everyone knows, lying is a horrid habit easy to acquire and hard to break. That is why the announced resolution of the great labor organization, the AFL-CIO, of its intention in the future to speak the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth has aroused such widespread interest and comment.

* * *

For one thing that would indicate a radical change in the attitude of most of the so-called leaders of the unions. For another thing, few of them have any special aptitude for the truth—quite the contrary. From time immemorial the theory of labor, particularly among its leaders, has been that the employer is a hard-hearted, grasping, greedy man who would give the workmen only what he was forced to give. That was true enough at times but it has not been true for a number of years. Since the enactment of the Taft-Hartley labor law—which is so absurdly called by certain of the labor demagogues a "slave labor law"—union labor has made enormous strides in size and strength

* * *

The political power of organized labor exists in every congressional district and state and is used in every local and national election. This has sometimes been abused and sometimes used for the benefit of the country as a whole. Also it has bred among the labor bosses a number of men not only ambitions to run these gigantic unions but to run the country as well. One of these, it has often been charged, is Mr. Walter Reuther, vice-president of the AFL-CIO and president of the United Automobile Workers of America.

* * *

By many Mr. Reuther is regarded as the second man in the big organization, but by even more he is regarded as the first. He is not only younger than Mr. Meany, the president, but he is vastly more truculent and belligerent. He dominates the Democratic party in Michigan and is a member of the executive committee of the Americans for Democratic Action, to which such Democrats as Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Mr. Francis Biddle and other old New Dealers adhere.

* * *

In addition, he seems to have an utterly reckless disregard of the truth, which, when one considers that he is the prime mover in the new AFL-CIO resolution proclaiming truth and justice as a basic goal, makes this search with him as its leader more than a little ridiculous. About twelve years ago in the course of his somewhat violent, vicious and vehement strike against General Motors in Detroit, where Mr. Reuther had control of the local Democratic organization (and through his creature, Gov. "Soapy" Williams, still has), the World War II being on, and Mr. Truman still President, Mr. Reuther made some terrific charges against General Motors. One of these was that "the company had deliberately falsified the figures in its books." He offered no proof, but after the negotiations had been completed and the strike called off he was asked about his charge at a press conference. "Oh, that," he said with a hearty laugh, "I just thought that was a good way to put the company over the barrel."

* * *

Apparently it meant nothing to him that in that remark about "putting the company over the barrel" he had indicted himself. It meant that few decent men in business or out would want to do business with him, that few would trust him or believe him. Those were things that obviously either did not occur to him or matter to him. Since that day, of course, he has been more or less marked as one whose word is not good and who cannot be trusted. His course during the Kohler strike in Wisconsin, now entering its fourth year, has added to his reputation along these lines.

* * *

The falsity and vindictiveness of the anti-Kohler propaganda have made a new record even for Mr. Reuther. And now we find his voice raised for a rigid "code of ethics" and "complete veracity." If that isn't funny, it is disgusting. Perhaps it is both, according to how thorough is one's understanding of what is going on in the politics of the country

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and helpfulness during the illness and following the death of our father, the late Samuel S. Browning.

We also want to express our thanks to those who gave flowers and contributed the use of their automobiles for the funeral service.

Extent Of Recent

sors' Mr. Stover said he planned to reach a decision within the week.

H. D. Swartzentruber, president of the County Commissioners, said if they follow the technicality of the Law it will necessarily eliminate three positions, and he said it was impossible for one person to take care of all the work.

Legislators are reported as saying they had no intention to interrupt the work of the two stenographers, and that the bill was not intended to do that.

A state law covering the work of the State Tax commission, states that the County Commissioners are directed to employ such help as is necessary to carry on the assessment work in the counties.

A number of persons are of the opinion this was another "spite" bill, designed to eliminate one particular position in the Commissioners' office.

The bill provides that in regard to the salary of the County Commissioners the act shall not apply to the present Commissioners but would take effect with the next term of office. The balance of the act would take effect June 1.

Detailed Study Given

A more detailed study of other county bills passed by the recent legislature and either signed by the governor or awaiting his signature, was made this week to inform the readers of The Republican the extent of such legislation.

Senate bill 639, relating to pensions of certain retired teachers in the county, directed the County Commissioners to levy and pay to retired school teachers who formerly taught in public schools of the county who retired prior to June 1, 1928 and who are now receiving a pension from the Commissioners, additional sums so that the aggregate of such pension shall be at least $1,200 per year.

House bill 528 amending laws on public auctions in the county to provide a penalty, provides that any person, firm or cooperation violating the provisions of section 22A of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, shall upon conviction be subject to a fine of not less than $350. The regulation requires any person, firm or corporation which shall hold or conduct regular weekly or monthly public auctions in the county on live stock farm products or other items of personal property, shall furnish a bond with cash or corporate surety in an amount not less than 90 percent of the average total sales.

House bill 742 legalized the 1957 edition of the Code of Public Local laws of the county, and directing the County Commissioners to appropriate funds to provide for publication of said code, and provide for sale and distribution.

House bill 687 extended open season on raccoon and opossum from October 1 to January 31 instead of November.

Senate bill 126 allowed courts to suspend sentence or grant probation under certain circumstances.

Senate bill 156 added Garrett county to state-wide laws concerning juvenile courts and relating generally to treatment and disposition of cases in the county concerning young persons and to the operation and functions of the juvenile court.

House bill 160 relates to salary of sheriff and deputy sheriff and to their expenses. It sets the salary of the sheriff at $2,000, and after January 1, 1959, an annual salary of $3,600, and such sum as may be set from time to time in the discretion of the County Commissioners, for expenses. It eliminates a $600 per year item for expenses. The deputy's salary is set at $2,700 instead of $1,500.

The bill allows the sheriff extra car mileage and out of county mileage at ten cents per mile, 80 cents per day for boarding each prisoner, and may have a cook for the jail for $50 per month.

House bill 522 relates to judges of the orphans' court and their annual compensation. The bill eliminates the amount of $8 for every day's attendance upon sessions of the court and makes the annual compensation $600 with an allowance of five cents per mile for travel.

House bill 94 provided that the County Commissioners pay Accident Volunteer fire department $1,200 per year instead of $800 which it had been receiving.

Senate bill 155 relating to exemption from sales tax for custom cutting or sawing of certain timber. The exemption regulation declared: "Sales of any service, fabrication or processing by sawmill operators upon timber, lumber of other wood products, the title to which is and remains in a farmer or farm owner, miner or mine owner and when the object of said sale, service or other fabrication is returned to the farmer or farm owner, mine or mine owner, thereafter for use on the farm, in the mine or on mine buildings.

It Runs Through My Mind

BY POLLY J. HANST

I Had a Letter

This week I had a special delivery letter from a girl who was graduated from Southern High some time ago, in which she was making a plea to inform the parents at P.-T.A. how inadequate the school is for preparing young people for the life that is just ahead.

Now that Mary (that's not her name) is in the city meeting lots of competition she finds herself frustrated and bitter because of lack of background, poor knowledge and the power of expression. In fact she feels so strongly that she wrote several pages that were well expressed, well punctuated and grammatically correct.

I have sympathy for Mary, whom I recall as having been active in many of Southern's affairs, for I remember in my life, when my work took me hither and yon that I too felt resentment when I visited Cornell, Ames, Minnesota and Purdue, and saw how tremendous their schools of home economics were. Bitter for my own shortcomings I wanted to blame my alma mater. It took some time for it to soak in that I hadn't learned nearly all that was available for me to learn. It was there for the taking but the spring prom was more important than the enzyme.

So rather than tell the parents about Southern's shortcomings it would be well to let students and parents know that knowledge is there if they want it. After listening to teachers discuss the curriculum for the coming year on my child's grade level, I came away from P.-T.A. being thankful we have so many fine teachers who are eager for the highest standards. I wonder if we don't expect too much from our teachers, too little from our children.

Some students have no homework because they don't want to do homework, others have much homework, some of which is due to poor study habits in the classroom. Can we blame the school for that?

I do not know Mary's record or study habits or her course. The wonderful thing for her is that she recognizes her lack. Even if she had gone to the best school in America and on to the best college, it would be a healthy situation for her to still feel the need of self improvement. Maybe the pain she is now feeling is a growing pain and the ointment will be night school or self-education through good reading, educated companions, intellectual curiosity which she could satisfy through visits to museums, lectures and dozens of things a great city has to offer.

Another healthy sign of Mary's is that she is concerned about the needs of others and wants to do something about it—a sign of maturity. So maybe Mary, the inadequate school may have been more adequate than you think.

It was good to have your letter and your interest and your expression of faith and love for Garrett county.

Journalism Students To Attend Conventions; Will Receive Award

Thursday, April 25, nine Southern journalists and their adviser, Miss Roberta M. Cogley, will travel to Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Virginia, to attend the 28th annual convention of the Southern Interscholastic Press Association on April 26 and 27.

The Southern delegation will arrive in Lexington on Thursday evening. They will register and attend a reception that same evening.

Friday and Saturday there will be short courses and clinics in the fields of photography, newspaper, radio-news, and yearbook. Students will attend classes in these areas depending on the field in which he may be interested. They will also attend the Quill and Scroll banquet, convention, dance, awards luncheon, and panel discussions.

Doris Lawson, editor of "The Highlander," is a member of the panel discussing yearbook, and also a member of the girls' planning committee for the convention dance.

The highlight of the convention will be the awards luncheon, Saturday afternoon. Awards will be given to those publications which are rated best after judging at the convention.

Those going are Kathryn Hauser, Doris Lawson, Jean Beachy, Maurice Brookhart, James Callis, Betty Biser, John Brown, Arthur George, and Miss Cogley. One other student will be named later.

SIPA is sponsored by the Lee Memorial Journalism Foundation of Washington and Lee University in order to unite scholastic journalists from the Southern States and District of Columbia into a common organization.

The delegation will stay in Lexington, and besides the convention, they plan to visit various points of interest in and around historic Lexington, and return to Oakland on Sunday.

"The Acorn," Southern's newspaper, received second place at the Maryland Scholastic Press conference held at College Park, Saturday, April 6.

This rating means that The Acorn is topped by only one paper, Wheaton High school, Wheaton, Maryland, in the Jr.-Sr. High Division of schools with enrollments between 500-1500 in Maryland.

Farm-Home Market Will Open June 1st

A county-wide farm and home market will open Saturday, June 1, at the Bowman Boat barn in McHenry, and conducted by a group of farm women. Market day will be every Saturday from 9 to 3 o'clock standard time, throughout the summer, concluding on August 31.

Purpose of the market, according to Mrs. Gerald Glotfelty, McHenry, manager, is to give an opportunity to people who have talents in cooking, sewing, baking, making crafts, etc., in having these talents pay off.

Last year was the first attempt at a farm and home market and in five market days there was sold $107.50 worth of bread, $119.70 of cake and cupcakes, $103.60 of pies, and $141.80 in fresh vegetables, besides other items.

Mrs. Glotfelty said the market would have buyers for homemade cake, pies, cookies, candies, bread, rolls, sweet rolls, jellies, jams, fresh vegetables, fruits, berries, fresh eggs, crafts, novelties, quilts, rugs, aprons, pillowcases, needlework, cut flowers, potted plants, ready cooked food, cottage cheese, buttermilk, butter, evergreens and shrubbery.

She said the market was hoping that many individuals and church groups would take advantage of the opportunity. She said there was need for more sellers as the summer residents had shown great appreciation for the market.

For all sellers there will be a meeting in the Accident Fire Hall on Friday, May 3, from 10 to 3:30. A. C. Hoecker, marketing specialist, and Mrs. Judith Pheil, nutritionist, both from the University of Maryland extension service, will demonstrate proper methods for packaging and give pointers in selling. The health department requires all food packages to be properly wrapped.

Yesterday, these four were their Mothers' despair. Their faces were grimy, their play-clothes spattered with mud. They were even ready to put up their fists and fight when the rivalry between spacemen and cowboys became a little too keen.

Today, they are immaculate. They sing like young angels. They even look like angels . . . because today is Easter! And these boys are proclaiming the glorious message that Christ Is Risen.

Easter is the time of promise, beauty, awe at the miracle of birth and rebirth. Easter is the time to let the joy of living seep into you. It is the time to tell yourself that you believe . . . and, if there's been any doubt about it, to start believing again.

Spend part of your Easter in Church. Spend the rest of it looking, with new eyes, at the wonderland God has created around you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

God's D-Day

Lesson for April 21, 1957

ONE OF the most famous of Easter hymns begins: "The strife is o'er, the battle done, The Victory of life is won . . ." Among the many true meanings of Christ's death and resurrection is this: Christ has conquered sin and death. All that death and sin could do to him, was done; yet he "rose a victor o'er the dark domain," as another familiar hymn goes. The last word of Jesus to his disciples, as Matthew reports it, begins—"All authority has been given me . . ." Easter is not a season for puzzles; and yet all this does raise a question in the minds of both Christians and unbelievers. If it is true that Christ has won for us the victory over sin and death, if it is true that it is He who has the true authority over man and history, how is it that the world racks along in such a slow, painful, frustrated sort of way? Looking at a slum, or a battlefield, or a cemetery, or a jail, looking at life as it is lived on this planet, would we guess that God had won a tremendous victory over the powers of evil?

Dr. Foreman

D-Day Is Not V-Day

A theologian of our time, Oscar Cullman has given an answer to this in the simplest terms. We live, he says, in the interval, so to speak, between D-Day and V-Day. All who can remember back to June 6, 1944, remember the tremendous victory of that hard-fought D-Day. But the war went on for nearly a year after that. Was D-Day, then, a failure? By no means. With D-Day the war was totally won. The enemy had little chance, after that; but it took a lot of fighting, and some of it like the Battle of the Bulge, costly and disheartening. So we are living, in the time between Christ's ascension and His coming again in glory, as it were between D-Day and V-Day.

What God Has Done

What has been accomplished by God's D-Day? One thing is that God's power has been shown once and for all. Over and over in the New Testament, especially in the letters of Paul, the power with which God raised Christ from the dead is called the same power that works in Christians. The victory over sin and death which we see in Christ, can be the hope and to an increasing degree the experience of our own lives. There really is a difference between living in the world before Christ and after. All that Christ was and did and said, climaxed by the resurrection, are ever before our minds if we only think. Before Christ, no one on earth really knew what God could do. Since Christ, men of faith do know. The other achievement of D-Day's victory is, for us, sharing in God's certainty of victory which finally shall be complete. One of the easiest and subtlest temptations into which we can fall is to wonder whether God may not at last be overwhelmed by a universe which he created but cannot now control. Realizing what D-Day means, we need never have such fears.

What We Must Do

Calvary and Easter have practical messages for the Christian. They are not mere admiration-days, when we can sing happily about what God has done. They are challenge-days calling us to thought, attitude, action, as befits children of the mighty God. As for death, we can see clear through it. Christ has shown us the glory on the other side. As for sin, Christ bore our sins with Him "to the tree" as Peter said. The power that wrought in Him is available for us in our struggles against evil. But there is something more than this. John Baillie speaks of our era, between the time of Jesus and the end of time, as "the years of grace," that the great task of Christians is just the very thing which Matthew leaves with his readers as the climax of his story of Christ. "All authority has been given me . . . therefore—sit down and be at ease? wait quietly for the end? spend your time singing my praises? no, none of these!—therefore GO, and Make Disciples." The going, winning Christian is the one in whom the victory of Easter moves on toward final triumph.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde • 6th District, Maryland

Reduction in the cost of operating the Federal Government and a resulting reduction in Federal taxes continues to overwhelm everything else on Capitol Hill. It is plain that we cannot have lower taxes and at the same time maintain the current high rate of Federal spending unless we would have the Government go further into debt. I am sure no one wants that.

The economy drive is producing results. But the overall savings so far achieved have failed to bring about permanent savings of major importance. As I have mentioned before, sensible reduction in the cost of government can come about only through year-round congressional study of the budget.

Real and permanent savings can be obtained—with a significant reduction in the cost of operating the Federal Government—if the recommendations of the second Hoover Commission were adopted. Fact is, had the last Congress adopted the Commission's major budgetary recommendations, the task of the present Congress would be easier.

I would like to cite one of the Hoover recommendations as an illustration of what I mean. Of course the first seven appropriation bills considered by the House, cuts of a little over $1 billion were made. Almost twice that sum could be saved if the Hoover proposal for an independent Defense Department procurement administration were established. This one change would bring a minimum saving of more than $2 billion.

The cost of government can be reduced if the people are willing to forego benefits and if extravagance and waste is eliminated from Federal spending programs. But it will take denial on the part of the people and the courage of Congress to implement the Hoover recommendations to achieve the desired results.

Neighbor: Say, your new Olds sure looks like a lot of car!

(A few minutes later:)

Neighbor: Man-oh-man, where'd all that power come from? I've never felt anything like that before!

Olds Owner: That's Oldsmobile's new J-2 Rocket Engine*!

Neighbor: What's that? Tell me how it works.

Olds Owner: When you're driving under ordinary conditions, it uses only one carburetor. That means economy with a capital E. But when you need a sudden burst of power, for safety's sake, you just press the accelerator three-quarters of the way down—and two additional carburetors cut in!

Neighbor: In other words, with J-2, you can have economy when you want it and power when you need it. That's for me!

Olds Owner: Better see your Olds dealer. He's expecting you!

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Where Are Their Crocodile Tears?

Where, oh where are the self-styled champions of civil liberties? Not so long ago, "impartial" news analysts and editorial writers, left-ish organizations, and others heaped criticism upon Congressional committees with a cry of "legislative abuse of basic freedom" every time a suspected communist invoked the Fifth Amendment. Why then does not this same legion of the left rush to the defense of Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union? Where are their crocodile tears?

Obviously, these self-proclaimed protectors of civil liberties have purposely muted their usual clatter in the Beck affair. Do they now conclude that Congressional committees have "reformed"? Having previously contended that their proteges were unfairly treated by the Congress, do they now admit that Mr. Beck was fairly treated?

It is to be doubted. Progressive hear no refutation of the observation by the Baltimore Sun comment columnist C. P. Trussell that "... the House Un-American Activities Committee and the Senate Internal Security Committee never handled any witness more roughly than the select committee on labor-management rackets has been handling Mr. Beck."

These artificial protectors want nothing to do with the Beck imbroglio for fear that to do so would initiate a re-examination of the Amendment, its interpretations, its application, with the result that it would be unacceptable when used by subversives. Their decision seems based at once on the doctrine that "one can make too much of a good thing" or that "silence is golden."

Chief Judge Magruder of the U. S. Court of Appeals emphasized the need for a full scale re-examination of the Amendment when he said: "Our forefathers, when they wrote this provision enshrining the privilege against self-incrimination into the 5th Amendment of the Constitution, had in mind a lot of history which has been largely forgotten today." Actually, the language of the Amendment "no person . . . shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself . . ." limits the availability of the privilege to criminal cases. There is no mention of Congressional inquiries. By Supreme Court interpretation, however, it has been extended to "any proceeding whatsoever in which testimony is legally required."

The Pseudo-liberals know that to beat the drums for Mr. Beck might be to strain the Supreme Court's interpretation of the Amendment past the breaking point, bringing on a review and re-evaluation of that "largely forgotten" history. No wonder their silence.

A Hagerstown woman won the Mrs. Maryland crown and will go to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to compete in the annual Mrs. America contest.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

The Rev. Peter Marshall, D. D., late chaplain of the United States Senate, once prayed that the members of the Congress would be guided to "vote on God's side" when making their decisions.

Although the invocation was delivered ten years ago in behalf of a specific group of war citizens, it bears well be repeated each day by any person who wishes his actions to constitute a vote on the side of The Almighty.

Therefore, in keeping with my custom of devoting my weekly newsletter to a religious theme during this annual period of special observances, I would like to offer Dr. Marshall's entire prayer for the consideration of men and women of all faiths.

It is as follows:

O Thou Holy Spirit Who has promised to lead us into all truth, prepare our hearts and minds to the business of this day, that we may behave with true courtesy and honor.

Compel us to be just and honest in all our dealings.

Let our motives be above suspicion.

Save us from fallacy of depending upon our personality, or ingenuity or position, to solve our problems.

Since Thou has the answers make us willing to listen to Thee, that we may vote on God's side, and that God's will may be done.

Pictures of Southern High school will be on the end sheets. Inside the book will be found action pictures, table of contents, class pictures, sport pictures, sport write-ups, activities, activities write-ups, advertisements, and many other features.

Mr. and Miss Highlander will be revealed to the school when the yearbook is distributed. The candidates were chosen from the senior class by the seniors. They were chosen according to scholastic achievement, leadership, interest and ability, character, and personality. The final decision is the secret of the faculty who counted the vote.

Each yearbook costs approximately $5.00. This cost includes photography, printing, special covers, and like items.

Extension Meetings

Senior Chorus Rehearses Operetta

Lester Bittinger, substitute for Keith Mersing, as Ralph Rackstraw; Joan Paige, Josephine; Eddie Sanders, Captain Corcoran Freda Cooper, Cousin Hebe; Jackie Calhoun, Buttercup, rehearsing a scene from "H. M. S. Pinafore."

"H.M.S. Pinafore,' a two-act operetta will be presented to the public, May 10, at 8 p. m., in the Southern gymnasium by the senior chorus of Southern High school.

The scene opens on the quarter deck where "Buttercup," Jackie Calhoun, is selling her wares to the sailors. Boatswain, an able seaman, Bill Burgwald, is striving to keep Dick Deadeye, Henry McRobie, from stirring up trouble on board. Captain Corcoran, Eddie Sanders, arrives very troubled, for he has found out that his daughter, Josephine, Joan Paige, is in love with a common sailor on his ship.

Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., John Brown, comes on board surrounded by his sisters, his cousins, and his aunts, who accompany him wherever he goes. He finds Josephine is not interested in him, but in a sailor beneath her rank.

Ralph Rackstraw, the common sailor, Keith Mersing, finally reveals his love for Josephine.

This causes confusion on board and Ralph is about to be thrown in the dungeon when Buttercup tells a secret she has kept to herself for quite a few years. This secret straightens everything out and it leaves an ending for three happy couples. The captain marries Buttercup, Ralph and Josephine are united, and Sir Joseph agrees to spend the rest of his life with Cousin Hebe, his first cousin, Freda Cooper.

Mrs. Ruth Brown and Miss Barbara Colebrese are the head directors of this operetta. Student directors are: dramatic, Helen Browning; dance, Barbara Glotfelty; and music, Carole Savage.

Preceding the performance of "H.M.S. Pinafore,' the Southern High Junior band will give a half hour concert. This band is under the direction of Mr. Raymond Borrell.

Grantsville Man Hurt In Automobile Accident

Hobart H. Speicher, 57, of Grantsville, was seriously injured last Wednesday evening, April 10, in a one-car accident along U. S. Route 40, four miles east of Grantsville. He was admitted to Meyersdale Community hospital.

Tfc. Charles H. DeWitt, Maryland State trooper, who investigated, said Speicher sustained lacerations of his face, possible fractures to the ribs and internal injuries. DeWitt said the man was traveling west on the highway when he failed to negotiate a curve. The vehicle struck an embankment and came to rest crosswise in the eastbound lane of traffic.

F.F.A. and Home Ec. Change

The F.F.A. boys have exchanged places with the home economic girls for two weeks. The boys are working in the kitchen while the girls work in shop.

The boys started out by making cocoa and toast, and then grilled cheese sandwiches. On Tuesday they cooked a spaghetti dinner.

The boys' goal is to learn what a man's responsibility is around the house. Though the boys' opinion is that a man's place is not in the kitchen, they do think that they should understand the needs of the family and help maintain standards of happiness and good health.

They will learn to evaluate home appliances, such as washers, dryers, deep freezers, ironers, stoves, etc.

Rings Arrive

The juniors received their long awaited school rings Tuesday. Some of the seniors who had not received a ring last year obtained theirs at this time.

Work Experience Program

The office practice classes are working in local areas to gain experience in the business field. This program began Tuesday and will continue for two weeks. Each student works a half day.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 81. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., APRIL 25, 1957. PER COPY, 8c NUMBER 8.

Real Tragedy . . . .

We look forward eagerly to the time when Garrett county will elect four representatives to the General Assembly who can work together for the good of our county. Such is not now the case.

The last session of the legislature is just one example. We look at such pieces of legislation as the one to attempt to force out of office our roads engineer, who for the most part has done creditable work while in that position. We look at another that would have required a re-audit of the books of the County Commissioners for the year 1954, that would have cost the county between $5,000 and $10,000 for no good purpose. We look at a resolution that would have more or less taken over the affairs of the Board of Forests and Parks by a legislative group.

We see legislation introduced in the Senate that came as a complete surprise to the House of Delegates members. And there was also legislation that originated in the House that was just as surprising to the Senator.

Then there was legislation presented concerning elective offices in the county without any previous discussion with people in those offices, as to whether the legislation was worth while, necessary or even wanted.

This is not as it should be. The bulk of the blame, in our opinion, lies in the Senate. The Senator went his individual way, dreaming up spite legislation in a number of instances. We are glad to say that such legislation was properly killed in the House of Delegates. The point is, however, had these legislators been able to sit down around a conference table and talk things over sensibly, there would be no need for this constant bickering—back and forth, from House to Senate and back again. There should be harmony in the ranks. As of now it is an accomplishment when one side has a civil word for the other.

Years ago when there was controversy over timber cutting, conservation of our natural resources, and the like, the Senator was bucking the creation of a forestry conservancy board. A plea was made for cooperation and the Senator made this remark: "Sure, I'll be glad to cooperate, if they do it my way." To our knowledge this man's attitude has never changed. He cooperates only if they do it his way.

That is why I believe we will never have a smooth working group of legislators until our present Senator is given a sound drubbing at the polls. It remains a tragedy for the county that he will still represent us for another session of the legislature.

Dr. Fisher To Address Class At Southern

Dr. John Fischer, superintendent of Baltimore City schools, and considered one of the nation's foremost educators, will be the commencement speaker for Southern High school's graduates on Friday evening, May 31, at 8:15 o'clock, in the Southern High school gymnasium.

Announcement was made yesterday by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools.

DR. JOHN FISCHER

Southern Hi Nine Downs Ft. Ashby

Southern High's baseball team broke a 6-6 tie with a three-run outburst in the sixth inning at Oakland yesterday to down Fort Ashby's Eagles 9 to 6, in a Potomac Valley Conference contest.

The triumph was the second for Coach Carlton Hogue's nine while the Eagles tumbled in their sixth successive defeat in league play.

FFBL Enrollment To Close April 30

Farm Improvement Program Already Has 72 Families Enrolled For 1957

Enrollment in the 1957 Garrett County Farming for Better Living contest will close April 30, L. Bush Swisher, Farming for Better Living project director for region 2, said today. The area, in addition to Garrett county, includes Preston, Monongalia, Marion and Taylor counties, West Virginia.

Already, 72 farm families have enrolled in the Garrett county program for this year, which compares favorably with last year, Swisher said. A complete list of the names of the enrolling families will be announced shortly after the closing date.

Farm families who wish to enroll may still do so, Swisher said, by contacting the County Extension Service office in the Oakland post office.

The highlight event of the program in Garrett county is the annual dinner for winning families given in the Southern High school cafeteria at the end of October by the Garrett County FFBL Council.

Garrett county families in the contest have had 100 percent completion of their projects for the past four years, and have received a certificate of merit and a $25.00 cash award for use of the Garrett County 4-H fund. Council chairman, W. Dwight Stover, is hoping that the fine record for completions will not be broken this year. Farming for Better Living begins its ninth year of operation in Garrett county and seventeen years in West Virginia.

The business people of Garrett County have annually been donating over $500 in cash and merchandise to make this program a success, and Swisher said their great interest in promoting farming interests were most commendable.

Farm families who enroll are given a project booklet that outlines "a short course in farming," Swisher said. It points up the teaching programs of the Extension Service and other agricultural programs in the county.

Homemaker Plans For Special Week Are Now Complete

Plans for the five special events that will mark National Home Demonstration week, scheduled April 28 to May 5, have been completed by Mrs. Russell Klotz, county program chairman, it was announced this week.

The schedule will include meetings at the Accident Fire hall on April 30, 8 p. m.; at the home of Mrs. Hubert Martin, Swallow Falls area on May 1, at 1:30; in the Deer Park town hall May 1, 8 p. m.; in the Elementary school at Grantsville May 2, 8 p. m., and the window display for the Oakland area April 30 to May 4, in the window of the Ace Radio and Electric Service. All meetings are on daylight time. Mrs. Wayne Hamilton, of the Sunnyside club, has charge of the display for the Oakland area.

Theme of the twelfth annual observance is "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World." Last year in acquainting the public with the Extension program there were 58 news articles, 75 radio announcements, special meetings in foods, pastry demonstrations, clothing workshops, meetings in family life, and achievement programs.

Miss Ethel Grove, home demonstration agent, said the Extension program was designed to familiarize homemakers with research related to home and family and to encourage them to put research findings to use, to have people realize the scope of home economics and its contribution to family and community life.

She said there were 160 volunteer leaders and assistants in major projects of clothing, family life, foods, home furnishings and home management, with at least 108 on standing committees of citizenship and civil defense, culture, health and safety, international relations and music.

In advancing the homemaker club program last year Miss Grove traveled 9,365 miles. All meetings are open to interested persons, regardless of whether or not they are club members.

Rotary Awards For Grantsville Made

Civic merit awards for ontstanding community service were presented to three individuals at a recent meeting of the Grantsville Rotary club.

The awards went to Harry C. Edwards, Grantsville, member of the House of Delegates; T. J. Cramblett, Salisbury, Pa.; and George F. Weitzell, Accident.

HARRY C. EDWARDS

Mr. Edwards moved to Grantsville in 1921 and with his father engaged in the garage business. In 1928 Mr. and Mrs. Edwards purchased the Edwards' restaurant. He is credited with the idea of a water and sewer system for Grantsville, which was completed with a federal grant of funds, at a cost to the town of about $30,000.

In 1932 Mr. Edwards had a plan for county-wide schools which would have been possible to build at that time with Federal grants of $250,000, but he went up against too much opposition at that time, and a last stand was taken in the addition to the building at Grantsville, resulting in the building as it stands today.

When local interests took over the Grantsville Dairy he was pressed into service as manager and helped to build a firm market for dairy farmers. He served in the Maryland legislature from 1937 to 1939 and again from 1950 to the present.

Another project credited to Mr. Edwards' efforts is the restoration and preservation of the historical stone arch bridge spanning Casselman river, east of Grantsville. This structure was built in 1813 and carried the traffic of Route 40 until 1933. Plans have been completed to beautify and establish a roadside park area on land adjacent to the old and new bridges.

Mr. Edwards also played a part in the organization of the Grantsville Rotary club and served as the club's first president.

He was pointed out as still ready to assist in any venture for the benefit of Grantsville or of the county.

The presentation was made by C. O. Bender, past president.

Ross Speicher, president, made the presentation remarks for George F. Weitzel. Mr. Speicher pointed out that Mr. Weitzel's outstanding community service, was just what it said, his neighborliness and helpfulness to other people during the years of his life. He is a retired school teacher and a farmer of the Accident community.

The presentation to Mr. Cramblett was made by John Lichliter, past president.

On Friday evening, following the banquet Miss Brock, Miss Randol, Mrs. Hanst and Mrs. Mellenry will present a panel discussion on how the Food and Fashion Fair was carried out last year in Oakland.

Mrs. Fred Bull Will Speak At County Council

Mrs. Fred Bull, state president of the Parent-Teacher Council, will be the speaker at the final meeting of the Garrett County P.-T. A. council, to be held next Thursday evening, May 2, at the Southern High cafeteria. The dinner meeting will begin at 6:30 D. S. T.

Mrs. Bull's address will be on "Youth Looks to Parents." Mrs. William Rohie, state high school service chairman, also will speak on "High School Programs."

Other guests will include Dr. and Mrs. Adam Baer, Frostburg; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, Cumberland. Dr. Baer is state vice-president of District No. 1 which includes Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties. Mrs. Shafferman is president of the Allegany county council.

Garrett county's six lifetime P.-T. A. members will be recognized. New officers to be installed by Mrs. Bull will include Mrs. Irva Mickey, Grantsville, president; Michael Duda, Grantsville, first vice-president; Mrs. Marie Smith, Kitzmiller, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Melvin Kesner, Accident, secretary; John Capel, Friendsville, treasurer.

Landscaping Project At Southern High Nearing Completion

Another boost was given this week to the total landscaping project on the Southern High school grounds bordering on the Dennett Road. When completed, the facilities available will provide for the high school students, pupils attending the new elementary school now under construction, Little Leaguers, Pony Leaguers, track meets, tennis courts, skating pond, outdoor amphitheatre, picnic areas, and outdoor education projects for both agriculture and science classes.

The bulldozing project for the present has been completed, top soil replaced, and the seeding just about finished. The large graded area will provide a football practice field and high school baseball diamond. Both of these fields are necessary to replace the area taken from the high school for the location of the new elementary school, it was pointed out.

Future plans call for a skating and fish pond, two tennis courts, a cinder track for school track and field events, development of the small pond and surrounding area into an outdoor aquarium and biological laboratory, construction of seating facilities for the amphitheatre, a variety of plantings, and landscaping of the total area by the agriculture classes, and a road connecting the high school with the Dennett Road, to make the two schools more accessible to each other for pupil transportation.

Plans are now underway to secure the services of the National Guard in constructing the fish and skating pond. The use of the bulldozer is part of the National Guard training program. Prior to the plans for improvement of this area, it remains a large acreage of waste swamp land and according to Willard Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, presented an unsightly appearance. He pictured the total area when completed as being one of beauty and of great educational and recreational value to both young and old, as well as a source of pride for the entire community.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Having pledged to continue working for reductions in Federal spending and for subsequent tax cuts I am continually faced with the problem of deciding exactly what constitutes "true economy."

Perhaps the following remarks will give some indication of the perplexities and complications that can arise.

Federal Appropriations

According to custom, the House of Representatives originates and acts first on all appropriation bills.

These appropriations measures fall into two categories—those which are introduced for the following fiscal year, and those which are deficiency appropriations for the current fiscal year.

It is not infrequent that various Federal departments and agencies come to the Congress for deficiency allotments when they find that their operations have cost more than had been anticipated. Such was the case when the Post Office Department recently asked for an extra $47 million to cover its expenses until the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

Chain of Effects

In the meantime he ordered a curtailment of postal operations.

This action affected numerous employes and businesses, of course, and resulted in a chain of inconveniences and losses.

Let me give you an example.

Unpaid Bills

According to law, postal employes can be reimbursed up to $100 for the cost of their uniforms.

One of our Baltimore firms has been making some of these uniforms, but when the Post Office funds ran short there was no money to pay for them.

Consequently, the firm had to go to a bank to borrow money—at regular interest rates—to tide it over until the uniform vouchers could be honored.

You can see, therefore, that there can be scores of secondary effects from every act connected with an appropriations measure, and that is the reason it is so difficult to determine which so-called "economy" measures might actually cause extensive harm.

Thus far this session, progress has been rather slow on quite a few of the major bills.

Only half of the appropriation bills have been acted on in the House, and it is probable that when these 12 measures reach the Senate, there will be at least a week of debate on each. That amounts to three months. In addition, there are the school construction bill, the civil rights bill, the immigration bill and many others.

As I see it, the Congress will be in session until the end of August or later unless its pace is soon stepped up.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Pennies Make Nickles—Nickles Make Dollars

The difference between government and family spending is one of degree. Credit purchases to the contrary, the average family cannot, and should not, spend more than it earns. To all, the consequences of excessive debt and improvident expenditures are frightening. But the guardians of the public treasury have cast aside this basic doctrine of thrift and prudence.

Without funds available, no clear thinking person would consider membership in a special purpose organization. Yet, the United States is a member of a host of international agencies, and the expense of this participation increases year by year. In the last fiscal year, this so-called cooperative effort cost the American taxpayers $33,859,285. For fiscal 1958, $37,475,552 have been requested for these purposes—$20,603,337 is required for "dues" in the United Nations organization.

Likewise, a family living within its income should not purchase luxuries which it cannot afford at the moment. However, the Federal bureaucrats want $328,000,000 for air-conditioning public buildings. The army has asked for $300,000 to finance Sunday morning recreation for civilian employes at private rifle clubs, and $80,000 for travel for the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice. The Department of Defense wants to purchase 6,719 new vehicles at a cost of $14,386,900 and would spend an additional $6,598,000 for the rental of automobiles. The Foreign Agricultural Service seeks to double its travel allowance. $300,000 is requested for re-location of the greenhouses of the Botanical Garden.

These facts, and many others, selected at random from a 1,229 page publication entitled "The Budget of the United States Government for the Fiscal Year Ending June 30 1958," vividly confirm the conclusion that there is little general intention on the part of the budgeteers to accomplish an orderly retrenchment in government spending. Though the advocates of free spending and deficit financing will glibly try to justify all expenditures, it is in the constant multiplication of such items as cited that the country faces the dismal prospect of more fiscal instability, which eventually can only lead to national bankruptcy—the fervent hope of the Kremlin conspirators.

Most experts are in agreement that the proposed Federal budget is waterlogged, and therefore capable of reduction. That there is much waste and duplication in government spending is also conceded. If reason, sanity and soundness are to be restored to our fiscal policies, it must be done now—not later. To this end, I shall support all practicable reductions.

Group Celebrates 40 Years As Club

Forty years of activity as a Civic club was especially noted at a club luncheon at the William-James hotel, Oakland, on Tuesday afternoon.

It was in 1917 that the club became a federated organization with Mrs. E. Z. Tower as president.

Mrs. Tower extended best wishes for the club's future and cut the first piece of a three-tiered birthday cake when it came time for refreshments.

Souvenir booklets containing the list of charter members and officers and the object of the club, as well as present officers, had been prepared by the arrangements committee. Primary object of the club at that time was sanitation and it was recalled that with the cooperation of Mayor Hart at that time forty-five truck loads of rubbish were collected during a spring housecleaning of alleys, cellars, lots, etc.

Best wishes were read from charter members including Mrs. Thekla Fundenburg Weeks, Mrs. Ellwood Offutt, Mrs. B. H. Sincell, Miss Grace Jones and Mrs. E. H. Sincell.

Principal address at Tuesday's session was given by Mrs. W. A. Douglas, president of the Maryland Federation of Women's clubs, who spoke on "What It Means To a Club and Members to be Federated."

Mrs. Jay Bell, accompanied by Mrs. Neil Fraley, sang familiar songs with club members joining on the chorus. Mrs. W. W. Grant, program chairman, reviewed accomplishments in the past.

Other guests included Mrs. E. L. Baumgartner, president of the First District; Mrs. Tower, and Mrs. R. E. Sliger, of Frostburg, a former president and charter member. Mrs. Kenneth Lawton, president of the Junior Woman's club, presented the civic club with a loose leaf minute book.

At the business session with Mrs. O. T. Graser, president, presiding, it was voted to join the sponsorship of the Garrett County Playhouse for the coming season. Arranging the affair were Mrs. Ralph Weber, Mrs. Paul Naylor, Mrs. J. D. Darby, Mrs. W. S. Patterson.

Keep Ham Refrigerated

Following complaints from two counties concerning the storage of canned hams, Charley Miller, county sanitarian, cautioned this week that all canned hams should be kept under refrigeration.

Mr. Miller said following complaints an inspection was made and that hams were found on store counters at room temperature.

Many Are Planning To Sell At Market Area This Summer

Many people from various sections of the county have indicated to the Farm and Home Market committee that they are planning to participate in the market this summer which will be open every Saturday at McHenry from June 1 to August 31.

Some of these people include Mrs. Walter Fratz, Mrs. Charles Bowser, bread and rolls, jams, jellies; Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, smoked and frozen turkeys; Harry O'Brien, rugs, eggs, cream, from Accident.

Two County Anglers Fined In West Va.

Two Garrett County men paid a total of $375 in fines and costs in Magistrate Donald H. Rennie's court in Morgantown, W. Va., Monday on charges of alleged illegal fishing in Cooper's Rock State Forest.

The men were identified by Magistrate Rennie as Edward Frazee and Donald Frazee, both of Friendsville. Rennie said Donald Frazee was arrested on two charges of illegal fishing while Edward was charged with three violations.

Donald Frazee forfeited $63 for fine and costs to a charge of fishing without a license and $80.50 for fishing in a closed stream.

Edward Frazee forfeited $75 to a charge of fishing in a closed stream, an additional $75 to a charge of illegally fishing brook trout out of season, and $57.50 for fishing without a license.

They were arrested Sunday morning by Conservation Officer Wayne Huff and Park Custodian Roy Williamson.

Correction

An announcement of the engagement of Miss Woneda Killius, of Grantsville, which appeared in the March 28 issue, was not correct, according to a communication received this morning from Miss Killius.

She said the incorrect information was through no fault of this newspaper, but she wished it known that she is not engaged as was stated.

The Future Business Leaders of American club, at Northern High school at Cove, once again are receiving honors for the school. They are tentatively planning to attend a meeting of all state chapters on May 4, of which, members of the Northern Chapter will be present. On this date a spelling bee is to be held and they are entering two girls from their chapter. The two girls are Kathy Rush and Donna Watts.

There will be a public speaking contest for which Donna Watts will try. Her talk is on one part of the creed.

Miss Tacy Levering Is Wed to Officer

Miss Tacy Ann Levering, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Levering, Jr., of Roland Park, Baltimore, and a summer resident of Mt. Lake Park, was married last Saturday afternoon, April 20, at University Baptist church to Second Lieutenant William Richard Trippe, 3d, USAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Richard Trippe 2d, of St. Paul street, Baltimore.

The Rev. Dr. Vernon B. Richardson assisted by the Rev. Dr. Levering Evans, cousin of the bride, of Richmond, Va., performed the ceremony. A small reception was held at Mount Vernon club.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of white nylon chiffon and lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice. The bouffant skirt was designed with inserts of lace and ended in a sweep train. Her long veil of illusion, edged with antique lace, fell from a silk bandeau and she carried a bouquet of white tulips and pale blue delphiniums.

Mrs. Donald Kramer was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Jane Ryan, New York; Miss Constance Lieder, of Cincinnati, O.; Miss Roberta Reichenbach, Middlebury, Conn.; and Miss Linda Levering and Miss Jessie Levering, sisters of the bride. Sally Beth Turner, Wilmington, O., cousin of the bride, was the flower girl.

Mr. Trippe was best man for his son. Ushers included Wilson Keyser Levering 3d, brother of the bride; Walter Lauriston Black, Jr., Detroit, a cousin of the bridegroom; Garrison Corwin, Searsdale, N. Y.; Ensign Charles M. Marshall, USNR, Jericho Orchard Farm, New Hope, Pa.; Charles Worthington Hoff 3d, Joslma W. Miles 3d, George M. Callard and David Painter Mohr.

Mrs. Trippe is a graduate of Bryn Mawr School and Wellesley college. A granddaughter of Mrs. Wilson Keyser Levering and the late Mr. Levering and of Mrs. Austin F. Robinson and the late Dr. Robinson, all of Baltimore, she was presented to society four years ago at the Bachelors Cotillon. She is a provisional member of the Junior League.

Lieutenant Trippe, an alumnus of Menlo School, of Menlo Park, Cal., was graduated from Gilman School and from Yale University where he belonged to the Arnold Air Society. A member of the Maryland Club, the Baltimore Country club and the Sons of Colonial Wars, he is a grandson of the late Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Chamberlaine Trippe, of Royal Oak, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thomas Tubbs, of Denton. Lieutenant and Mrs. Trippe will live at Stallings Air Base in Kinston, N. C., where Lieutenant Trippe is awaiting reassignment.

Bids Are Sought For Forestry Camp

The State Department of Public Improvement soon will be seeking bids on the basic building construction at the state's second boys' forestry camp in this county, some four miles west of Lonaconing, according to Ralph D. Swauger, director.

A day camp at the site will begin the week of May 6, with Mr. Swauger and five to ten boys commuting from the first camp at Green Ridge to clean the land and execute other pre-construction work.

Sometime between May 15 and May 30 the Department of Public Improvement will award the contract for the basic building construction.

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin and other interested persons are expected to attend the groundbreaking ceremonies sometime the latter part of May.

Construction of the basic buildings is to be completed between June 15 and June 30. Early in July the first group of direct transferees from the two state training schools will arrive at the Garrett county camp. The boys and staff will complete the basic ground clearing during July and will begin planning and execution of plant completion and enlargement.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: Genesis 1-2
Devotional Reading: Psalm 104:14-24

God Made Us Last

Lesson for April 28, 1957

THE readers of this column will not all read Genesis in the same day. Some will take it pretty literally, others will read the early chapters in it as picture-stories, parables in half poetic form. All readers, it is hoped, can agree on one point: that whether we take these stories literally or as parables, the meaning is the same in any case. We do not have to go grubbing in obscure corners for the meanings and messages of Genesis. The book was not written for people with complicated minds. The meanings it conveys are on the surface, or so near it that the simplest readers can see them.

Dr. Foreman

The Earth Is Man's Home

From the second story of creation which we find in Genesis, in chapter 2, the story which concentrates on man himself, we can select some outstanding impressions which the story makes, and no doubt was intended to make. First of all, this earth is the home of man. That is its principal use. Man came late to the planet; God made us last. We did not make our appearance here till all was ready for us. Some thinkers have thought of man as a sort of homeless creature, dropped into this earth almost by accident, fitting in nowhere. Quite the contrary; man might be lonely and restless on some far galaxy, but not on this green earth. Man, furthermore, being at the top of the ladder of creation, is master of this planet. This does not mean he is master of the universe. It may be discovered some day, as the science-fiction boys have already suggested, that men may some day find themselves on another planet, but as intruders, only to be thrown out or destroyed. But on this earth man has a right to live, and to achieve mastery. In Genesis 1 (where the horizon is wider than in Gen. 2) man is told to subdue the earth and rule over it. In short, he is to work together with God in bringing order and completeness to the planet which is his rightful home.

Top of Creation

Let us pursue that thought about the top of creation a little further. This story in Genesis pictures man as made from dust and all other living things both plants and beasts and birds, are likewise sprung from the dust by the power of God. Man has a kind of kinship with all of life, and therefore as Albert Schweitzer has said, must have a reverence for life. Man cannot give life to himself nor to any other creature; and should be very slow about taking life of any sort. Nevertheless it is much nearer the truth to say that the creation is made for man, than that man is made for the rest of creation. Not that God intends everything in the world to be used. It is an interesting point that the trees of Eden are not all good for food; some of them are simply beautiful to see. The beauty of the world, sometimes its useless beauty (like a sunset) is for man alone, just as its usefulness sometimes its unbeautiful usefulness is appreciated best by man alone. Only man can heat the arctic and cool the tropics; only man can bring his foods from the ends of the earth.

"One Man Is No Man"

The Greeks had a slogan: One man is no man, meaning that we each need the help and companionship of others to live at all, as human beings. The story of the first man as told in Genesis illustrates this in a moving way. God sees that this man is incomplete, though he is set in the midst of great beauty and has work to occupy mind and hands. So God produces all the other animals; but man can only talk about them, not with them. So at last another human being is made. Before, there was only a man alone; now there is a human race. This is not science, not intended to be; but it is a profound truth. Man is made for community. Without it, sinks to the brutes' level. In community a man becomes human. And yet if the only companionship man finds is human, he has still missed his destiny. For man was made for fellowship, above all, with God. Only as friend of God can man become what God intended him to be.

Along The Potomac

Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde • 6th District, Maryland

The heat generated by the controversy over additional funds to operate the Post Office Department through June of this year may thaw the freeze on budgetary reform. Congress and the Postmaster General were both at fault in the recent incident. Congress, because it has failed to modernize our budgetary and appropriating machinery, and for permitting supplemental and deficiency appropriations to become a habit. The Postmaster General, for failing to live within the original funds granted by Congress.

The public, Federal employees, and the Government itself suffers from the practice of department and agency heads constantly returning to Congress for deficiency appropriations. True, emergencies are unpredictable, but "emergencies" have become a custom with many Federal agencies. The Executive branch ought to understand that when Congress, after careful study, appropriates funds to run the agency or program, it is really the people telling the Executive branch just how much it can have.

Perhaps the unnecessary and high-handed action of the Postmaster General in shutting down postal service will result in improvements in the appropriating and spending of the people's money. It may be that this Congress will adopt a system of money bills based on annual accrued expenditures—a system that would eliminate many of our present difficulties.

The Air Force has announced plans for the construction of a $1 million administrative building in Rockville. The new installation will be used by the 1009th Special Weapons squadron presently housed in a temporary structure in Washington. When completed the installation will employ about 300 military and civilian personnel in administrative duties.

I have recently appeared before the House Rules committee in support of my bill to set up a joint Congressional committee to study the growth and expansion of the District of Columbia and metropolitan Washington. I was greatly encouraged by the attitude of the members of the committee.

This is America's Heartland where, last year, Columbia Gas System delivered more natural gas to more people than ever before. This year Columbia expects to spend about $87 million on construction . . . to keep up with growing demand!

You Live in a Very Special Part of America!

One reason is that America's Heartland is "natural gas country". . . with millions of people working at good jobs because industry here makes such excellent use of this flexible, uniform, low-cost fuel.

Natural gas was first discovered in this region. The techniques of gas distribution were developed here. Many of the great Appalachian fields now serve as natural underground storage reservoirs . . . assuring a nearby supply of natural gas for winter use.

Families here use more natural gas per household than in any other section of the country. And every year industry in America's Heartland requires more of this clean, efficient fuel.

Yes, it's a progressive, growing region, and your gas company's ability to serve continues to grow with it! Remember: gas does it better, for less.

COLUMBIA GAS SYSTEM

CUMBERLAND AND ALLEGHENY GAS COMPANY

Part of the Columbia Gas System

DAIMLER-BENZ CURTISS-WRIGHT Studebaker-Packard

These three companies employing 107,000 people, with sales in 1956 totaling one billion, two hundred sixty-six million dollars, announce the signing of agreements providing for a fully-integrated program of engineering, production, sales and service of automotive vehicles: automotive, marine and industrial gasoline and diesel engines; and diesel and gasoline fuel injection systems. All of these companies have been associated for years with quality, precision manufacture and high-performance products.

Pursuant to these agreements, Daimler-Benz and Curtiss-Wright have formed an American company — Curtiss-Wright and Mercedes-Benz, Inc. — to provide for the development and sale of Daimler-Benz products in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

Studebaker-Packard Corporation in signing the agreements will now make available to its dealers a full line of domestic and imported sports cars, convertibles, sedans and station wagons — ranging in price from under $2,000 up to $13,000 — gasoline and diesel powered trucks and all-wheel drive utility vehicles.

Mercedes-Benz cars and distinctive Mercedes-Benz features — such as fine coachwork, swing axles and transmissions — will be exclusive to Studebaker-Packard.

The Utica-Bend Division of Curtiss-Wright Corporation, now building diesel engines for the U. S. Navy, will import and manufacture Mercedes-Benz diesel engines and diesel and gasoline engine fuel injection systems under the agreements. The engines will range from a 4-cylinder model of 25 h.p. to a supercharged 8-cylinder model of 600 h.p.

Further agreements are being negotiated between Daimler-Benz and Curtiss-Wright Corporation for the interchange of rights for the manufacture of aircraft products.

Secret Weapon . . . .

Scientists recently unveiled "a secretly developed American invention . . . which they say promises to guide any kind of craft—plane, missile, ship or submarine—free from enemy interference—to any chosen spot on earth," according to an Associated Press dispatch from Cambridge, Mass.

"Heart of the system (developed by Massachusetts Institute of Technology) is a completely free-floating gyroscope sealed in a little four-inch cylinder the size of a tomato can. They say this incredibly complicated mechanism always remains aimed in a fixed position in relation to the universe independent of the earth's motion. And it can't be affected by other natural phenomena such as weather, sunspots, and magnetic influences . . . the scientists added."

James C. Ingebretsen, president of Spiritual Mobilization, of Los Angeles, California, comes up with a good comparison. Said he:

"Well, now, if we human beings all had a similar device inside us that would keep us lined up on an absolute moral standard, the millenium would be here, wouldn't it? Actually, conscience, when rightly adjusted, pretty well serves this purpose. The trouble, of course, is that too often we 'take over' from conscience and steer our lives in ways it does not direct. How can be honestly claim to be scientific until we apply to the guidance of our lives as much intelligence as we do to the guidance of an airplane or submarine?"

The man really has something in those remarks.

To Make Survey Of Recent Cattle Losses In County

Specialists from a number of departments of the University of Maryland Extension service will make a survey in Garrett county to determine the cause of recent extensive cattle losses here, it was learned this week.

It was estimated some 300 cattle had died within the past year from an ailment called "Grass Tetany."

J. E. Foster, head of the department of animal husbandry at the university, said the seriousness of the situation in this county was called to his attention on April 25, and a group of specialists was called for a conference the following day at which it was decided that steps of investigating the trouble here should be taken immediately.

Attending the meeting at College Park last Friday were Dr. A. L. Brueckner, director Livestock Sanitary service; Dr. I. C. Hant, director Agricultural Experiment station; Dr. P. E. Nystrom, director Agricultural Extension service; Dr. R. F. Davis, head dairy department; Dr. J. C. Shaw, dairy department; Dr. E. C. Leffel, animal husbandry department; Dr. Foster, Prof. B. T. Whittle, animal husbandry department; Dr. J. H. Axley, agronomy department; Dr. S. J. Plumer, livestock sanitary service; John Magruder, county agent leader; Dr. R. E. Wagner, head agronomy department, Robert Bruce, assistant county agent leader; and John H. Carter, county agricultural agent, Oakland.

Foster said the group recognized that the so-called Grass Tetany was somewhat world-wide and that a solution would probably take a long time. Mr. Carter said the disease was known in West Virginia but that Garrett county was the first county in Maryland to be affected.

Following a brief review of the situation by Mr. Carter, Mr. Whittle spent two days in the county and Dr. Plumer inspected some of the cattle here.

It was determined to make a preliminary survey and Dr. Shaw, Dr. Plumer, Dr. Frank Bentz, of the agronomy department, and Dr. Leffel will spend May 6, 7 and 8 in this county with Mr. Carter and the local veterinarians. They plan to inspect affected and unaffected herds and then gather soil, feed, and blood samples for chemical analysis under both conditions. Mr. Carter is contacting a number of cattle raisers concerning the inspections next week.

The disease seems to be affecting beef cattle more than dairy cattle although some of the latter group have also died. There are more than 9,000 dairy cattle in the county with a somewhat less number of beef cattle.

Mt. Lake Veteran Victim of Drowning

David Paul Messenger, 22-year-old forester and husband of Leota M. Knotts Messenger, was drowned last Saturday afternoon in Little Sandy River at Braudonville, W. Va.

Authorities said Messenger went fishing in a home-made boat with two other young men and that when he tried to start the outboard motor he lost his balance and disappeared under the water almost immediately.

A native of Hazelton, W. Va., he was born September 24, 1934, a son of Mrs. Edith Messenger Weber, of Oakland, and the late Lester Messenger.

A veteran of four years service in the air force, he served 14½ months in Korea and was a member of the American Legion. He also was a member of the Moose lodge.

Besides his widow and mother, he is survived by his stepfather, David Weber, Oakland, two half-brothers, James Record, Seattle, Wash., Larry Record, Oakland; three half-sisters, Nancy Lee, Patricia and Margie Record, all of Oakland; and his grandmother, Mrs. Ersie Hoff, Terra Alta, W. Va.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Loch Lynn Baptist church by Rev. Paul S. Parker, D.D., pastor of the Deep Creek Baptist church. Interment was in Terra Alta cemetery.

Offices Remodeled

The office of the County Treasurer has been completely remodeled within the past two weeks. Part of the room in the court house was re-plastered, while the entire area was repainted. The old straight counter was removed and replaced with an ell-type counter that gives the treasurer, Joseph H. Welch, much additional space back of it. During the renovation the treasurer used the office of the Board of Supervisors of Elections, just across the hall.

Remodeling of the room had been recommended by several previous grand juries.

The court room also was renovated recently under contract. A new acoustical ceiling was added, and carpeting placed in the area around the jury section and judge's bench. Draperies also have been added.

Fishing License Fee Increased to $3.00

The cost of a resident angler's license from $1.50 to $3.00 will become effective on June 1, as the result of legislation enacted at the recent session of the Maryland legislature.

Licenses are valid through December 31. A special Potomac river license, for residents of West Virginia, Virginia and the District of Columbia only, was increased from $1.75 to $3. The three day tourist non-resident angler's license fee was also increased from $1.75 to $3. The fee for the full term annual non-resident angling license remains the same, at $10.

There was one other change. Beginning June 1 a boy or girl must obtain a license to fish when reaching the 16th birthday. At the present time the age limit is 14. This effects both resident and non-resident.
